

Attack Charged In Suit Against Public Official

County Commissioner Denies Allegations Made by Former Employee Who Seeks $30,000.

Antonia Jankowski, South Side, former charwoman in the county court house, filed a $30,000 damage action in district court yesterday against Charles Unitt, chairman of the board of county commissioners.

Commissioner Unitt asserts the charges are false and that he had an intimation from the woman of this action when she quit the county service on October 15.

The petition filed by Attorney R. Y. Organ, in behalf of Mrs. Janowski, has three counts, the first alleging that on or about July 25, of this year she was attacked by Commissioner Unitt.

On two occasions, the petition alleges, the commissioner dragged the charwoman around the rooms of the county board.

Mrs. Jankowski alleges that she suffered a nervous shock and distress of mind.

Unitt Denies Charges. Commissioner Unitt made this statement:

"Mrs. Jankowski came to me with her husband last July and asked for work. She told me her husband was an ex-serviceman. She is a little soft. Not long before she quit the court house work in October she told me that J. Campbell, the night superintendent of the court house, was keeping close tabs on her work and she added that either she or Campbell would have to go. I told her there was nothing to it. Later she telephoned me at the home and said her baby was ill and that Campbell would not let her off, adding that I was the boss and could let her go home. I came down to the court house. She was insistent that Campbell should be fired. When I refused to fire Campbell she told me she was going to make it hot for me and would make me pay for it. Her husband also called on me at that time. I deny everything in the woman's allegations. There is nothing in the charges that I assaulted her."

Mrs. Janowski is 30 years old.

Cut in Rediscout Rates Is Completed

Washington, Nov. 5.—Completion of the general reduction of rediscout rates in all 12 federal reserve districts was announced yesterday by the federal reserve board, with the approval of reductions in the Cleveland rate from 5 1/2 to 5 per cent, and in the Minneapolis rate from 6 to 5 1/2 per cent.

The rates in these districts are effective Monday while reductions in the other districts are already in effect. The new schedule of rediscout rates, which covers paper of all classes and maturities, is as follows: Boston, New York and Philadelphia, 4 1/2 per cent; Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and San Francisco, 5 per cent; Richmond, Atlanta, Minneapolis and Dallas, 5 1/2 per cent.

Colorado Board Allows Cut in Miners' Wages

Denver, Nov. 5.—The Colorado state industrial commission today terminated its temporary order restoring the wage scale in effect prior to September 1, in Huerfano and Las Animas counties in mines operated by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

This action permits the company to put into effect wage scales inaugurated September 1, last, in which reductions were approximately 30 per cent.

In the Gipsy Camp

There was prof Friday night that the influence of the Gipsy Smith campaign is more than local. There was a delegation of more than 100 from Ashland, Neb.; about 50 came from Omaha; 10, 200 miles; three, 400 miles; and one man was 500 miles from home. Bishop Stuntz traveled 800 miles to reach Omaha in time to be present at the service. He offered the prayer preceding the sermon. Gipsy Smith came farthest of all, 5,000 miles.

As a reward for their faithful services during the revival, the members of the choir will be entertained at a social next Friday night. The complete plans of the event are to be announced later.

Sam Bavier, the oldest settler in Nebraska, was in attendance at the service Friday night.

Two-Minute Sermons

Written Especially for The Bee by Gipsy Smith

The first book I ever read, after the Bible, was not a masterpiece. I can see that now, but never will I forget the impression it made on that Gipsy boy. It widened my range of thought and helped me to discover the world and its wonders.

It was only a novel, and was called "Andrew Marvell and His Friends." The hero was a poet and statesman who by his stand for right incurred the wrath of the king. There was a love story in it that made it fascinating, too.

From that time on I devoured books to improve my mind and to learn to control the language. Association with men and books has done this for me, and will do it for anyone.

But Bible reading and fellowship with God through private prayer come first.

