KANSANS PROTEST

Jayhawkers Say That Bender And Wilson Are Ineligible.

The football authorities at Kansas are more than mildly insistent that Bender and Wilson are ineligible, under the rules governing athletics, to play in the forthcoming game at Lawrence. For some time correspondence has been exchanged on this subject, and the Kansas people will certainly have to give more substantial reasons than have been thus far given, before the validity of their claim is made clear. Dr. Condra has written to them in reply that there is nothing in the charges, and as far as we are concerned the case rests there. Kansas may act as she pleases, but there is little likelihood that she will carry the matter to the extreme as she is hardly in a position to do so.

It is strange, too, that the Kansas authorities could not have made their opinions known a little sooner, instead of waiting until the eve of the game and surprising us so unmercifully by the suddenness of their action. But no matter. The game will in all likelihood be played. The contract for the game is in such a shape that Kansas could not, even if there was something in the charge, call the game off.

Dr. Condra stated yesterday that the charges made by Kansas are without foundation. He himself investigated the records of Bender and Wilson and found nothing in them that would render these two players ineligible. In discussing the situation further Dr. Condra said:

"If Kansas insists on these two players being ruled out, there will be no game. Yet we hope that such action will be unnecessary. We hope that friendly relations may be established between the two institutions, but in view of what has transpired within the past year, we will call a halt if necessary. Kansas knows that we can defeat them and it looks very much as if they are afraid of us. But this one thing I will state. If every detail is not attended to in good season there will be no game with Kansas."

This is the stand that our athletic authorities have taken and they will bide no baby work on the part of Kansas. We are willing to do our share and go down and beat them, but Kansas can not expect us to make concessions for which they have neither the grounds nor the right to ask.

The Kansans have one great absorbing fear, the embodiment of which in lurid shape pervades their troubled dreams. They know that if they meet Nebraska defeat would certainly be theirs. But to mitigate this defeat to some extent, they would like to have two of our strongest players removed, for their accommodation. And although this would be a substantial accommodation to them they couldn't expect to beat us anyhow. The high-souled characteristics displayed by the Kansans are commendable in this their stand for clean athletics on the part of their opponents, and we can appreciate their sincerity and broad-mindedness in seeing that everything is fair, for our representatives have been entertained very pleasantly at their hands before.

We would feel very cheerful indeed if Kansas maintained as high a standard of athletics as we ourselves do. We have played colleges of high standing already this season, and none have entered any protest against any of our players, but it is not strange that Kansas should have conscientious scruples in regard to this matter.

Everything now indicates that Kansas will desist from her charges and that the excursion will go to Lawrence and the game be played. The Kansans know that our team's supporters will come down in large force to support their men, and feel distressed because they can not save them at their mercy, abusing all rights of hospitality and courtesy. But it is our duty to preclude their kind intentions. Arrangements are being pushed and the nominal number necessary for the excursion is in sight. Besides many people will go who have not signed up yet. Many of the citizens of Lincoln will go and extra cars will be attached to the excursion train.

While we do not wish to be unduly precipitous in anticipating any unpleasantness at the hands of the Kansas rooters, yet there is enough of circumstantial evidence at least to justify the suspicion. We will have our own contingent of rooters and our own band, and we will let them know that Nebraska is loyal to its team and will not allow them to go into the enemy's country without a safeguard against all damage and destruction that the opposition may undertake to deal out.

The excursion will leave Lincoln at 10:30 or 11 o'clock Friday night, arriving in Lawrence in time for breakfast. Returning it will leave Lawrence at 11 p. m., Saturday and reach Lincoln Sunday morning. All should go who have the time and the means and be on the grounds to uphold the honor of Nebraska against the assaults of her enemies.

Carnival Friday Afternoon

The progress of great enterprises may be hindered temporarily by untoward circumstances, but if those who are in their promotion have brave and noble hearts and an abiding faith in their ability to achieve their purpose, then their final success can not be doubted. This is the reason why the Athletic Carnival will be held next Friday, although it was found necessary to postpone it a couple of weeks. All of the original features will be presented and the faculty do really intend to show off their good points to an admiring crowd.

One small dispute has entered in to disturb matters. Professor Caldwell has been reading up some musty volumes on physical geography and has found grounds for protest against Dr. Ross in the hammer-throw. He claims that Dr. Ross has the advantage of him in altitude, as in hurling the instrument at his height the atmospheric pressure is less, and that consequently it will go farther than it would if thrown from a point nearer the ground where a denser medium prevails. It is hoped that this dispute can be settled peaceably.

Some of the faculty are anxious to get down to work again and get into condition, as they intend going to Kansas, where their musical powers may be called into service. We hope to be able to keep our readers posted through the week on the progress that they are making.

Professor Weyer gave a short talk on the Temple Fund, bringing the matter straight home to the Freshmen as a duty and in accordance with his wishes a committee was appointed to canvass the class in the interest of this fund.

