

Salvation Army Offers Help in Aiding Jobless

Unemployment Conference to Be Held in Omaha Thursday Begins to Assume Significance.

The unemployment conference called to meet in Omaha next Thursday begins to assume larger proportions with the receipt of telegraphic orders from Washington headquarters of the Associated General Contractors.

The mayor, city commissioners and entire membership of the Chamber of Commerce will be invited to attend the luncheon-meeting to be held that day at the Chamber. Acting on the theory that construction is the key to the present situation, general contractors have been asked by Herbert Hoover to head the back-to-normalcy program. A flying squadron of their national officers, W. O. Winston of Minneapolis; W. A. Rogers, Chicago; F. L. Canford and D. A. Garber, New York, and G. W. Bushel of Washington arrive Thursday morning to present the message of the recent unemployment conference called by President Harding.

David Larson, commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, is cooperating with Rodman M. Brown, local manager of the George Stiles Construction company, in arranging the meeting.

The Salvation Army will open a soup kitchen and house ex-soldiers who are out of work this winter, if necessary. H. E. Roubil, state secretary, notified William Ritchie, Jr., state commander of the American Legion yesterday.

"We will assist you in finding employment and will work with your relief committee in every possible way," the telegram read.

A commercial report submitted to the Chamber of Commerce yesterday indicated a recovery from business depression in many lines in Nebraska.

Junior C. of C. Drive for New Members in Full Swing

With Guy Burns and J. H. Negele at the helm, the drive for 100 new members for the junior division of the Chamber of Commerce is in full swing. Latest applications are from F. L. Campbell, W. D. Doss, J. Carl Hess, George Stocking, S. H. Elwood, Lawrence Ortmann, Lee Huff, Jr., Wyman Robbins, Edward G. Perley, E. W. Welch, H. V. Burkley, Jr., and John Pollack.

The drive for new members will close November 1. The Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce is composed of young business men from the ages of 18 to 26.

Truman Redfield is president. Thursday is the permanent meeting day of the Junior Division each week.

Husband Is Opposed to Wife Writing Scenarios

Ambitions to shine as a movie scenario writer caused domestic difficulties in the home of Frank J. Jones and his wife, Floyd M. Jones, according to the husband's answer, filed yesterday in district court, to the wife's petition for divorce.

The husband alleges that Mrs. Jones neglected five small children while she wrote movie sketches.

Mrs. Jones alleged that last May her husband gave her $85 and two of the children and thrust her out into the world to make her way. Mr. Jones lives at McGrew, Neb.

Swain Buys Pretties for Lover With Check; Arrested

Edward Swoboda, 24, 1906 South Thirtieth street, loved Katherine Schmidt, loved her so much that he wanted to shower her with pretty things. So he went to the Thomas Kilpatrick & Co. store Saturday and bought plentifully, stating he would call for the things Monday.

He tendered a check for $35. When he called at the store yesterday, Al Sinclair, emergency police officer, was waiting for him and escorted him to the police station. The store people say the check is no good.

Date for Frank Cirian Trial Has Not Been Set

Date for the trial of Frank Cirian, charged with the fatal shooting of Joe Moran at the "Hole-in-the-Wall" more than a week ago, following an argument, has not been set. Chief Deputy County Attorney Raymond C. Colley announced yesterday. Cirian, who was at liberty on $25,000 bond, surrendered to police when Moran died of his wound, and is being held without bond pending the trial. He pleaded not guilty in police court on a first degree murder charge.

Brief City News

Chauffeur Held—Walter Webber, negro, 2123 Seward street, is being held by the police to await the outcome of injuries suffered by Mrs. J. C. Wagen, 923 North Twenty-fifth street. It is alleged that the woman was struck by an automobile driven by Webber on Sunday.

Weather Freakish—Sunday's heat of 88 degrees after 3 p. m. was the hottest ever recorded here on October 18, according to M. V. Robins, local government meteorologist. The temperature was freakish yesterday, due to Omaha being in the center of the low pressure area.

Damage Suit on Trial—District Judge Day is hearing a damage action brought by Veronika Truka, administratrix of the estate of Stefan Truka, claiming $10,000 damages against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and the National Stone company of Louisville, Neb.

Hurt in Auto Crash—W. D. and Marjorie Current, brother and sister, 1402 North Sixty-first street, were injured yesterday morning when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Ivor Gabrielson, 3019 De-catur street. The Currents were taken to Nicholas Senn hospital.

Denies Premises Marriage—Answering a breach of promise case suit in district court John Appleby, 77, wealthy farmer, denies that he ever promised to marry Anna Appleby, 48, his divorced sister-in-law. Mrs. Appleby alleges that she was to have been married May 1, this year, but that Appleby instead married a fortune teller of Council Bluffs.

Dressmaking Course

Most every woman would just love to know how to make her own clothes, but few women know just how to go about it.

Burgess-Nash is offering to all Omaha women the chance to learn how to make, perfectly, any garment that they desire. Beginning Monday, Oct. 24, there will be a four weeks' course in dressmaking and tailoring, given under Mrs. Judith Blackburn, an experienced teacher of this practical art. Enrollment fee is $5.00, but this is the only charge for the entire four weeks' course of expert instruction.

Enroll now in time for the first introductory lessons. Two free lectures will be given October 24 and 25 in our Auditorium, Fifth Floor.