Once a person has decided to live a Christian life, these two are the best steps to take in order to cultivate the holy inward spirit of God. Let it be understood from one who has passed through the experience, that there are certain things absolutely essential to the growth of the Divine within us.

In the first place, read the Bible.

The Apostle Peter prayed that the people to whom he wrote might grow in grace and in knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ, a free gift, given to those who are perfectly worthless, as an overflow gift to those who accept Christ as their personal Savior.

I am quoting language every word of which can be backed by the Holy Word of God. Grace is the bestowal of overflowing love—the love of God. But knowledge is something I must seek after. I know the Holy Spirit will help those to understand the word who searcheth, but the Scriptures must be searched.

One of the Palmists long ago found this out and said: "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against Thee."

If a man is a constant student of the Bible he will know how God feels about life, righteousness and sin, and how God would have him act with regard to those about him.

Everything in the shape of good books that helps one to understand the Word is good to read. The Bible is the master book of all ages, but there are several other books that I can't travel without. The writings of Spurgeon, the great London preacher, and of Dr. Joseph Parker are examples.

Of secular literature I like George Eliot, Thackeray, Dickens, Scott and Emerson. Oliver Wendell Holmes pleases me, and many other poets will be found refreshing and helpful to the spirit. Most modern works are poorly written, but there are some American writers I am very fond of. Jean Straton Porter knows the woods so well she might be a Gipsy. Kate Douglas Wiggin, Alice Hegan Rice and the author of "Pollyanna" are pure, sweet, healthy writers.

Each nation would be permitted to maintain not more than a fixed proportion of destroyers, submarines and other subsidiary ships. Limitation of the number of naval airplanes is recognized as a difficult problem because of the ease of evasion of an agreement in this particular. Airplanes constructed in large numbers, ostensibly for commercial purposes, would be instantly available for war uses.

Parity With British. Under the American plan, practically a parity of the British and American navies would be established with a wide gap between their strength and that of Japan. This would mean the abandonment of considerable naval construction already provided for by all three nations.

The American navy is now nearly equal in strength to the British and would be stronger than the British in first class capital ships and gun power upon completion of the present American building plan.

The British government is known to be in favor of an agreement which would produce a parity of the British and American navies.

U. S. Proposals for Arms Conference Will Include Agreement to Keep Forces Within Definite Limits.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The American proposals for the limitation of naval armaments by the big powers were completed yesterday and will be submitted to the delegates from Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy as soon as the international conference gets under way.

Under the plan worked out by the Navy department and approved by the American delegation, the great naval powers would agree to halt competitive building of battle craft and keep their navies within limits strictly defined in the agreement, limits deemed ample for purely defensive purposes.

Capital Ship Taken as Unit. The capital ship is taken as the unit of naval strength in the American plan. Each party to the compact would maintain not more than the number of capital ships fixed in the agreement and would construct no additional capital ships except to replace those obsolete.

Each nation would be permitted to maintain not more than a fixed proportion of destroyers, submarines and other subsidiary ships. Limitation of the number of naval airplanes is recognized as a difficult problem because of the ease of evasion of an agreement in this particular.

Airplanes constructed in large numbers, ostensibly for commercial purposes, would be instantly available for war uses.

Parity With British. Under the American plan, practically a parity of the British and American navies would be established with a wide gap between their strength and that of Japan.

This would mean the abandonment of considerable naval construction already provided for by all three nations. The American navy is now nearly equal in strength to the British and would be stronger than the British in first class capital ships and gun power upon completion of the present American building plan.

The British government is known to be in favor of an agreement which would produce a parity of the British and American navies.

There are certain conditions on which the United States would be willing to agree not to fortify the Philippines and Guam in return for the pledge of Japan not to fortify outlying islands in the Pacific. This would be deemed a safe procedure if the Anglo-Japanese alliance were abrogated, for reasons that may become clearer before long.

