Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Financial

The New York Times. By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES. Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Feb. 16.—In several respects today was interesting for the financial markets. The present year's first official signal of a continued reduction in the cost of money was sounded by the Bank of England. The weekly statements of our federal reserve showed the rise in reserve percentage to have been resumed, for the first time in nearly a month. While the cotton market reacted downward, grain markets went to a still higher level; wheat in particular, at $1.42 3/4 per bushel, reaching the best price quoted at any time on the present crop.

Omaha Grain

Receipts of wheat today were 67 cars, against 63 cars last week and 49 cars a year ago. Corn arrivals 48 cars, as compared with 83 cars last week and 46 cars last year. The feature of the shipments was the departure of 83 cars. Shipments of other grains were light. Higher foreign cables caused a strong feeling in the Chicago futures market in the early session and prices reached a high level for all options, with the exception of May wheat, which sold at $1.42 3/4, the same level reached last September. On the advance, however, the market met profit-taking sales and values reacted sharply.

Chicago Grain

By CHARLES D. MICHAELS. Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Chicago, Feb. 16.—Longs in all grains were heavy sellers for profits today, following an early advance to new high for July wheat and all deliveries of corn. Sellers of wheat were headed by houses with eastern connections. While there was a fair rally from the inside prices, net losses were 10 1/2c on wheat, 1/2c on oats and 10 1/2c on rye, while corn was strong and closed unchanged to 1/2c higher.
