Preliminary Track Meet Yesterday—One Record Broken.

Yesterday afternoon the preliminary meet was held on the Uni campus. There was a cold north wind blowing, which prevented more than one record from being broken. Hauser lowered the previous Uni record in the 220-yard hurdles by one-fifth of a second, making them in 28 2-5 seconds.

Pole vault—Hagensick, 10 feet 2 inches, Gibson 10 feet, Morse.
Shot put—Weller, 33 feet 7 inches, Martin 32 feet 9 inches, Kile.
Half-mile run—Penrod 2:14, Havens, Sampson.
120-yard hurdles—Hauser 17 2-5, Hagensick, Mouck.
Running high—Anthis 5 feet 3 inches, Meier 5 feet 1 inch.
Hammer throw—Martin 106 feet, Weller 96 feet 9 inches, Kile.

The doubtful weather conditions seem to stand in the way of a game this afternoon with the Omaha league team. If the worst is realized then indeed we will have cause for regret, since the two games promised have been looked forward to with much expectation. We understood yesterday that a fence would be put up so as to deprive the curious of an opportunity of viewing the proceedings of the game from without.

If it is possible to meet the leaguers, our team may have reason to expect stiffer time than experienced at the former meetings. The Omaha men have been getting in lots of practice and developing team work, so that they will doubtless play together better than before. Letherby, the former University star, has been tried and proved below the league standard, as well as Plake, the man who played shortstop. Omaha has been mauled by big league teams, but has dealt quite satisfactorily with St. Joe. If the two games arranged can be played, an interesting time can be looked for, and we do not believe that either contest will be one-sided. But rain is the worst enemy that baseball has, and unless the weather conditions are much more favorable than they were last night both games may be declared off.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

Variety of Entertainment for Visiting Minnesota Girls.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of the Minnesota girls' basket-ball team during its coming visit to the University, and the welcome accorded the Nebraska girls at Minneapolis last month will be outdone, if possible, by the reception to the Gopher girls next Friday. The management of the girls' team here is doing everything possible to make the match a big success, and a number of attractions have already been arranged for which seem to assure that result.

The team is scheduled to arrive at 10:10 a. m. Friday over the Burlington, and a big crowd will be on hand to meet them.

It is expected that every girl in the University will turn out to welcome the Gophers, there being no doubt whatever as to the attendance of the men. From two to three o'clock in the afternoon the Armory will be turned over to the visitors for goal practice. Immediately following this, they will be taken for a trolley ride over Lincoln and vicinity, providing the weather is favorable.

The game begins at 8:15 p. m. in the Armory. The attraction between halves will be the city Y. W. C. A. vs. the Academy. These old opponents expect to meet this time according to the strict woman's rules, involving the three-court limitations, thus affording an excellent contrast to the other game, which will be played more or less according to the rules of the men's game. The patronesses for the evening will be Mrs. W. J. Bryan, Mrs. C. H. Gere and Mrs. H. H. Wilson. After the match a chafing dish party will be given to the members of the team by the Kappa Kappa Gammas at the home of Miss Gladys Hargreaves.

The big tennis team's tournament between Miss Emily Johnston of Minnesota and Inez Everett of Nebraska will be held at 10:30 Saturday morning on the campus. At one o'clock a luncheon will be served to both teams at the Lindell ordinary. In the afternoon a tea will be tendered the team at the Kappa Alpha Theta house.

The Minnesota team leaves at six o'clock Saturday afternoon over the Burlington.

DEFENDS THE CAPS.

Freshman Sets Forth Views in a Communication.

Editor Daily Nebraskan:

The Freshmen will wear caps. The majority have voted for the insignia and there is no other harmonious course than for the minority to concur in the project.

Much agitation from non-interested members has been the result of their action, but how much justice and practical logic is there in the evidence they are producing to prohibit the lower classmen from wearing a badge that distinguishes their organization from numerous others in the University?

The only argument that has thus far been produced by the upper classmen can be summarized in one sentence, namely: That none of them were accorded such privileges in their early career. They say that they did not wear caps, therefore we must not. Now, an analysis of the force of their logic will not come amiss. According to their theory a boy should not have an education because his father is an illiterate man, a girl should spin and weave today, no matter how many inventions have been introduced, because her mother was compelled to do so. In other words, they argue that we can do nothing but ape those who have preceded us. It is not hard to see how fallacious and notoriously preposterous their premises are. Had each succeeding class followed in the time-worn path of their predecessors, we ask the elder gentlemen, how much progress would have been made in the history of our University. The class of '07 is initiating a new custom, one which is a harmless stimulant of class loyalty, and is not given as a challenge to incite antagonism among our senior friends.

We have many reasons upon which we base our claims and those who are open to a sense of justice must give them due credence.

We are the largest class organization in the institution; we have more representatives in athletics, more who attend these tournaments, and as individuals have not been excelled in contributing to the temple fund.

Aside from this, in all functions given by the upper classmen we have contributed liberally of our time and money to make them a success. Why, then, can they conscientiously place a damper on a simple action that in no way interferes with their organizations. If there is any justice in such action, we fall to see it. We might pass a resolution that it is obnoxious to our vision to see the ten or a dozen sophomores wear their caps and our power to annihilate them would not be questioned by applying our force of numbers, but we do not consider what they eat, drink or wear, or how fantastically they part their hair, one atom of our business. We believe that our liberty ends where that of our neighbor begins. We have not made a declaration of war, as has frequently been charged to us. We have simply exercised a right which belongs to no one but the class of '07.

We have no purpose to antagonize our senior friends. We are but showing our class spirit, and those classes who come after us may follow in our footsteps if they see fit, but if their good sense should direct them to take another course and improve upon the path we have hewn, we hope that we shall be able to refrain from any hostile action, but cheer them on in their desire to surpass their predecessors.

LADY MINSTRELS

Practice for Big Event of April 28—Progressing Steadily.

Preparations for the minstrel show still go merrily on. The board of regents report that they were unable to transact much business at their last meeting because the "show" was practicing in the same building and was much more entertaining to listen to than the sage remarks of the building committee regarding the architect's plans for the new physics building.

The joke department of the minstrel show is working twenty-four hours a day. The promise, however, that the professors are to be toasted and not roasted. If this is the case there surely must be something in store for the student body. A junior suggested yesterday that perhaps the Senior Annual board would hear from some of their missing material when the interlocutor begins to query the end men as to "What you all is a thinkin' about?"

When seen last night, Miss Ruth Wilson, the business manager, reported that the tickets were selling well, one of the members of the Dramatic club having sold over fifty already. The tickets, which are now in the hands of the members of the Dramatic club and on sale at the book stores and Curtis' music store, can be left at the Oliver as orders for the tickets of admission or exchanged for the tickets of admission themselves any time after next Saturday morning.

Courses in Chemical Engineering

The chemistry department will offer courses in chemical engineering and mining engineering next year.

Chemical engineering will be a four-years' course, with the nature of other engineering courses, based on chemistry. Graduates from this course will be prepared to hold positions in any technical chemical work.

Three years' work will constitute the work in mining engineering and will prepare the student to take his fourth year at any school of mines. Students in this course will be expected to spend their vacations in the mining districts and gain practical knowledge.