In this connection it is worth reporting that the British government is understood to have taken the position that it would view with reluctance the transfer of the Philippines to any other power and to have informed Washington. This is doubly interesting in view of the reported decision of the British government to transfer a large portion of its navy to the Pacific to be based on Singapore.

The inference is that if the Anglo-Japanese alliance were dissolved the British could be relied upon actively to deter the Japanese from attacking the Philippines instead of remaining merely neutral as British would be obligated to do so under the terms of the alliance in the event of war between the United States and Japan.

Childhood Love Bubble Bursts; Divorce Sought

Ex-Widower Asserts Old-Time Sweetheart Failed to Prepare Meals and Left Within Week.

A revived childhood romance was revealed as a failure in a petition for divorce filed in district court yesterday.

Wilbur R. Greenbun lost his wife by death several years ago, leaving him with four motherless children. His thoughts returned to the days of his own childhood and he remembered a little sweetheart, Carrie, with whom he had played back in Indiana.

Wilbur and Carrie were married in St. Louis last March.

But Carrie failed to prepare meals for the family and took no interest in the little ones. Wilbur charges in his petition, although he was a "faithful, loving husband."

The second wife stayed just one week, it is further alleged, and now Wilbur seeks freedom in the courts. Greenbun is employed in the county surveyor's office in the court house.

Plans to Electrify East Coast Industries Made

Washington, Nov. 5.—Secretary Fall today submitted to President Harding the analysis made by the geological survey of a comprehensive system for generating and distributing electricity to transportation lines and industries in the north Atlantic coast region between Boston and Washington. The survey was authorized by congress.

The engineers who made the survey reported that 970 miles of 220,000 volt lines and five times that mileage in 110,000 volt lines, would be needed.

The 1,200 miles of wire now carrying 33,000 volts and over would be operated as simple distribution lines for local industries.

Electrification of the Boston-Washington area, according to the report would save 50,000,000 tons of coal annually by 1930 or $190,000,000 in fuel expenditures, while electrification of the railroads would save "11 to 19 per cent on their investment."

Clifford Mudge Pays $250 Mann Act Fine

Clifford C. Mudge appeared in federal court yesterday and paid a fine of $250 on a charge of violating the Mann act in the transportation of Frances Reeme from McPherson, Kan., to Omaha.

Mudge was surprised here by his wife, Mrs. Edith Mudge, in the summer of 1919, when she found him and Miss Reeme living in sumptuous apartments at the St. Regis.

They fled just before she arrived on the scene. Various court actions have been started by Mrs. Mudge since then, but today was the first time that Mudge appeared in court.

Do your feet hurt, too? Mine did until last week. This week has been one of the most pleasant I can remember. Do you recall how I used to complain with painful feet? Well, sir, last week I went down and told my foot troubles to one of the Foot Fitters at Stryker's—the Douglas Shoe Store. The way that chap fitted me up was certainly a relief to aching feet. My friends ask: What stopped the pain so quickly? I say Grant Flexated Arch Shoes which are carefully fitted to the feet at Will S. Stryker's DOUGLAS SHOE STORE One Seventeen North Sixteenth Street.

Get Back Your Grip on Health. Every man and woman is born with just so much nerve force or nerve capital—some with more than others. Thousands inherit weak nerves because their nerve force has been squandered by their ancestors. Your system can only make or create about so much nerve force every twenty-four hours, and if from any cause you use it up faster than it is made, you are bound in time to become a nervous breakdown with all its terrible tortures and alarming symptoms. In such cases, it is often worse than foolish to take stimulating medicines or narcotics. drugs. What you need is to take something that puts more nerve force into your nerves and more iron into your blood. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This form of iron will not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which people usually take. Nuxated Iron may therefore be termed as both a blood and a nerve food as it feeds strength-giving iron to your blood and the principal chemical ingredient of active living nerve force to your brain and nerve cells. At all drug stores. Take Nuxated Iron.
