TO MEET MONDAY

Juniors Will Attempt to Straighten out Difficulties.

Both sides in the Junior election contest proceedings are lining up for the battle Monday, and enough of excitement is promised to please the most exacting. The issue, having been given its true importance by the interest that has been stirred up, is considered a most momentous one and its settlement means much to both parties. Each side proposes to contest bitterly every point of the case before it will accept defeat.

As an evidence that he is desirous of being fair and wishes to see the issue settled according to justice, President-elect A. H. Lundin has called a meeting of the class for Monday, which will be held in U. 107. He was not bound to call this meeting and had he failed to do so the acting president would have been obliged to attend to this duty, a thing which under the circumstances would have been just and proper, but not so desirable as having the meeting called by Mr. Lundin himself.

The plaintiffs in the case—if the term is permissible—still are confident that they can produce enough evidence to prove fraud. They still assert that they can produce four men to swear positively that more votes were cast than there were Juniors present. They also claim that others are possessed of the same knowledge, but for reasons of their own do not wish to make it known.

One man stated that he had counted thirty-two Juniors at the meeting and two visitors. However, he said that he was not interested enough in the matter to make a sworn statement to this effect. But most of those who have any definite information at all, are willing to unburden the sum and substance of their knowledge at the proper time and place, and do not care to make any statements for public gossip.

There will surely be trouble over the proposition of electing the master of ceremonies and the chairman of the Junior hop committee. While the thing looks desirable to many, a strong objection will be raised on constitutional grounds. Those who are opposed to such a measure say that the president of the class has had the appointive power in selecting the two leading officials for the Prom, as far back as anyone can remember or knows of. Custom, they say, makes the laws in most cases and since there is nothing in the constitution that allows the class to act in such a capacity, they are sure that they have strong grounds for their argument. The other side does not seem to be worrying over the matter at all or else they are very reticent as to how they expect to meet the argument. They merely state that there will be some brisk parliamentary drill Monday, and that some lessons will be learned that will be remembered. While this is rather indefinite they seem confident of their ability to win out.

The real fight will take place next Monday morning, however, and little is to be gained or lost by either side by extensive preliminary talk. Most of the Juniors have their minds made up as to what course to pursue and will not be shaken in their stand. It may be that the meeting will be taken up in fruitless wrangling, but in the interests of both sides, of the class and of the president-elect, it is hoped that such will not be the case. Means may be found to block the proceedings, so that an investigation showing whether fraud was actually practiced or not, may be staved off.

If fraud has been practiced, it should be brought to light if it lies within the power of the class to expose it. The interests of the president-elect interests of the class. But at the same time the investigation can be conducted in such a manner that all can obtain justice. Unless an investigation is held there will be a doubt existing which will forever give rise to discussion and speculation. Any such doubt, if allowed to stand undisturbed, would be a discredit to the class. And it would indeed be an elegant thing for the present Junior class to stand forth unique in the history of our institution as the class that allowed a charge of illegal election to stand without at least probing the matter to the bottom.

Ready for Hockey.

At a girls' mass meeting in Memorial hall yesterday Mrs. Dr. Clapp announced that the hockey-sticks had arrived and that the first game would be played Monday at 1 o'clock on the athletic field. Mrs. Clapp, assisted by Miss Towne, explained the game to the girls and squads were arranged whereby all will be enabled to play in turn. Much interest is manifested in the new game and without doubt the undertaking will meet the hearty approval of all interested in University affairs. A game of this sort has been a long-felt want in girls' athletics and it is only through persistent efforts of Mrs. Clapp and the kindness of the athletic board that the introduction of hockey has been made possible at this time. It will be given its first trial next Monday when two squads will line up at 1 o'clock.

Leiderkranz Started Again.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the popular German chorus of last year will again be organized. Professor Fossler is at the head of the movement and the prospects for a large chorus are exceedingly promising. Last year there were about 150 voices in the Leiderkranz and the chances are good for a much larger number this year.

The first meeting will be held next Friday at 1 o'clock in the chapel. The book to be used is "Volkslieder." Professor Fossler requests that all come provided with a book so that singing may commence at once. A competent leader will have charge of the class. The book costs 35 cents and may be obtained at the University Book Store.

Y. M. C. A. Does Good Work.

Under the direction of the employment committee of the Y. M. C. A. a thorough canvass of the city was made during the early part of September for rooming and boarding places for students and for places where student help could be employed. As a result of this canvass 517 students were assisted in finding rooms and board and forty-four men and twenty women secured employment whereby they could make their expenses in whole or in part. The remuneration of this employment amounts in value to $5,185 for the school year.

Honor for an Engineer.

