THE LOTOS-EATERS
 By Tennyson

*"Courage," he said,
 and pointed toward the land,
 "This mounting wave will roll us shoreward soon."
 In the afternoon they came unto a land
 In which it seemed always afternoon.
 All 'round the coast
 the languid air did swoon, Breathing like one that hath a weary dream.
 Full-faced above the valley stood the moon.
 And, like a downward smoke,
 the slender stream
 Along the cliff to fall and pause and fall did seem.*

*A land of streams! some, like a downward smoke,
 Slow-dropping veils of thinnest
 lawn, did go;
 And some through wavering lights and shadows broke,
 Rolling a slumbrous sheet of foam below.
 They saw the gleaming river seaward flow
 From the inner land; far off,
 three mountain tops,
 Three silent pinnacles of aged snow,
 Stood sunset-flush'd; and,
 dew'd with showery drops,
 Up-clomb the shadowy pine

But we can certainly assure you of several years of pleasure and satisfaction at a very small expenditure of cash if you will take advantage of the extremely low prices that we are quoting on the few NEW and used cars that we have to dispose of before December 31. The new cars that we have to offer are current models and will be continued in 1922, and we are selling them for less than you can buy them for after January 1.

Three Things to Do on Christmas Day

"The Lotos Eaters"

—Tennyson

The charmed sunset linger'd low adown
 In the red West; thro' mountain clefts the dale
 Was seen far inland, and the yellow down
 Border'd with palm, and many a winding vale
 And meadow, set with slender galingale—
 A land where all things always seem'd the same:
 And round about the keel with faces pale,
 Dark faces pale against that rosy flame,
 The mild-eyed, melancholy Lotos eaters came.

Branches they bore of that enchanted stem, Laden with flower and fruit, whereof they gave
 To each, but whoso did receive of them
 And taste, to him the gushing of the wave
 Far, far away did seem to mourn and rave
 On alien shores; and if his fellow spake,
 His voice was thin, as voices from the grave;
 And deep-asleep he seem'd, yet all awake,
 And music in his ears his beating heart did make.

They sat them down upon the yellow sand,
 Between the sun and moon upon the shore—
 And sweet it was to dream of Fatherland,
 Of child, and wife, and slave; but evermore
 Most weary seem'd the sea, weary the oar,
 Weary the wandering fields of barren foam.
 Then some one said, "We will return no more;"
 And all at once they sang, "Our island home
 Is far beyond the wave; we will no longer roam."
