

Russian Form of Government Will Fail, Says 'Y' Man

Peasants' Refusal to Fall in Line With Communistic Plan Responsible, Asserts I. R. Lines.

Russia will never succeed in establishing a communistic form of government, according to I. R. Lines, former secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Omaha, who has just returned from a year's sojourn in that country. He addressed the members of the Kiwanis club at noon Friday at the Rome hotel.

"For the last year I have had occasion to talk with many of the men who are at the head of Russian affairs. The main reason for the failure of the communistic government is the attitude of the peasants toward all things communistic.

Peasants Balk at Plan.

Peasants were given to understand that if the revolution was successful all lands of the nobles and government would be theirs to own individually. When the revolution proved successful, the peasants seized the land and held it. The communists could not prevail upon them to farm the lands and dispose of the produce, according to communistic ideas. They had been so long that freedom of actual possession of the land made them arbitrary to the workings of the communistic plan. They will not join with the present plan of government, but will retain the land, farm it and dispose of their products to their own benefit.

"While Americans think the plans for the soviets and communists are visionary, I can assure you that Lenin and his helpers are intellectual and high-minded. Lenin is efficient, but his plans are beyond the understandings of the peasants.

Preaching of Class Hatred.

"Another reason for the failure of communism is the preaching of class hatred by Lenin and other leaders. They preach continually that the workers must rule. This has been taken literally and only those men who actually work with their hands are now considered workers. The brain workers are just now considered in Russian affairs."

"Lenin is attempting to follow the teachings of Karl Marx to arrive at his goal of a communistic government. He has placed into effect plans suggested by Marx with many of his own ideas injected. The plan will not succeed.

Deputy Nickerson Becomes Granddad; Eloping Son Is Papa

A telephone call to the federal building yesterday afternoon caused J. B. Nickerson, chief deputy marshal, to drop his work for the nonce and swell out his chest.

"I'm a granddad," he announced proudly.

The young heir arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paige Nickerson, 2810 Manderson street.

Paige was the first of Nickerson's 19-year-old twin boys to run off and get married. He eloped to Papillon two years ago and married Miss Eva Cunningham, daughter of A. C. Cunningham.

Last July the other twin, Paul, emulated his brother's example. He and Miss Edna Pruitte, 17, slipped away to Council Bluffs and were married before the new law forbidding the marriage of persons under 21 without consent of their parents went into effect.

Paige Nickerson was only 17 at the time of his marriage.

Elk Diploma Memorializing Buffalo Bill Signed Here

An elaborate diploma memorializing the date, April 16, 1897, when the late Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), became a member of the Omaha Elk club, was sent yesterday to the Buffalo Bill museum on top of Lookout Mountain, Colorado, where the pioneer Indian scout is buried.

Walter C. Nelson and Otto Nielsen, exalted ruler and secretary, respectively, of the Omaha Elk, signed the diploma. Johnny Baker, crack rifle shot and former associate of Buffalo Bill, requested that the diploma be hung in the museum.

Deaths and Funerals

Funeral services for Mrs. Lenora Dietz, pianist, Omaha woman who died Thursday, will be conducted this afternoon at 3 at the Dietz home, 419 South Thirty-ninth street.

Gustave E. Shukert, 55, proprietor of the Shukert Fur store, Fifteenth and Harvey streets, died at Nicholas Senn hospital Friday after an illness of two months. He had been a resident of the city for 33 years. He was born in Dresden, Germany. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2 at the home. Burial will be in West Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. Carrie E. Herring, 50, died September 25, at her home, 2550 Marcy street. She is survived by her two children, Velma and Harold. Funeral services were held Wednesday, September 22, from Gustafson's mortuary. Burial was in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. T. P. Hatchford, who formerly lived at 448 Lincoln boulevard, Omaha, but recently of San Francisco, died Wednesday morning following an operation. She is survived by her husband, T. P. Hatchford; three daughters, Fay, Mary and Wilhelmina of San Francisco; a son, Jess A. Hatchford of Omaha; and three sisters, Mrs. M. McViehan and Mrs. Edward Downey of Omaha, and Miss Margaret Hagan of Vail, Ia. The funeral will be held this morning at San Francisco.

