

Heart of New York Stilled in Honor Of Unknown Hero

Vast Crowd at Madison Square Garden Hears Services at Arlington National Cemetery.

New York, Nov. 12.—New York's throbbing heart of trade was stilled yesterday in reverent tribute to that heroic hero, forever stilled, that was laid to rest with the highest honors the world could pay, in Arlington National cemetery.

At the same moment, the city's wheels of industry dropped into silence; transportation ceased, tugs and ferries stood in the harbor, telephone service was suspended; telegraph instruments ceased their clatter; citizens everywhere—in their homes, in their offices, in the great railroad terminals, even on the streets—stood with bowed heads offering prayers for the dead and for the perpetuation of the peace he died to win.

Flags at Half Mast.

Flags at half mast flew throughout the city. Public buildings, military posts, visiting ships in the harbor—ships that bear the flags of nearly all the nations of the world—were at half mast.

Observance of the sacred moment centered at Madison Square Garden, where telephonic amplifying devices had been set up to connect Arlington and New York.

Catch Every Word.

From that moment until the last tremulous strain of "Taps" died away, the audience was in spirit with the vast concourse at Arlington.

Every word that was spoken; every hymn that was sung; descriptions of the casket with the military medals of eight nations and with the wreaths of two nations' war mothers—all came over the wires to the mourners in and around the garden.

So securely was the throng held in the spirit of the services that when President Harding, closing his oration, began the recitation of the Lord's prayer, his myriad voices blended in a chorus that murmured "Our Father Who Art in Heaven," with the vibrant lead of the chief executive.

Then the bestowing of the decorations—"Won in mortality; worn in eternity,"—the measure tones of the president as he bestowed the Congressional medal of honor and the distinguished service cross over the heart of the unknown.

Then the alien tongues of Foch, Diaz, Jacques and all the other world figures who had come to lay their nations' hopes above the body of America's hero.

And when the amplifiers broke off in silence as the procession at last started toward the sarcophagus, an announcer at Arlington took up the story, picturing the solemn procession as it wended its way to the spot where the unknown will sleep the long sleep.

Then the burial service; the final placing of wreaths on the tomb, and after a moment's pause, the crashing boom of artillery speaking the nation's last farewell.

Hear Speech in Frisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—The voice of the president of the United States, coming through a bank of foliage at the back of the Civic auditorium stage so clearly and distinctly that 10,000 spectators held their breath in unconscious expectation that President Harding himself would step forward, brushed away 3,000 miles of distance for San Francisco today.

Chicago Pays Honor.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—In the midst of a swirling snow storm, thousands of Chicagoans in the "loop" district joined a nation in paying silent tribute to the country's war dead.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning business in stores came to a halt, "wheels of industry slackened, elevated trains stopped and traffic policemen halted all traffic while Chicagoans stood with bare heads in the winter storm as clocks pointed to the third anniversary of the ending of the war.

Armaments Rivalry Must Stop, Says Hughes

the past to guide, not only do we have the reaction from the disillusioning experience of war, but we must meet the challenge of imperative economic demands. What was convenient or highly desirable before is now a matter of vital necessity.

Competition Must Stop.

If there is to be economic rehabilitation, if the longings for reasonable progress are not to be denied, if we are to be spared the uprisings of peoples made desperate in the desire to shake off burdens no longer endurable, competition in armaments must stop. It is plain that the time has passed for mere resolutions, that the responsible powers should examine the question of limitation of armaments? The time is come and this conference has been called, not for general resolutions or mutual advice, but for action.

We meet with full understanding that the aspirations of mankind are not to be defeated, either by plausible suggestions of postponement or by impracticable counsels of perfection.

Power and responsibility are here and the world waits a practical program which shall at once be put into execution.

Two-Minute Sermons

Written Especially for The Bee by Gipsy Smith

Shortly after Sankey had introduced their splendid hymn, "Throw Out the Life Line," he gave me an autographed copy. At that time I was holding services in a most fashionable church. When I wished to sing Sankey's song, the organist refused to play it. "It has a refrain," he said, "and we never play any refrain in our church."

besides, there is nothing in it." Although I was defeated in the morning service, at night I asserted myself and had the music played. I sang it to the rapt attention of the congregation. And at the end of the service, the organist came to me and said frankly that there was a great deal more in the song than he had dreamed.

I can understand purely musical people, with no spiritual experience behind them, looking at these simple songs and saying that there is nothing in them. "Probably there isn't from a musical standpoint. But it's the message they bear."

If you'll give me a real message, with a lifting air, though the musical elements, which may be regarded as of primary importance at this time and with which we can deal most promptly and effectively, is the limitation of naval armaments. There are certain general considerations which may be deemed pertinent to this subject.

