Regents Raise Instructors to Higher Positions.

The following is a complete and official account of one of the most important meetings of the Board of Regents in recent years:

The Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska met on Tuesday at 2 p. m., continuing in session until noon yesterday.

Present: Regents Allen, Calkins, Teeters and Whitmore.

The minutes of the preceding meeting of the board and the proceedings of the building committee and finance committee since the last meeting of the board read and approved.

The secretary was instructed to take up with the claims department of the Burlington road the question of damage done by fire to the grove of trees on land owned by the University in Red Willow county.

The communication from the Lincoln Telephone company (automatic) was received, and referred to the finance committee with power to act.

A communication from Postmaster Sizer relating to Station A was received and referred to the building committee to be considered with building plans.

Special committee on revision of by-laws of the Board of Regents presented a report and draft proposing amendments and corrections of the printed by-laws according to the former orders of the board. The report of the committee was received and adopted and the revised by-laws ordered printed for distribution.

The annual salary and current expense budgets for the ensuing year occupied much of the time of the board. These budgets as finally corrected and revised were adopted.

A list of minor appointments by the chancellor since the last meeting of the board was approved as recommended.

The resignation of Dr. H. B. Lowrey as professor of diseases of the nervous system in the Medical College was received and accepted.

The following advances in title were ordered:

G. E. Condra from adjunct professor to assistant professor of geology.

H. S. Evans from instructor to adjunct professor of electrical engineering.

Professor P. H. Frye from assistant professor to associate professor of English language.

Mr. M. M. Fogg, from assistant professor to associate professor of English writing and speaking.

J. J. Ledwith, assistant instructor in law.

Mrs. Minnie T. England, fellow in political economy 1904-05.

Mrs. Josephine R. Eggleston, assistant registrar for the School of Agriculture.

The building committee reported that it had opened and inspected the bids filed for construction of the physics building on the University campus and the school building at the farm, and recommending the acceptance of the bid of the Capital City Brick and Pipe Co., of Des Moines, Ia., on each, at $58,975 for the physics building, and $52,795 for the farm school building. It was ordered that the report of the committee be received and that the bids be accepted and contracts be awarded accordingly to the Capital City Brick and Pipe Co., on the usual conditions of furnishing the required bonds and schedules according to the terms of the notice under which bids were received.

It was ordered that leave of absence be granted to Professor Fling from May 20th until the opening of the next semester next September on the usual conditions for providing for the work in his department to the close of the present academic year.

The chancellor was named as delegate to the convention of state University presidents soon to meet at Columbia, Mo.

On examination of the plans submitted for the new administration building it was ordered that the same stand approved provided it appear that the building can be constructed within the appropriation. The plans were referred to the building committee with instructions to request the architect to furnish tracings, blue prints, detail drawings and specifications thereupon, the committee to proceed to call for bids in the usual manner.

In the matter of remodeling the chemical laboratory building and upon examination of plans therefor presented by Superintendent Chowins it was ordered that the subject be referred to the building committee with instructions to provide a chemical store room on the east side of the north wing of said building, and to proceed with the details of interior improvements and repairs. Ordered further that the construction of a south wing to said building be postponed until adequate appropriations can be obtained for that purpose. Adjourned.

The contracts for the two new buildings referred to in the above provided for their completion by a year from next June. This should provide ample time for their construction, and Superintendent of Construction Chowins stated yesterday that it was probable that they would be ready for use much sooner than that. Although it is not certain when building will commence, it will probably be about the first week in May, thus insuring the holding of the baseball games prior to the trip on the campus.

The appropriation for the administration building by the last legislature was $35,000. Bids will be advertised for as soon as the blue prints, detail drawings, etc., are received from the architect and approved.

