Editorial Remarks

Unless ordered discontinued The Daily Nebraskan will be sent the coming semester to all present subscribers.

Tonight occurs the girls' basket ball tournament, and the prospects for a hard contest for the championship are promising. The teams have already been sized up by an impartial authority whose views have been already published in this paper, and an estimate of their respective merits indicates that the battle for the pennant will be close and exciting. Three games will be played, thus affording a full evening's entertainment of an exceedingly lively character.

There is no reason why we should not look ahead to the Wisconsin game next week and point out the desirability of having a crowd out upon this occasion. This game will undoubtedly be the best upon our home schedule, and as such is deserving of special note.

The strength of the Badgers' team is well known and when a contest with that aggregation is scheduled, all take it for granted that a game well worth seeing is in view. So much for the importance of the contest that is promised, and now looking at the other considerations that are incidentally presented. Whenever a game with a team of Wisconsin's calibre takes place here University people should feel a common incentive to come out and support it. The measure of support accorded to basket ball in general largely determines the character of games that can be secured with other institutions. So when a good game is scheduled here, it is incumbent upon us to appreciate its importance and turn out and support it in the proper way. The value of good games must be appreciated if we are to have them, and the financial returns are a safe indication of the results attained. And we should see the financial results of the game with Wisconsin are wholly commensurate with its importance.

When the Sophomores meet Monday they should assemble with a fixed purpose to settle definitely the question raised concerning the choosing of the editor and business manager of the Sombbrero. This business is of surpassing importance, and it is the duty of the president and the class to see that it is attended to as speedily as possible. Any attempt to delay matters farther ought to be regarded in its true light as a palpable effort to obstruct, and cried down in its inception. The majority of the class have expressed a desire that the chief places on the Junior Board be made elective, and their wishes should be respected.

We hope that no parties concerned in this matter would fear to submit their cause to the class, for a backwardness in doing so might leave grounds for drawing an inference of such a character as not to be to anyone's credit. The question should be met squarely and fairly, and any attempt to tlide it over to future discussion should be discountenanced. If the class sees fit to elect the present appointees, no protest can be made. By electing men for the leading places on the board the class will be responsible for its own action. Let the class decide this matter and have it laid on the shelf once for all. And let every Sophomore turn out and make his presence and his own wishes felt in the meeting.

LIST OF REQUIREMENTS

Branches Necessary for Rhode's Scholarship Examination

We have been requested to publish the list of requirements for the Rhodes scholarship examination, in order that those who are in doubt as to the branches required may be enlightened:

The requirements of the Resposions examination, as stated in the statutes of the University of Oxford, are as follows:

- Candidates must offer the following:
 - (1) Arithmetic—the whole.
 - (2) Either Algebra or Geometry.
 - (3) Greek and Latin Grammar.
 - (4) Translation from English into Latin prose.
 - (5) Greek and Latin authors.

Candidates must offer two books, one Greek and one Latin, or unseen translation. The following portions of the under-mentioned authors will be accepted:

- Demosthenes: (1) Phillipics 1-3, and Olynthiacs 1-3; or (2) De Corona.
- Euripides: Any of the two following plays: Hecuba, Medea Alcestis, Bacchae.
- Homer: (1) Illiad 1-5, or 2-6; or (2) Odyssey 1-5, or 2-6.

- Plato, Alopogy and Crito.
- Sophocles, Antigone and Ajax.
- Xenophon, Anabasis 1-4, or 2-5.
- Caesar, De Bello Gallico, 1-4.
- Cicero: (1) the first two Phillipic Orations; or (2) the four Cataline Orations, and In Verrem, Act 1; or (3) the orations Pro Murena and Pro Lege Manilla; or (4) the treatise De Senectute and De Amicitia.

- Horace: (1) Odes 1-4; or (2) Satires; or (3) Epistles.
- Livy, books 21 and 22. (After Michaelmas, 1903, books V. and VI.)
- Virgil: (1) the Bucolics, with books 1-3 of the Aeneid; or (2) the Georgics; or (3) the Aeneid, Books 1-5, or 2-6.

Papers covering this range of study will be prepared by examiners appointed by the trustees, and will be sent to each centre, where, at a date publicly announced, the examination will be held under proper supervision, and the papers returned to the examiners. The committees and universities making appointments will be furnished with a statement of the qualifications which Mr. Rhodes desired in the holders of his scholarships and they will be asked in exercising their right to selection to comply as nearly as circumstances will permit with the spirit of the testator's wishes.

They will be asked to furnish to the trustees as full a statement as possible of the school and college career of each elected scholar, with the selected grounds of his appointment, together with suggestions, if desired, as to the course of study for which he is best fitted.

It was been decided that all scholars shall have reached at least the end of their Sophomore or second year work at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States.

Scholars must be unmarried, must be citizens of the United States and must be between nineteen and twenty-five years of age.

Where several candidates present themselves from a single college or university, the committees of selection will request the faculty of the college to decide between their claims on the basis of Mr. Rhodes' suggestions, and present to the committee the name of the candidate chosen by that college at its representative in the final election.
