Editorial Remarks

Three weeks remain before the first debate of the year. Our teams have been picked and consist of the men who have shown themselves the most fitting to fill the positions to which they have aspired. They can justly feel proud of the reward that they have earned, and are to be congratulated upon their success. They can feel assured that the University will take an interest in them this year as its champions in debate, and their work will be closely watched from now on. If present indications do not fail of fulfillment, Memorial hall will find all of its space fully utilized for at least once in its experience.

We hope that the attention of all University students may have been directed to the lecture by Mr. J. A. L. Wadell this evening in Memorial hall. He is the most prominent bridge constructor in the west, having established an enviable reputation as an able and skillful engineer. He is a man of wide experience and the works that he has planned and perfected attest the genius of a man whose abilities have been centered in rendering to his fellowmen services of a permanent and enduring character. Memorial hall should be packed to its limit this evening, and if University people are appreciative of this opportunity to hear a clearly drawn and instructive lecture, it certainly will be.

The School for Superintendents and Principals is to be one of the most important features of the summer school work, and already we are beginning to hear comments upon the wisdom of its introduction. It is intended to develop this school into a great feature, as the possibilities that it holds out are capable of development into substantial and telling results. Here is a new field, and it will doubtless be worked to the best advantage. Many who are instructors or intend to become such ought to welcome such an opportunity for good training, and the school should find no great obstacles to overcome, as it is something that is really needed. It will be widely advertised, in order that attention may be drawn to it from many different quarters. The superintendents and principals of Nebraska will find here an opportunity that accords with their needs, and we look to see this branch of the summer school realize the fullest success.

The Lincoln Academy and City Y. M. C. A. Debating clubs will meet in a debate at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday evening, April 9. The question under discussion is Canadian Annexation to the United States. The Academy has the affirmative of the proposition and the Y. M. C. A. will support the negative. The supporters of both clubs are looking forward to a good debate.

FOR PHYSICS BUILDING.

Contract Will Be Awarded Next Tuesday.

Bids for the new Physics building will be opened next Monday at a meeting of the building committee of the Board of Regents, and the contract itself probably awarded by the Regents themselves on Tuesday. There will probably be keen competition among the bidders on the construction, as over twenty firms from towns all the way from St. Louis, Mo., to St. Paul, Minn., have asked for specifications on the building. Actual work on the structure will commence about ten days after the awarding of the contract, or somewhere in the neighborhood of April 22. It will probably be possible for the last ball games before the trip to be held before the structure is begun, although it is possible, of course, that the Omaha League will have to be played in the F. & M. park.

Will Address Y. M. C. A.

There is a universal expression of regret, not only among our citizens, but especially among University people, over the announcement in yesterday morning's paper that Dr. Fletcher L. Wharton, for four and one-half years pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, had accepted a call to a pastorate in Seattle, Wash. Dr. Wharton has always shown deep interest and sympathy for the students of this city, and especially for those connected with this University.

The last opportunity of hearing him before a University audience will be next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chapel, when he will give a farewell talk to college men. This is the last chance for those whom he has especially befriended, as well as those who have faith in him and his work, to show their appreciation of the man and his services to the people of Lincoln and the state.

This meeting will furnish a large number of men with the opportunity of meeting Dr. Wharton personally, of giving him a farewell handclasp. It is a University men's meeting, and every man is expected to turn out on this occasion.

Falls City Raises Guarantee.

Captain Chase is still in correspondence with several towns in regard to the annual cadet encampment. Falls City has already guaranteed the specified sum necessary to secure the encampment, but Captain Chase wishes to hear definitely from all the towns before deciding on any one. This he expects to do next week.
