THE COUNTY FAIR

Y. W. C. A. Will Give an Old-Time Festival To-Night.

The Y. W. C. A. girls have revived a number of traditions and customs that were in vogue in the days when our grandmothers were young and everything was perfect, and this evening in the Armory they will present to the public view the results of their work of reconstruction. Not only will they revive memories of things existing long ago, but they will bring back to us recollections of things that set our own hearts afire in the sunny days of our youth. The county fair was the attraction of the age when we were young, and how often have our hearts bounded in delight in anticipation of the eventful day each year when father hitched the horses to the lumber wagon and took us all to the fair to view the sights.

With what delight did we behold the products of the soil, representing as they did the largest and best that agriculture could produce, as we beheld them piled up in high pyramids or neatly arranged on tables, or some monstrosity of the vegetable world standing forth in solitary grandeur, thus proclaiming its high standard of excellence. The man that made taffy in the big, black kettle, the speller who extolled the wonderful prodigy "within," the competition for canes and umbrellas, the booths, the races, and in fact everything was there.

All these features can be seen at the County Fair in the Armory this evening with such slight variations as a touch of the artificial may render necessary. Yet there will be enough to remind us of the dear old times, of the sweet innocence of childhood when breakfast foods had not been invented and drinking water was not 50 per cent microbes. In those days we had no grievous troubles, no inexorable pedagogues to flunk us when we failed to make good on our lessons. So just for the sake of the olden time when we all ate taffy instead of Nut Sundaes for refreshments and considered ourselves in the seventh heaven of delight, come out this evening and throw off all the affectation and formality with which passing years have loaded you down, and enjoy a pleasant evening.

There will be booths in profusion, where you can investigate for yourselves the curious arrangements that mind and matter have combined to produce. Fifteen booths, and each one a treasure house of entertainment and containing some wonder surpassing all the others.

The baby show will be a highly interesting feature of the fair, although it is quite probable that there will be some enormities in point of size. Quite a number of babies are entered for this contest, but as to whether the result of the judges will be followed by a scratching of faces and pulling of hair on the part of angry mothers, as used to happen at the old county fair, we can not say authoritatively.

Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works are going to be a high-class attraction, but we are not permitted to enter into details on this subject, as it is shrouded by an air of mystery which arouses our curiosity, but we are unable to secure enlightenment. Mrs. Carrie Nation, whose home is in Manhattan, Kas., and who carries a hatchet, will be there to preserve temperance among the visitors. She will preside over the W. C. T. U. booth and will be willing to tell of her antipathy to features sometimes attending county fairs, but which we hope will not be prevalent here. Samantha Allen has kindly consented to be present, and do her share toward preserving strict decorum and giving hard-fisted advice.

There will be races—races, indeed; a galaxy of whirling, flying midgets and tall women each striving vigorously to outstrip the other in fleetness. And finally all are invited to come and "chute the chutes."

But this isn't all. There are going to be "Plantation Melodies," in which minstrel voices will figure largely. "Red lemonade and popcorn for all" is advertised and certainly sounds familiar. And finally there is something seductive about the invitation "Come Early and Stay Late." The last part of this invitation seems superfluous; for if you do come early, you will want to stay late.

The Y. W. C. A. girls have given the assurance that the entertainment will be of the highest order throughout, and we should all be willing to take their word for it. Therefore, come out this evening and throw off your load of care, and join in and act foolish and be young again.

William Rine, Fremont, master of ceremonies.

C. A. Sunderlin, Tekamah.

Reeta Clark, Omaha.

C. B. Duer, Hastings.

The committee has been chosen to represent as nearly as possible the different interests of the class. The members were selected for their energy and their sound qualifications, and they will work together to make the Hop a success. The date of the Hop has been set for December 18, at Fraternity hall. This date, coming immediately at the close of school for the Christmas holidays will meet with general favor as the best possible date for holding this important function of the first year class.

The following committee was appointed by President Scott to collect subscriptions for the Freshmen for the Temple Fund:

I. B. Jones, chairman; William Charlton, Otto Katouc, Myrtle Kauffmann, Penelope Ring.

One 15 cent breakfast, one 25 cent dinner, and one 25 cent supper will make 65 cents per day, or $3.95 per week for your board at the Good Health Cafe. This will cost you only $2.50. That is, you save $1.45 per week when you buy one of our tickets. Come and try us a couple of weeks.

IS IN GOOD SHAPE

Team Prepared for a Good Practice Game With Bellevue.

The team was given an easy night last night. The Scrubs were not out and the Varsity was put through a short signal practice. Some time was spent in kicking goals, and running down punts and then the team was sent in.

