Editorial Remarks

The Glee club is perfecting its organization and we may expect it to figure considerably in University affairs during the coming year. From the fact that there are requirements for entrance comes the assurance that the personnel of the club will be the best obtainable in the University. The club can be made to fill an important place if its interests are pushed and the students aid in its support.

The scrimmages between the regular team and the scrubs that have occurred in practice during the past week, have been as interesting as some of the regular games played thus far. The scrubs are unusually strong this year, and they give their opponents plenty of opportunity for hard, solid practice. Some of the mix-ups have been of the most exciting character, especially the one that culminated in the Varsity's goal line being crossed Monday.

The news that an alumni list is being compiled at the executive office is welcome to those who have occasion to look up the names of graduates from time to time. Especially those who are obliged to do reference work will find this list of great value. When one is in quest of the name of an alumnus it is altogether too troublesome to hunt for an old calendar, and at the same time risk not finding it, and the new list will indeed prove useful.

The scrubs will meet the Omaha Medics Saturday on the athletic field, and the signs point to a contest that will be worth going to see. There are many good men among the scrubs and the team is probably the strongest second team we ever had. The Medics are a husky bunch, but the scrubs will try to teach them a few points of the game. Through the kindness of the Star a bulletin service has been arranged and reports from the game at Denver will be read at intervals during the game.

The football team leaves today for Denver to play its first game abroad. A more perfect looking set of athletes has not for many a long day gone forth from the University to struggle for honors on a rival gridiron. The men have been developed and trained until their fullest capabilities have been brought out and the best possible physical condition attained. They have all the science and essential elements of a winning team, and the fact that they so overwhelmingly defeated such a strong team as South Dakota augurs well for their complete success in next Saturday's game.

Rumors of professionalism are forthcoming from Denver but, while neither denied nor verified, they give little cause for alarm. Even if extraordinary measures have been taken to strengthen the line-up Denver College will have a hard proposition in downing our fast team, and the only cause of regret that we have will be that professionalism was practiced against us. From what is known of Denver University there is little reason to believe that it would practice unfairness in this regard, and if such is the case there would indeed be occasion for surprise. However, the fact that four new men appeared simultaneously on the field in the game with the Agricultural College is strong circumstantial evidence. The team goes determined to win, and it is hardly possible that any combination that their opponents may present will prevent them from accomplishing their chiefest desire. The Colorado men are hard fighters and the atmospheric conditions may not be entirely favorable, but nevertheless there is a confidence—well founded—that Nebraska's brawn, muscle and science will prevail.

Palladian Society Meeting.

The Palladian Literary Society invites its old friends and all new students to attend the regular Friday evening meeting. Beginning at 8:30 the following program will be rendered:

Piano solo, Roy Clark.
Literary criticism, Miss Josephine Balsley.
Story, Mr. W. I. King.
Recitation, Miss Elizabeth Hawxby.
Sketch, Mr. Roy Kellogg.
Vocal duet, Misses Walt.

Glee Club Examinations.

The Glee club met Tuesday evening for the purpose of testing voices, but little was accomplished. Another meeting for the same purpose will be held next Tuesday. The plans of the club the quite extensive and they will take part in the rallies and general meetings held from time to time during the course of the year.

Physical examinations are all over and floor work begins Monday.

Miss Julia Bednar is able to return to school again after her illness.

Miss Silence Dales will give a recital at convocation Friday morning.

Edward Gillespie, a former University student, visited the University recently.

Misses Creta and Myra Warner spent Saturday and Sunday at their home near Roca.

The Academy is preparing for basket ball, and expects to have a good team this year.

The initiation of the Thetas, which was to have taken place next week, has been indefinitely postponed.

The class in American history 7 has received the first of a series of source pamphlets to be issued for that subject.

Dr. Peters and Professor Avery of the experimental station, left last night for Alliance, U. G. Cornell accompanied them.

The work of painting the buildings at the experiment station is in progress and will continue until cold weather begins.

An advanced class in elocution has been formed. The work will consist of voice and gesture drill and general interpretative exercises.

John Hays Hammond, the eminent mining engineer, has just presented his alma mater, Sheffield, with a new metallurgical laboratory.

J. M. Nelson, who was state food chemist last year, is now assisting Dr. White in the latter's new field, at the Rose Polytechnic, Terra Haute, Ind.

W. M. Howard, a mining engineer of Denver, was a caller at the chemistry laboratory Tuesday. Mr. Howard is a graduate of the Columbia School of Mines.

Professor Cook has furnished each member of his class in constitutional law with a typewritten list of the pages that are to be read in the first volume of "Thayer's Cases."

Dr. Ross has a seminar in colonies and colonization, which meets Wednesday evening, consisting of twelve members. More than half of the members are not University students.

Dr. Jones is devoting ten minutes of one class period each week to a written quiz. There are no readers in English and German history, but Dr. Jones has personal supervision of the work.

G. H. Walker has resigned his position with the Chamberlain Sampling Works Co., of Breckenridge, Colo., to accept the position of chemist of the Nebraska state food commission, left vacant by the resignation of J. M. Nelson.

The botanical department has received quite a large addition to its supply of apparatus this year, among which are steam sterilizers and an improved autoclave. It has also purchased a new balance of the most improved type.

The contemplated class to be started in geology has been postponed indefinitely on account of lack of time of Prof. Barbour. No new classes will be started until next semester for this reason.

Employment.

The employment bureau of the Y. M. C. A. announces that it still has several places where student help is desired. Men desiring to earn their board or room rent, or both, are requested to call at the association rooms and arrange for same. Those who wish to take care of odd jobs from time to time, are also requested to call.