Yesterday afternoon the students in the civil engineering department met in Mechanic Arts hall and then proceeded to the Delta U. house, where a handsome loving-cup was presented with appropriate remarks to Mr. J. A. Green, an instructor in that department, in token of appreciation of his many lovable qualities. Refreshments were served by the underclassmen.

Dr. Pound's "Outlines in Jurisprudence" has now been published and is for use in this form by students. The pamphlet contains 68 pages and is very convenient for class use.

Denver Management Says No Professionalism Practiced.

The football team is now in Denver in readiness to fight the good fight this afternoon. They arrived at their destination shortly after noon yesterday and have had twenty-four hours to get into trim, if any such action is necessary. The men made the trip in good shape and are prepared to show their mettle when they line up this afternoon.

According to the press dispatches much surprise is expressed by the Denver management because of the reports of professionalism that have been sent out from there and penetrated to our midst. They have explanations for the presence of all the men on the team, and as far as can be judged, they seem plausible. The news value of a charge of professionalism against any team is considered great and a sensation can be worked up in this way. Speculation is given rise to and curiosity is aroused especially at the rival institution. As far as the temporary value of the article is concerned, it doesn't matter if it isn't strictly true.

Both the Star and the Evening News will receive bulletins from Denver this afternoon, and the results as soon as they arrive will be displayed at convenient places about town and at the Star and News offices.

GOOD GAME HERE.

Scrubs vs. Lincoln Medics This Afternoon.

This afternoon the second team lines up against the Lincoln Medics, and everybody should come out and see the game. The scrubs have trained hard and are able to play a fast game, having sprung a number of bad tricks on the regular team. They were out for practice last night and went through their plays as if they meant business. Those who have watched their play are beginning to realize that the scrubs this year are a strong and aggressive bunch and that they are able to count against many strong teams.

The Medics have the reputation of doing fast work, and are in every way fitted to make the game interesting. The scrubs have borne the brunt of the conflict for many evenings and it is upon their shoulders and over their shattered remains that the first team climbs, and the crowd ought to come out to see them perform when they have a special program on their hands. The game will be called at 3 o'clock and the management guarantees that no one will be obliged to stand up for lack of a good place to sit.

Following is the second team's lineup: Conklin, R. E.; Striker, R. T.; Barto, R. G.; Frazier, C.; Spear, L. G.; Newton, L. T.; Shallenberger, L. E.; Lantz, Q.; Clark, F. B.; Marsh, H. B.; Drain, H. B.

Freshman Laws Complete List.

The Freshman laws held another meeting yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the law lecture room and elected the remainder of their officers as follows: Secretary-treasurer—C. Davis. Class Senator—S. E. Black. Sergeant-at-arms—J. T. Bagley. Manager of the football team—J. K. Morrison.

It was also decided to hold a Freshman law hop and a committee has been appointed to arrange the details.

John A. Woodward is Candidate For Superintendent

John A. Woodard, candidate for re-election as county superintendent of schools, Hamilton county, Nebraska, is a former University man. While here he made a host of admiring friends among both students and faculty by his ability as a scholar, his earnestness of purpose and gentlemanly spirit. Election to the county superintendency by a vote far ahead of his ticket called him from his studies.

Mr. Woodard brought to his new duties the wealth of a long and careful training. Prior to entering the University he had taken a year at the Western Normal, followed by four years as instructor in the rural schools, the summer months of this period being spent at the Fremont Normal, where he finished the teachers' course in '96. Two years of successful work as principal of the Aurora high school were rewarded by his being chosen for a third year, but he resigned to enter the University, in the fall of '99.

He was elected county superintendent in the fall of 1901. His capacity for work and systematic organization, as well as the success of his efforts, are evidenced by the Teachers' Reading Circle being organized with the attendance of every teacher in the county, the organization of the Teachers' Library association and the institution of a substantial library; and the School Boards' association, whose efforts to secure more regular attendance resulted in an increase of attendance over the previous year of 93.17 days.

The results of his University training are shown in the scope of his activity. He was elected president of the superintendents' section at the central Nebraska teachers' association in 1903. He participated in the deliberations of the national superintendents' convention at Chicago in 1902, and of the summer school of superintendents at Omaha, in 1903.

This summer he conducted the largest teachers' institute in the history of Hamilton county. The institute closed with the teachers unanimously adopting resolutions praising his work. His University friends wish him as they do all other Varsity men the greatest measure of success.

Secretary C. M. Mayne of the city Y. M. C. A. will speak to men Sunday at 3 p. m., in U. 107. Mr. Mayne is a college man and an interesting speaker. All men are urged to be present.

The special reports on economic problems in political economy 7 will begin October 21.