The chemical store room referred to in the last paragraph of the report will be in the form of a cellar on the east side of the Chem. Lab. With the exception of the proposed basement addition to the west side of the laboratory, the improvements as heretofore announced will be made in the summer, and the structure will be ready for occupancy at the opening of school next fall. Constructor Chowin's plans for the remodeling of the building were accepted by the board. This means a complete remodeling and renovation, and will insure one of the best laboratories in the west for the University. A new electric elevator will be installed, a power for the grinding apparatus in the assay room, an ex-hauster and air-compressor, as well as various other conveniences. The funds available amount to $20,000.

As far as possible the work will be let in separate contracts. The University will buy and install the ventilator system. No contract will be let for the plumbing, as it is probable that much of the present material will be available again.

FIRST DAY'S EXAMINATION.

Nine Men Go Through Mill For Six Hours.

Nine candidates put in an appearance yesterday morning for the Rhodes scholarship examination. Four of these were from the University and five from outside. The examinations occupied six hours in all, two hours being allowed for each subject. The first was in Latin translation, beginning at 10 o'clock, and it seemed to go off smoothly for all concerned. At 1 o'clock Latin prose composition was taken up and beginning at 3 o'clock two hours of excessive misery were endured in Greek and Latin grammar. The candidates found these examinations much more rigorous than they had expected, as many complex things were brought under consideration, while many parts in which they have been thoroughly drilled and on which they prepared with great care were not even touched upon. In the vernacular of one of the boys, "They were simply handed a package." All of the candidates found it necessary to use the full two hours, except one man, who became discouraged, and quit early. The mill will grind again today. The following is the program:

Arithmetic from 10 to 12 a. m.
Algebra or Geometry from 1 to 3 p. m.

Greek translation from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m.

Following is the list of the men who are registered:

W. R. Hull, Hastings college.
Frank A. Peterson, State University.
B. G. Lewis, State University.
J. D. Rice, State University.
Arthur Marsh, State University.
Erwin Sutherland, Grand Island college.

GET SOME COPY

Juniors Try to Raid the Senior Annual Book.

Yesterday it was rumored about that a number of enterprising Juniors had some time ago exercised their craft successfully in securing without the consent of the custodian a considerable amount of the copy intended for the Senior Annual. It was said that they had succeeded in making away with material that was essential to the success of the book and which at this late date positively could not be spared, and even that the book could not be printed until this copy was returned or in some way replaced. Coupled with these rumors was one to the effect that the Juniors intended soon to publish the material that they had purloined, as they would not be guilty of depriving such masterpieces of human thought of their right to appear in print.

It has been found out for sure that the Juniors did secure some of the copy and that they had well defined plans for printing it, probably on posters to be freely circulated among the students or put in conspicuous places. They have certainly struck a unique plan for stirring up excitement, in spite of the distress that they may have caused the Senior Annual editors. If they should succeed in capturing the right material they could certainly cause trouble. If fences and Senior Annual preparations are to be left undisturbed they must be circumspect. Class spirit is a strange thing, and it deals with vagaries. No doubt the Juniors who took the material were impelled by a generous and genuine impulse to cause the Seniors some trouble, and although it seems that they did not succeed as well as they wished, no one doubts their good intentions. It appears that they did not succeed in capturing anything of importance, as one of the editors of the Annual made the following declaration yesterday in regard to the matter:

"It is true that the Juniors did succeed in obtaining some of our copy, but unfortunately they did not have an opportunity of exercising a choice in the matter or they would have made a better selection. They found some material in a book belonging to one of the editors in one of the alcoves of the library. Part of this they took, and a part they overlooked. The part that was overlooked was all that there was of value in the book, as some of this was indispensable. The part they took consisted of a number of write-ups, proofs of plates, and a number of roasts and the like that had been rejected. If the Juniors can put these to any good use they are welcome to them. The Senior Annual board has sustained no loss, and if a good joke has been played on us we are willing to own up to it."

Whether or not the Juniors will now see fit to publish the material in their possession is a question for the future to make plain. Yet some of the students are curious to see just what they have got, and although the Juniors are robbed of a part of their triumph because evidently no damage has been inflicted upon anyone, some curiosity would be aroused if they would publish whatever they think best of the material in their possession.
