Omaha Society Stars Twinkle in Junior Revue

League Delights Friends With Fine Performance at Its Annual Exhibit of Talent

Well, the girls put it over, and put it over big. The second annual revue Junior league was a greater success in every way than the first. More than that could not be said in a column of type.

Mrs. Lewis Burgess, who once was Rosie Quinn and who had Broadway at her feet, beamed on a delighted audience just as she did in the days when that was her regular busidays when that was her regular business. Only this time it was not a "property smile" that lighted up her face, but one that denoted her abiding friendship for Omaha folks, who have come to know her so well and esteem her so highly. She danced and sang and capered, and enjoyed leading her charges more perhaps. leading her choruses more, perhaps, than ever. And she would have been a long time on Broadway before she had a chance to head such a chorus. Elizabeth Elliott and the "pop pop" girls got across with a bang. And anybody who thinks the shaking of a shoulder is wicked ought to see of a shoulder is wicked ought to see this bunch do it. Mrs. Burgess led the "bad bad man" group up and down the runway, just as she did the little girls who helped her sing "Didn't You Believe," and she also helped to make "Rosie" quite a suc-

Singers Who Charmed.

Harriet Metz charmed the audience with a group of songs; her pure and powerful soprano carried effect-ively through the large auditorium, her careful enunciation added much to the pleasure of the songs. Mrs. Yale Holland as Ming Foy justified both promises and expectations, and secured one of the many ovations of the evening.

Carl Paulsen's "April Showers" number was well presented and renumber was well presented and received the approval it merited. A dance by Miss Gretchen Hess and Ray Millard was also well done and deservedly popular. "A Study in Black and White" gave opportunity for some good comedy in the vehicle of an old-time "nigger minstrel" setting. Norman Curtis and Phil
Downs glistened here, despite their Downs glistened here, despite their black faces. "A Few Songs and Steps" gave Mrs. Burgess, Norman Curtice, Wallace Shepard and Carl Paulsen a good chance, which they fully realized.

Homes of Comfort

Copyright, 1922.

By Adams & Kelley Co.

The style of this home conforms to the general type of the ever popular bungalow, with a simple gable roof, made interesting by the gable on the side. The treatment of the porch, however, is unusual. The columns give an impressive dignity to the whole home. The wide porch and overhanging eaves give the impression of sincerity, hospitality and comfort.

The vestibule prevents cold winter winds from blowing into the living room whenever the front door is opened. The coat closet opening into the vestibule is the ideal arrangement. This leaves room for a fine closet for the front bedroom. Notice the window in this closet gives cross ventilation

The wide opening into the large dining room gives that roomy effect that makes a home attractive. The bedrooms are ample in size, light and well ventilated. The kitchen is arranged like the "Model Kitchen," which was commended at the "Made-in-Omaha" show last year.

Complete working drawings for Homes of Comfort may be obtained from Adams & Kelley company, Omaha.

Multiple List Exchange to Be Formed in City

System to Be Put Into Effect by Middle of June by Omaha Real Estate Board.

A multiple listing exchange is being formed within the Omaha Real Estate board. A committee named several weeks ago to draft rules and regulations reported last week, and 21 realtors had signed the rules Saturday night.

The system will be in effect by the middle of June, according to Chairman Walsh of the committee. Multiple listing, the realtors ex-plain, means the exchange of all exclusive listings of property except high-priced business property.

All property listed with any realtor in the multiple exchange will be included in a copy of his listing to be mailed to the central office at once, from where it will be mailed to all other weembers of the exchange. other members of the exchange.
"This simply means," Chairman
Walsh said, "that an owner will have the entire exchange trying to sell his property, except only one member. It will also give the buyer a larger list from which to select."

The exchange will be operated by the Real Estate board.

The committee which drafted the rules includes A. H. Walsh, J. L. Schroeder, C. T. Spier, D. G. Cary, B. C. Fowler and G. D. Tunnicliffe.

Wolf Firm Will Open New Tract

Forty-Acre Section Platted and to Be Sold on Payments.

The H. A. Wolf company, recognized as one of the largest real estate operators in the west, will make its debut in the lot-selling business early in June. Standard Place, a 40-acre portion of land bought by the Wolf complany two years ago from a C. N. Dietz holding concern, has been platted into 203 lots and is going to be sold on the payment plan.

The Wolf company started development of this tract last fall. Grading is now completed and streets are practically finished. The sidewalks and sewers are now being installed for putting in paving, water, gas and lights this year. Some of the paving will start in a few weeks, the Wolf company says.

Standard Place is just west of the Field club, and the Wolf company claims it is closer to the city than any other tract of land of its invitation. any other tract of land of its size in
