Academy Notes.

The girls' edition of the Academy News is due to startle the world May 15th. What it will be no man knoweth nor is any man likely to learn. All that is sure is that it will be good.

The principal was absent in Chicago most of last week and this week must go to St. Louis. He finds himself not at all necessary to the Academy, and therefore his absence has suffered abatement.

The baseball team under the captaincy of Mr. J. J. Haines, is meeting with unusual success. In fact it is beginning to be an accepted thing that when the Academy goes for a prize it gets it. Many this frame of mind continue.

Despite the heavy rain fifty people came out to the closing reception at the principal's home Saturday evening. Piano solos, chorus singing, refreshments and an auction filled the hours full. The young people proved desperate bidders at the auction and many stopped only when bankrupted.

Mr. John F. Eudgeon has felt obliged to leave school and make up his work next fall. A business opportunity came to him too good to refuse. Mr. C. V. Smith has also withdrawn, having been elected a delegate to the national convention at Chicago of the Y. M. C. A. He will spend the summer in Pennsylvania with relatives and give his eyes, which have given him much anxiety, a chance to recover.

With great regret the faculty and students have received the news of Miss Kingsbury's election to the teaching force of her alma mater in Ohio. Yesterday a telegram summoned her to go on at once. Miss Kingsbury is a teacher of unusual power and is beloved by old and young. Superintendent J. J. Fossler, of Huntington, will be in charge of the German classes in the Academy next year. Mr. Fossler is an alumnus of the University, a successful executive and a capable German teacher, and the Academy will extend him a hearty welcome.

Attractions at the Exposition.

"Demonstration" is the keynote of the Louisiana Purchase exposition. Life and motion characterize the exhibits.

Education is the grand purpose. As the plan of the exposition developed in the minds of its projectors it became evident that a very much larger exposition than any which had preceded it would be necessary, because more room would be required for the demonstration of processes of manufacture or production than for the mere display of finished products.

The exposition covers 1211 acres, while the area at Chicago was 633 acres. The Paris Exposition covered 336 acres, the Pan-American exposition 330 acres, the Centennial at Philadelphia 236, and the Trans-Mississippi at Omaha 150.

Chicago has eighty-two acres under roof in its principal exhibit palaces; the world's fair has 128 acres. The Buffalo exposition had but fifteen and Omaha nine acres.

One of the most attractive features of the exposition will be the Irish industrial exhibition. Among other things the Irish house of parliament, Ross Castle and an Irish round tower will be reproduced. A theatre seating 1,800 people will present Irish plays of a high class, where may be heard prize singers, harpers and pipers, and the famous Ireland's own brass and reed band. There will be many antiquities, relics of celebrated Irishmen, as well as numerous objects of art in the museum.

All sizes in duck pants at $1.00 to $1.50. Blue flannel shirts at $1.00, $1.50, $2.50 and $3.00. Also the best army hat every shown, at 90 cents. The B. L. Paine Clothing Store.