The first is that the core of the difficulty is to be found in the competition in naval progress, and that, in order appropriately to limit naval armaments, competition in its production must be abandoned.

Sacrifices Necessary.

It is apparent that this cannot be accomplished without serious sacrifices. It is also clear that no one of the naval powers could be expected to make the sacrifices alone. The only hope of limitation of naval armaments is an agreement among the nations concerned, and this agreement should be entirely fair and reasonable in the extent of the sacrifices required of each of the powers.

I may add that the American delegates are advised by their naval experts that the tonnage of capital ships may fairly be taken to measure the relative strength of navies, as the provision for auxiliary combatant craft should sustain a sea-power in relation to the capital ship tonnage allowed.

It would also seem to be a vital part of a plan for the limitation of naval armaments that there should be a naval holiday. It is proposed that for a period of not less than 10 years there should be no further construction of capital ships.

I am happy to say that I am at liberty to go beyond these general propositions and on behalf of the American delegation acting under the instructions of the president of the United States, to submit to you a concrete proposition for an agreement for the limitation of naval armaments.

It should be added that this proposal immediately concerns the British empire, Japan and the United States. In view of the extraordinary conditions, due to the world war, affecting the existing strength of the navies of France and Italy, it is not thought to be necessary to discuss, at this stage of the proceedings, the tonnage allowance of these nations, but the United States proposes that this matter be reserved.

Eczema Caused Years of Intense Agony

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years, and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use PETERSON'S OINTMENT, and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me."—Geo. C. Talbot, 27 Penfield St., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I've got a hundred testimonials, says Peterson of Buffalo, just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put on PETERSON'S OINTMENT, I made up my mind to give it a big test for 60 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows."

"I guarantee PETERSON'S OINTMENT because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rightly warranted for eczema, salt rheum, old sores, blind, bleeding and itching piles, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory any druggist will return your money." John A. Swanson Back From Trip

President of Nebraska Clothing Company Says Business Better in East.

Business in eastern markets, especially in clothing and apparel lines, has taken a decided upturn in the past six weeks, according to John A. Swanson, president of the Nebraska Clothing company, following his return from an extensive buying and business survey trip.

Mr. Swanson visited Chicago, Cleveland, Rochester, Boston, New York and Philadelphia markets. In each place, he reports, retailers are buying heavily, indicating a belief on their part that the buying public will respond accordingly next spring and summer. Buying of tropical and summer goods, he said, was unusually heavy.

Regarding prices, Mr. Swanson said he believed clothing and apparel lines had reached the lowest level for some time to come. Market indications were, he asserted, that a slight advance might be felt next year, as worsted materials from which clothing for spring and fall of 1922 will be produced are showing some increase in price.

Baby Girl Burns to Death

As Clothing Catches Fire

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 12.—(Special Telegram.)—Phyllis Eleanor Olson, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Olson, living on a farm three miles west of Canton, is dead as the result of burns received when her clothing accidentally was set on fire in her home. The mother was near at hand, but could not extinguish the flames before her little daughter was fatally burned.

Operas Produced by Chicago Company to Be Sent Out by Wireless

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Operas produced by the Chicago Opera company during the 10 weeks' season starting next Monday night will be transmitted by wireless telephone to all wireless stations within a radius of 1,000 miles that care to "listen in."

The announcement was made by Miss Garden by wireless and after she had finished her statement the opera company broadcasted an orchestral and vocal selection as a test of the equipment. The orchestra played "Love's Death" from "Tristan and Isolde" and Miss Edith Mason sang "The Entrance of Butterfly" from the opera "Madame Butterfly."

The first complete opera ever to be sent out by wireless telephone will be "Samson and Delilah" in which Lucien Muratore opens the season next Monday night.

Like Going Barefoot

The feeling of freedom, the comfortable stretching of toes, the natural arching of the lastest—the joys of going barefoot are experienced in wearing Cantilever Shoes. And, in addition, they afford the restful support so necessary if you must stand for a long time or walk on hard pavement in Cantilever Shoes. And, in addition, they afford the restful support so necessary if you must stand for a long time or walk on hard pavement in Cantilever Shoes.

The Cantilever Shoe never binds nor hurts. The last is designed to conform to the outline of the foot. The sole is patterned with a natural inner line so that the toes lie straight ahead and have plenty of room. This natural position of the foot and the wear-resilient combine to encourage correct posture.

And instead of a rigid, unyielding sole, the Cantilever Shoe has a shaft that is flexible. Your muscles move as freely as they would if you were bare-footed, for the shoe bends WITH the foot. The instep flexes naturally; the tissues grow strong from the exercise they enjoy in walking. Cantilevers are recommended by physicians, and specialists for all forms of foot troubles. In particular they prevent and correct fallen arches.

Come and see how graceful these shoes look on your feet, and note how much happier you feel in Cantilever Shoes.
