A GREAT SUCCESS

Faculty Circus Makes a Good Showing and $350.

The Big Benefit for College Settlement Rivals Last Year's Show.

With all the pageantry and tinsel of the real thing the faculty circus opened promptly at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Before the thousand of cheering spectators the cavalcade of horses under the leadership of Col. Bills, passed around the arena. Music furnished by the cadet band and the magnificent band of the faculty blended beautifully with the cheering of the crowds as this splendid parade passed the grand stand. Following this with circus like promptness was the beautiful and skillful exhibition of horsemanship under the management of Col. Bills. Thirty riders took part in this and many and intricate were their performances. At the sound of the whistle the horses would fall into line and then circle this way and that until the women in the grandstand held their breath, fearing that they would never become untangled. They did, however, and now singly and then by twos marched up and down the field until the crowd grew hoarse from cheering. Then they withdrew.

Just as the last horse disappeared from the arena a stage coach pulled by a four-horse team appeared upon the field at a gallop. On top were a dozen or so of fierce looking warriors armed to the teeth. They were looking for trouble. When they looked at the grandstand there was not a peep, not a rooster in the bleachers breathed until they had passed. Just as they thought themselves the masters of all they survey a band of noble red men rushed into the field with blood curdling yells and gymnastic stunts which would astound a Dr. Clapp. Trouble began and shots were exchanged. Then there was a war dance.

Without giving the spectators time to take a breath a broncho imported directly from Prairie Dog Station, Wyo., was brought on the field. A gentleman then volunteered to ride it and was given the chance. He stuck to the stirrups but so ambitious was the horse to rise in the world and so limited were his abilities that the rider hit the saddle often and hard. Indeed a lady in the audience was heard to say, "Oh, he'll hurt the horse, coming down so hard on it."

One of the most enjoyable features on the program followed this. It was the exhibition of the horses from the Lincoln Draught Horse Imp. Co. The horses were fine animals and were fully appreciated by the audience. The country stunts by the giant and the midget followed. Naturally the midget won out, but it must not be understood that it was by favoritism, for even in the shot put the midget put the shot, 90 pounds, 140 feet, to the giants 40, showing the magnitude of his strength.

Dr. Clapp's class in gymnastics performed very skilfully upon the parallel bars.

In quick succession followed the slow wheel race, won by Prof. Engberg, and the wheelbarrow race, in which Prof. Engberg again showed himself to be the most proficient.

Then came the climax. Seventy-two brave and husky Profs lined up to prove to the students that they were not so slow. It took some moments to grasp the fact that this or that favorite professor was lying on the ground with several others on top, but when they did the enthusiasm was intense. "Don't cry little boy, don't cry," was the favorite song.

Prof. Emerson's team had the kick-off. The ball was returned thirty yards by one of the Condraitcs. Then followed a series of end runs and tackle-back plays that made Booth envious. Steadily the Condraitcs advanced the ball to Emerson's 15-yard line. There they were held and by a neat kick Prof. Emerson got out of danger. Here is where Dr. Wolcott shone. Taking the ball he showed that he had been watching "Dodging Bender" play, for he cleared nine of Emerson's men and four of his own and made forty yards. The tenth man of Emerson's team brought him down, just five yards outside of bounds. After that it was first one side had the ball and then the other until finally time was called. Score 0 to 0 and no one hurt.

Between halves a hundred yard dash was run. Mr. Hatfield of the law school won by fifty yards or less.

The second half of the football game opened up with fury. Both sides were bound to make a touchdown, but Condraitcs steadily pushed the ball toward his opponent's goal and just before time was called Graves went through for a touchdown. Graves kicked goal. Score, 6 to 0.

It was all over. On the financial side, the circus was also a marked success. About $230 was taken in at the gate yesterday, and this, with what was realized from tickets previously sold and from the refreshments served on the grounds, will increase to about $350—about the same as was realized from the Faculty Foolishness last year. The doughnuts and coffee served at the tent yesterday, and which caused so much favorable comment, came from Sam Westerfield's cafe.

GLEES MAY GET CREDIT.

Movement on Foot to Secure Recognition for Singers.

It is probable that those men who are fortunate enough to be chosen as members of the glee club will receive one hour's credit per semester for their work. This was the announcement made at chapel yesterday morning by Professor Foster, and since then the probability has become stronger than ever. The work of the glee club is conducted in a thoroughly systematic manner, and is of very decided benefit to the members. It is very reasonable to expect university credit for it, say the men who are behind the movement.

At the first meeting of the club Thursday evening over thirty candidates for places presented themselves. Professor Eames considers this an excellent showing for the first try-out, but expects many more at the meeting at 7 o'clock this evening. "With our registration," he said to a Nebraskan representative last evening, "a hundred men should try for places on the glee club."

The plans of the club this year contemplate much more frequent public appearance than last year, and a number of trips out in the state will be made. With the interest that is being shown already, it would seem that a most prosperous year is in prospect for the club.

Gophers Plug Up—Davis Secures Modification of Contract.