Chaos is rapidly giving place to order in the ranks of '07. More was accomplished yesterday than at any other meeting. Once the Freshmen tied themselves up in a parliamentary knot which they endeavored to unravel by placing themselves on the table, and re-considering themselves, etc., and finally untied the knot by cutting it and suspending rules.

FINALLY ORGANIZED.

Freshmen Deliberate and Elect Remaining Officers.

The Freshman class met yesterday morning in the chapel and at last completed their organization, even unto the office of class attorney, an innovation in class offices. If deliberation be any criterion the Freshies are on a foundation too firm to be shaken even by the Sophs.

President Scott called the meeting to order and proceeded at once with unfinished business, the election of the remaining officers, secretary and class attorney.

Miss Van Horn, acting secretary, was the only nominee for the office and was given the unanimous vote of the class. True merit was recognized when the framers of the constitution, Messrs. De Young and Davis, were nominated for the position of attorney. Mr. Davis was elected and 1907 is at last provided with officers.

Football was taken up immediately and the president was given the power to appoint a manager who is to rustle material. Harold Foster was appointed football manager.

Football being disposed of, it was moved that according to time honored custom, the class of '07 give a Freshman Hop. It was further moved that the president appoint a hop chairman, and the two together were to choose a roster of ceremonies and the balance of the committee. No appointments have been made, but they will be announced at an early date in The Nebraskan. Some effort was made by progressive spirits to make the places of chairman and master of ceremonies elective instead of appointive, but the majority were content to leave this to President Scott.

Noted Lecturer Here Nov. 24th.

Attention is again called to the lecture of Dr. Joseph Jastrow, professor of psychology of the University of Wisconsin, November 24th on "The Sub-Conscious." Prof. Jastrow is one of the foremost men in psychology in America and his recent work "Facts and Fables in Psychology" is one of the best books in its line ever written. The lecture will be free and everyone is cordially invited as guests of the department of psychology.

Prof. Bruner Addresses Institute.

Professor Bruner gave several talks before the Teachers' Institute at Stockwell, Neb., week before last. His talks were on "Birds of Argentina," and "Nature Study." During his absence Professor Wolcott lectured to the ornithology class on the internal anatomy of the pigeon. W. D. Pierce lectured to the class in entomology on special research.

KNOX OUTPLAYED

Nebraska Snows Them Under in Brilliant Game.

In a rather one-sided game, which was notwithstanding replete with sensational plays, the University of Nebraska defeated the Knox College team by a score of 33 to 5.

The Knox team was outweighed by Nebraska, but her back field was swifter, which should in a measure have offset the "weightier matter." Knox, however, was unable to do anything with her opponent's line, nor was she able to run Nebraska's ends. When it came to a kicking game, however, Knox was all there. Grogan, who did the toe and leather work for the visitors, was an adept at the business. He gave an exhibition of punting which has seldom been equaled on Nebraska field.

It was due to him that Knox got her one and only score.

On an exchange of punts Nebraska secured the ball on her own 5-yard line and immediately punted out of danger. Grogan caught the punt on Nebraska's 40-yard line, making a fair catch, which entitled him to a free kick.

For Grogan this was easy, and he kicked a pretty goal, thereby scoring 5 points for his team. This was the only chance Grogan had, as Nebraska kept the visitors well into their own territory during the remainder of the game.

The day was an ideal one for a game, clear and rather sharp. The only unpleasant feature was a stiff breeze from the south, which blew during the greater part of the game.

The crowd was large and happy and kept the air in constant motion with their cheering.

The Knox team came onto the field at 3 o'clock, and very shortly afterwards came the Cornhuskers.

Captain Bender kicked off for Nebraska at 3:07. The Knox man was down on his own 20-yard line.

Knox started in to play a smashing game, but there was "nothing doin'." Grogan then took the ball and carried it twenty-five yards on a quarterback fake, the longest gain Knox made during the game, and also their only gain of any distance.

Shortly afterwards, Grogan fumbled and Bender fell on the ball. Then Nebraska with end runs and line bucks pushed the ball steadily down the field and Bell was sent over for the first touchdown just five minutes after the kick off.

After a short time spent in exchanging punts Nebraska again settled down to business and before the half was over Eager was pushed over for the second touchdown. No goals were kicked in the first half.

Shortly after this touchdown, Grogan made the place kick for Knox which was spoken of above.

Nebraska added one more touchdown during this half, for which "Cy" Mason was to blame.

The rest of the half was spent in exchanging punts, Grogan and Bender coming out about even.

The half closed with the ball in Nebraska's possession on the Knox 50-yard line.

In the second half Marsh went in at left half and Lantz at right. Nebraska played a whirlwind game, playing Knox off her feet.

Shortly after the half opened Marsh was pushed over for a touchdown.

Knox was unable to do anything against the Nebraska team, neither was she able to stay the fierce plunges of the Nebraska backs with the result that Nebraska had the ball almost the entire time.

About the middle of the half G. Mason was taken out of the game for alleged rough play and Graves filled his position at full.

Almost the next play Graves made a