All the men are in good shape and look forward to a good game today. All the Kansas bruises are healed or rapidly nearing that condition.

Benedict will not be in the game tomorrow, but will save up for Thanksgiving. Standeven, who has been doing some very good work lately, will play at end.

Graves is still on the sick list. He was not out for practice last night. His face is rapidly assuming its normal condition and he will be on the field in suit today.

It is hoped that the students will turn out well today. This is next to the last game this season, and every one should take advantage of every chance to see the team play.

Such a team as we have this year does not grow on every cranberry bush.

Over a thousand reserved seats have been sold for the Illinois game. There are still a number of goods ones left, but they won't last long, so all those intending to go had better secure their seats as soon as possible.

The University of Illinois plays the University of Iowa and the outcome of this game will be watched with interest as an idea of the strength of Illinois may be gained from it.

FRESHMAN VICTORIOUS.

The big game was finally played and the Freshmen proved themselves masters of the situation, outplaying their opponents almost at every turn and leaving the final score 13 to 0. The Sophs played against odds, however, as the Freshman line-up was practically that of the University Scrubs.

But the Sophs played a desperate game and in the first half held the Freshmen down to 2 scores, which were made by a safety and goal. The ball was almost continually in Soph territory, and they saved their goal only by frequent punting. The second half was characterized by hard and fast playing and many sensational runs, for which the Freshmen again were mostly responsible. Drain was easily the star, making both touchdowns, besides a number of long runs. Bishop, Burns and Stein all made good gain for the Freshmen. Cook made the only long run for the Sophs, and Clark's line-bucking was very good. McLaughlin tried a place kick for the Sophs, but missed goal by a few feet. The game was hard fought and the Sophs deserve credit for holding their opponents down as well as they did. The Freshmen back field was simply too swift, and the team work was much complimented by old football men. After the game the Freshmen warriors were picked up by their enthusiastic supporters and carried from the field. A good sized crowd was out and rooting was good for both teams. The Freshmen felt victorious all through the game, their chief yell being: "What's the matter with the Seniors? Nothing! What's nothing? Seniors!" Next Wednesday they will decide once for all "Who's nothing."

The Seniors haven't as many scrubs on their team, but they have some good material and are well coached. They played a good game against the Juniors and will go against the Freshmen to win. Both teams will play their best, since the inter-class championship is at stake and, moreover, the Seniors will fight for their honor, since the disgrace of being beaten by Freshmen would be intolerable. This game, taking place the last afternoon before the Thanksgiving recess, will bring out a large crowd, which will add much to the interest of the game. To preserve the dignity of the occasion an admission fee of 10 cents will be charged, the proceeds to go towards buying caps for the winners and defraying other expenses connected with these games.

A HARD FALL.

L. G. Hanna Rendered Unconscious by a Fall.

While performing the giant swing on the horizontal bar yesterday afternoon L. G. Hanna, gym assistant, lost his grip, and was thrown ten or twelve feet forward, lighting beyond the mat, on his back. The fall was a hard one and Mr. Hanna was for a time rendered unconscious.

Dr. Clapp and Mr. Lane at once took care of him, and soon brought him to. It was for a time difficult to say how bad the injuries were, but by 6 o'clock Mr. Hanna felt able to walk about and expressed himself as feeling somewhat faint and that he would not try the giant swing before tomorrow at least.

Union-Doane Debate Dec. 11.

The debate between Doane and the Union Debating club will take place at Crete December 11. Doane takes the affirmative of the following question: "Resolved, that the South is justified in disfranchising the Negro." L. O. Pfeiffer, R. C. James and R. H. McReynolds will represent the Union club. Several members of the club will probably accompany the team to Crete.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting Tomorrow.

Dr. Fletcher L. Wharton will speak at the Oliver theatre tomorrow at 4 o'clock on "The Business of Life." Harry Wharton will sing the "Ninety and Nine." Miss Nellie Clark will sing with violin obligato. Doors open at 3:45 p. m. Come early and get a good seat.

On Negro Disfranchisement.

The disfranchisement of the negro by the South State was interestingly argued in English 15 yesterday afternoon by L. J. Zook and C. A. Mohrman on the affirmative and J. G. H. Hanlen and C. H. Taylor on the negative. There were several visitors present to hear the debate and the criticism of it.

The anatomical laboratory is again looking for dogs and cats, and so far as the former, at least, are concerned, no exceptions are made on account of age, color, or previous condition of servitude, providing the owners have not paid the license required by law.
