Rev. Samuel Z. Batten at Chapel.

Rev. Samuel Z. Batten spoke during convocation yesterday morning on the question, "What to do with doubts." He spoke of this as a prevailing case with students, most of us having been trained in a Christian home, where the influences were such that we seemed to know and take for granted without any investigation the divinity of God. When we came to school and entered further into the services and scrambled for the cause of everything with a sequence of plausible reasons, we were led to doubt. Religion could not be taken for granted in these days, it must be worked out and yet it is full of mystery like all the other things of the universe.

Nothing seems to be fully worked out. The whole world is nothing but a mystic system, full of interrogation points.

Don't magnify the doubts. The things we can see are not to be doubted if we live high, noble, manly lives, which is a part of religion. We can not doubt its value because we see its fruits. If Christ was a high, noble character, better that we should pattern after him than to doubt his existence from divine authority.

The talk was very helpful and suggestive of many ideas worthy of deep thought and careful study.

Alumnus Honored.

Frank S. Philbrick, who graduated from the University in 1897 and took his M. A. degree in 1899, has been appointed to an instructorship in Government at Harvard. Mr. Philbrick is one of the most brilliant and well versed men that our University has ever graduated and the news of his success will be received with gladness by those of our faculty and alumni who were well acquainted with him. He has taught here, being a fellow in American history in 1898-99. In 1902 he took his Ph. D. degree at Harvard, having served as both fellow and scholar there. During the past two years he has been a student in Europe, having studied at Berlin, Paris, London and other cities, and traveled extensively in Germany, Italy and Spain. The subject of both his theses for the master's and doctor's degree was "The Relation of the United States to Cuba."

A Favorable Comment.

Dr. Luckey's book on the "Professional Training of Teachers" is reviewed in last month's number of The Pedagogical Seminary. After a treatment of the general purposes of the book and a review of the subject matter, the following comment is made: "The book as a whole will be found a valuable one for reference and will save students along similar lines of research many hours of work. In thus collating so much valuable material, Prof. Luckey has rendered a valuable service to the students of education."

Glee Club Concert May 6.

The Glee club concert will be held May 6th at the Oliver theatre. In spite of the fact that seats have not yet been put on sale, all of the boxes are already taken. The tickets will be put on sale this week, and it is quite likely that they will go at a lively rate. The club is meeting twice a week under the leadership of Director Eames. However it expects to meet oftener hereafter and will work hard in getting into the best of shape. The club has suffered greatly from delays this year, especially in getting started, as there was no one ready at first to take Professor Starr's place as director. But under Prof. Eames' direction the club has made good progress, and the concert will be one of the most successful university events of the year. It expects to get under headway earlier next fall, as it will not be hampered by any such handicap as it has just experienced.
