

Pioneers Given View of Future by R. B. Howell

Last Speaker on State Historical Program Tells Success of the Radio Telephone.

Lincoln, Jan. 11.—(Special Telegram.)—From glimpses into the distant past of Nebraska's history, outlined by gray-haired pioneer speakers, members of the Nebraska Historical society, at the close of their 45th annual meeting, had R. B. Howell of Omaha for their last speaker, and he gave them a glimpse into the future.

The Old Town Crier and the New, was the subject on which Mr. Howell addressed the society. Last summer Mr. Howell was in Europe, where he investigated the use of the radiophone as a commercial proposition, and he told of its use.

"About 20 years ago," said Mr. Howell, "I was in Europe, where I investigated the use of the radiophone as a commercial proposition, and he told of its use.

Similar to Town Crier. "This enterprise, called the Telephone-Hirondo, is a daily publication requiring neither composers, type nor presses. The elimination of the usual necessities is due to the fact that this newspaper consists of a system of telephone wires, connecting its subscribers with its offices, over which, all day long, the usual contents of a metropolitan press are transmitted to its subscribers by word of mouth. In short, the Telephone-Hirondo is the reincarnation of the old town crier."

Mr. Howell then gave a brief history of the discovery of sound waves, and he continued: "It was not until 1900 that a radio telephone, installed at Rock Point, Md., successfully transmitted speech more than one mile. Although from the first the radiophone has trailed behind the radiograph in development, yet with a sufficiently powerful station it can now be depended upon to cover sufficiently a radius of at least 200 miles in the daytime, and much greater distance at night. So far as interference with and by other stations is concerned, the radiophone is on about an equal footing with its competitor, the radio telephone, as there are 150 wave lengths that can be utilized in practice, and receiving stations are as readily tuned to a particular wave in one case as in the other. While the equipment of a radiophone sending station is both complicated and expensive, and requires expert attention, the technique of a receiving set may be easily mastered by any bright boy or girl."

Plans in U. S. It is proposed that radiophone sending stations should be established about 400 miles apart throughout the country, and it is probable that their cost would be about $25,000 each. Then costs of operating such a station would probably not exceed $1,000 a month, and the additional expense would be that necessary on account of collection of news and its preparation for broadcasting. Of course, if concerts and operas were to be included in the service, there would be additional expense due to the charges for the privilege of maintaining in position the necessary microphones or transmitters.

"Here expense to the government should end, as all who would take advantage of the news service should establish receiving stations at their own expense, the cost of which would probably vary from $50 to $60 for an ordinary vacuum tube detector apparatus, to twice or treble that amount, depending on the amount of amplification desired."

Fight for Free Ireland.

John P. Sutton, Lincoln, told of the days when Nebraska was political and financial headquarters of the Catholic-Irish fight for a republic on the Emerald Isle, beginning to bear fruit now.

The Irish Land league, which for years was "the brains" of American Irish influence for a free Ireland, was engineered and financed by John Fitzgerald, Nebraska's first millionaire, Mr. Sutton told his audience.

"Irish leaders from all parts of the world came to Lincoln in those days for orders and for money, always generously given by Mr. Fitzgerald," the speaker said. Then he told a humorous illustrative story of the despotism of Fitzgerald, the Nebraskan, who spent a fortune so Ireland would be free. Sutton said: "The night we organized the league Fitzgerald arose and instantly put all doubts as to the election of officers out of the minds of the audience when he said: 'Fellow Irishmen, we are to organize a league to help free Ireland from despots. O! will you, president and Mr. Sutton will be your secretary.'"

"And president and treasurer he was to the end," Sutton said. Mrs. Dan V. Stephens of Fremont told her experiences in Washington during the war.

Urge New Quarters.

Robert Harvey, president, urged that the historical society make arrangements for suitable quarters in Nebraska's new $5,000,000 state house. At present the society is "sucked in" a little room in the University library building.

A. E. Sheldon, secretary, reported that the total membership numbered 576, including 200 new members in the last year. New members of the board of directors elected this morning are: Hamilton B. Lowry, Lincoln; Rev. Michael A. Shine, Plattsmouth; Don L. Love, Lincoln; Edson B. Rich, Omaha, and Robert Harvey, Lincoln.

MONTHS OF SUFFERING

How a Baltimore Girl Recovered Her Health

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe headache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls, as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WALDRER, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, to relieve the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by headache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?