Manager Davis returned from his trip to Minnesota yesterday. He reports that Minnesota is talking of almost nothing else but the Nebraska game, and will do her best to retrieve the defeat of two years ago.

The most important part of Mr. Davis's mission in Minneapolis was accomplished. Our contract with the Gophers provided that the receipts from the game would be evenly divided up to $8,000. Mr. Davis secured a further concession in the way of an equal division of all proceeds from tickets sold by the football management in Lincoln, irrespective of the above amount. This will not, of course, amount to much in case no excursion is run from Lincoln, or in case any excursion which may be run is not well attended.

A conference of representatives of five railroads, which are competing for the excursion, met in Lincoln yesterday morning and agreed on a rate of $12.40 for the round trip. Since the admission to the game will amount to about $2, this rate means that the actual expenses of the trip could not be much less than $20, which is too much to guarantee a good crowd. The rate is considered, however, as a mere bluff on the part of the railroads, and some lively cutting is anticipated before the excursion is actually assured. A rate of $6 from Omaha to Minneapolis goes into effect next Monday and it is thought that this may have some effect on the football excursion, since it would only mean a continuance of the rate for a couple of days. Conjecture as to what the railroads may do, is, however, mostly hot air. But it is a cinch that a rate of $12.40 will not prove irresistibly attractive to Nebraska rooters, in spite of their desire to see the Gophers beaten again.

In the meanwhile, preparations are going merrily on in Minneapolis for a glorious reception to the Cornhuskers. The Press club dance, which was noted at some length, in a recent number of the Nebraskan, continues to be almost as interesting a topic—judging from the university papers—as the game itself. In addition to the features promised for the event last week, a number of new and decidedly unique events have been scheduled.

"The committee in charge is making plans for entertaining the visitors in true Minnesota style. The list of stunts is daily growing longer and more picturesque. The best thing secured so far is the farce presented by the Freshmen girls last year, entitled 'Six Cups of Chocolate.' This will be the chief feature of the evening, but several shorter events more of the athletic in character, will be pulled off," says the Minnesota Daily. A large attendance of Nebraskans at the dance is anticipated and the whole affair promises to be the foremost social event of the university year.

A number of the local fraternities have received invitations from their brothers at Minneapolis to be entertained by them during their stay in the city.

HARD GAME TODAY

Stiffest Contest so Far on Home Grounds This Afternoon.

Knox Men to Play a Strong Game. The Line-Up.

This afternoon at 3:30 the Cornhuskers will line up on the football field for their first hard game of the season on the home grounds. Knox shows evidence of having one of the speediest teams in her history, and will exert herself to the utmost to defeat Nebraska. On the other hand, the proximity of the big game with the Gophers next Saturday will probably make an effort on the part of Nebraska to make a heavy score on her opponents out of the question, whether or not the thing would be possible in case they desired to do so.

The Knox team is expected to arrive in Lincoln at 7 o'clock this morning. The ride from Galesburg is not considered long enough to show much detrimental effect on their playing this afternoon.

The teams will line up as follows:

Nebraska.	Knox.
Benedict (c)	Howell, C.
Cotton	Howell (c)
Mills	Barr
Weller, Borg	Kiddo
Shook, Barta	Graham
Lundin, Rob'son	Savage
Johnson, St'even	Snahr
Barwick, Red'ck, q. b.	Hilding
McDonald

Bender

Fenton, Eager

Mason, Craig

Today Minnesota plays Grinnell. Perhaps an indication of her strength may be obtained from the result. Other games today are:

Wisconsin vs. Drake at Madison.

Pennsylvania vs. Columbia at Franklin Field.

Yale vs. West Point at West Point.

Princeton vs. Lehigh at Princeton.

Harvard vs. Carlisle at Cambridge.

Cornell vs. Franklin and Marshall at Ithaca.

Annapolis vs. Columbian at Annapolis.

Lafayette vs. Swarthmore at Easton.

Susquehanna vs. Western U. of Pa. at Pittsburg.

Syracuse vs. Allegheny at Syracuse.

Washington and Jefferson vs. Bethany at Washington, Pa.

Wesleyan vs. Rutgers at Middletown.

Michigan vs. West Virginia at Ann Arbor.

Chicago vs. Northwestern at Chicago.

The team lined up for practice on the campus north of the armory last night, during the faculty circus, at the conclusion of which they moved out to the athletic field. Practice was not very heavy, Coach Booth not caring to risk injuring any of the men with the big Knox game coming on tomorrow. Robertson was tried at left-half, where he was played for a time in Thursday's game with the Medics. It is not known whether he will be tried out there in this afternoon's game or not.

B. B. Gillespie, manager of the $2.50 Hat Store, opened up a bunch of dollar Oxford shirts this week that are particularly good for student wear in that they forget to wear out.

The School of Music Cafe serves a splendid meal at very moderate prices. Join the university patrons in lunch today.

A black cravenette overcoat is not only good on stormy days but is very useful on other days and for evening wear. See them at Paine's Clothing Store.