Bread Line May Be Needed This Winter, Says Mayor Dahlman

A bread line may be established in Omaha this winter to take care of the hungry unemployed, according to Mayor Dahlman. The mayor said that he was against a bread line and that it should be resorted to only as a last resort.

"While the city is carrying on a program of improvements it will not afford men employment all winter," he said. "The part plan of employment is also unsatisfactory as manufacturers should not be compelled to hire men they can do without."

Mayor Dahlman will recommend, should a bread line be necessary, that all organizations, under one head, contribute toward the relief of the unemployed.

Says He Put Half Million in Tram Co.

Wattles Asserts $1,000,000 Was Added to Value of Property by Consolidation.

G. W. Wattles, chairman of the board of directors of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company, said yesterday he invested $500,000 and received securities at the time of the consolidation of the local traction companies in 1903.

Mr. Wattles was testifying at the city hall before the Nebraska State Railway commissioners in connection with the cross-examination of witnesses regarding the physical valuation report submitted by the company to the commission. The valuation report is the basis of the company's application for a permanent rate of fare, the present rate being temporary.

Mr. Wattles' testimony showed that at the time of the consolidation there was added to the value of the property $1,000,000, representing the lease of the Council Bluffs lines and the river bridge and $1,470,000 in cash received for bonds. The commission was told the old company carried $5,000,000 in stock and $2,500,000 in bonds.

"There was $7,000,000 going values in the property at the time of the consolidation," Mr. Wattles said.

Five Navy and Four Army Planes to Try For Pulitzer Trophy

In the lineup of speed ships for the Pulitzer trophy air race at the International Aero congress in Omaha in November will be five navy ships and a quartet of army planes, according to a telegram received yesterday by the Omaha Aero club from Washington.

Captain H. E. Hartney, American "ace" and secretary of the Aero Club of America, will fly one of the army planes, the telegram stated.

Captain Hartney recently inspected the site of the aero congress in North Omaha.

Billion Marks Is Last Estimate for Oppau Damage

Berlin, Sept. 29.—Latest estimates fix the material damage resulting from the recent explosion at the Badische Anilin- und Fabrik company's plant at Oppau at 1,000,000,000 marks.

"Don'ts" Issued For Kite-Flyers

Power Company Manager Warns Boys Not to Use Copper Wire for String.

Beware of danger when flying kites, was the warning issued last night by J. E. Davidson, general manager of the Nebraska Power company, to Omaha boys. Several boys received slight injuries in the last week because they used thin copper wire as "kite strings," he said.

Mr. Davidson said that a wire kite string coming in contact with a charged wire may form a circuit and might cause death or serious injury to the boy flying the kite.

A warning also was issued to boys to refrain from throwing copper wire over "live" electric wires in order to obtain a flash of fire.

"This is a dangerous sport," said

Mr. Davidson Issued These "Don'ts" for Kite-Flying:

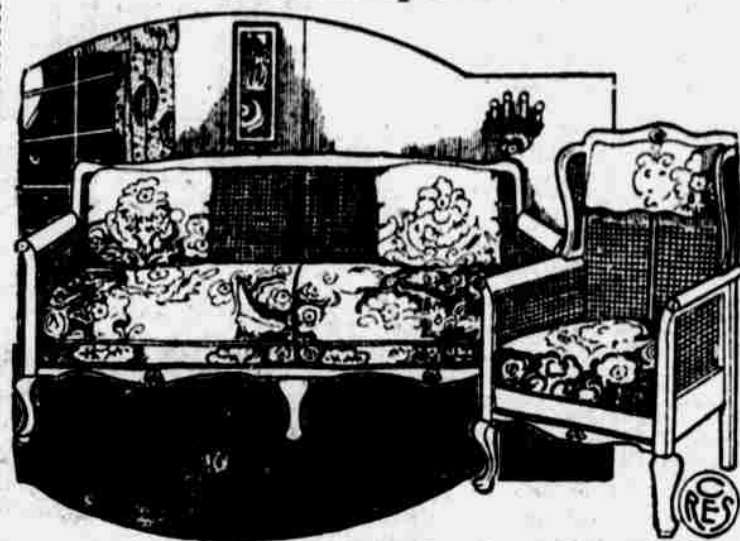

"Don't use wire for kite strings. Don't fly kites in the neighborhood of electric wires. Don't fly a kite in rainy or misty weather."

Knitted dresses are being shown in the smart shops.
