IOWA MEN HERE

Hawkeyes Preparing for Fight of Their Lives.

Cornhuskers to Have No Easy Time Today.

At 2:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Iowa football team arrived in Lincoln over the Rock Island for the big game today. The men, while not showing great weight, look like a speedy aggregation, and as though they intend to give the Cornhuskers the time of their lives this afternoon. Not much evidence of such a crippled bunch as Nebraska had been led to expect showed up, the men seeming to be in good physical condition.

A crowd, not as large as it should have been was at the train to welcome the Hawkeyes. The smallness of the turnout may be ascribed to the lateness of the train, which should have come in at 2:20 p. m. The Iowa men were greeted with the Nebraska yell, however, together with three cheers for themselves. After a short drive about the city, they were taken to the Royal hotel, where they will make their headquarters.

Coach Chalmers, when seen by a Nebraskan representative last night, did not care to make any statement concerning the outcome of the game. He asserts, that his men are not all in the best possible condition, and that two of them are decidedly on the bum. He also stated that Iowa will be outweighed by about ten pounds to the man. Captain Jones also mentioned the difference in weight. "But," he said, "Iowa is going to fight for all she's worth. Nebraska will have all she can attend to."

The game will be called at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Following is the probable lineup:

Nebraska	Positions	Iowa
Benedict (capt.)	R. E.	Stoltenberg
Cotton	R. T.	White
Mills	R. G.	Atkinson
Borg	C.	Moore
Barta	L. G.	Rockwood
"Cy" Mason	L. T.	Schwin
Johnson	L. E.	Stuff
Bender	Q. B.	Griffith
Craig	R. H.	Jones
Glenn Mason	F. B.	McGowan
Eager	L. H.	Chalmers
Substitute for Iowa—Scallon, Nerum, E. H. White, Kent, Knapp, Lee, Murphy, Jordan.

A number of Iowans are in the city to watch the game. The members of the Harlan, Iowa, high school team, who played the Lincoln high school yesterday have remained to cheer the Iowans. Several Iowa university students are also here.

AGGIES WILL REGISTER ARE READY AT LAST

Registration at State Farm Commences Monday.

Next Monday morning registration for agricultural students will begin at the state farm, and continue through the week. Prospects for a heavy registration are excellent, and it is believed that it will be larger than ever before. Many inquiries have been received by the registrar concerning the nature of the courses offered.

As announced, in one of the first issues of the Nebraska this fall, male students in agriculture will be required to take military drill.

An armory is being fitted up in the shops and preparations are being made for 150 cadets. The wood-shop room which is not being used as such this year, will fill the place of an armory, to be also used as a lecture room.

OLD UNI. MAN.

Hon. Charles Magoon Attended Nebraska University.

Hon. Charles Magoon, who is to speak at convocation Monday is an old Nebraska student, having attended the university during the seventies. He later worked for several years with one of the most prominent legal firms of Lincoln. At the time of the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he went to Washington to accept a place as counsel to the war department. During the occupation of Cuba, he was in charge of the legal questions arising from the occupation, and later wrote a collection of opinions regarding the problems involved in it. He is at present general counsel of the Isthmian Canal commission, a position of much honor and responsibility.

Mr. Magoon's home is in Lincoln, but his appearance in chapel Monday will only be made possible by his return to vote in Tuesday's election.

During his college career, Mr. Magoon was one of the founders of the Palladian Literary Society, and he still has many personal friends in the university.

Plans for Administration Building Have Been Received.

Plans for the administration building to go on the south campus next spring have at last been received at the office of the superintendent of construction. The funds for this structure were appropriated two years ago, at the same time that the physics and state farm buildings now in course of construction, were provided for. The plans were delayed on account of the unprecedented demand on architects all over the country, but were finally submitted to the regents last March. Several alterations were deemed necessary, however, and the plans were returned to the architects. From that time to the present nothing could be heard from them, except that they were being worked upon. In their altered state they will be submitted for approval to the regents at their next meeting. Some time will elapse after that while bids for the construction are being received, and it is probable that no actual work will be begun on the building until next spring.

The structure will be two stories in height, with a basement. From the ground to the first floor line it will be built of cut stone. Sand brick will be used from that point to the caps of the second story, where stone will again be employed. The general plan of construction will be modeled according to the Renaissance style. Three entrances, on the east, west and south, will be furnished, but the former two will open on the main hall. This will be floored with marble and mosaics. The stairways leading to the second floor will also be of marble. A handsome driveway for carriages will be situated at the south front of the new building.

The basement will be rather shallow, being only five feet below the ground. It will contain vaults, store and janitors' rooms. The vaults will extend to the second floor. All records will be in store in the basement vaults, while papers and books in immediate use will be deposited in the other floors.

The first floor will contain the principal offices—those of the chancellor, secretary, registrar, etc. A large room will be provided for the deans and the temporary senate. The second floor will be given up to the offices of the superintendent of construction, drafting and stenographic offices. No class or recitation rooms will be located in the entire structure. The total estimated cost will be about $35,000. The building is expected to present a most handsome appearance and add effectively to the beauty of the campus. The structure called for by the plans, will be arranged in such a way that an addition on the north may be built whenever necessary.

REPORT NO GOOD

Coach Booth Has Not Refused to Stay at Nebraska.

Statement Published in Lincoln Paper Unauthorized.

The university world, especially that part interested in football, was somewhat surprised at an article which appeared in one of the local papers of the 3d inst., to the effect that Coach Booth had made the statement that he would not consider another offer from Nebraska to serve as football coach; that his connection with the University of Nebraska would end with this season. Yesterday Mr. Booth was interviewed by a Nebraskan representative, and made the following statement:

"I have not refused an offer to coach. I have had no offers and consequently have been in no position to refuse an offer. My contract, which was for three years, expires this year, but I have not refused any offers."

This statement would seem to indicate that the local paper had erred, somewhat.

When W. C. Booth first came as football coach to Nebraska he found conditions enough to demoralize anyone with less determination than himself. Beaten by every first class opponent, and by nearly every second rate school, Nebraska's position in the football rank was at the bottom. But in 1900 a marked change could be noticed. Out of chaos came order, and we began to win. The next year with the exception of our two Big Nine games, we won every contest. In 1902 Nebraska not only won every game, but hers was the only uncrossed goal line in the country. In 1903, with a heavier schedule, not one victory was won over the Scarlet and Cream and this year's team bids fair to keep up the good work.

Let Bummy Burns go? Not if we know ourselves and we think we do.

Booth was engaged as coach, but physical condition in football men is all important, and Nebraska being without a trainer, this duty devolved upon the coach, and his record for four years past speaks volumes for the thoroughness of his work.

While ability to bring out a team that will win is what a coach is hired for, primarily, yet other things are to be considered. Constantly with the men, he must be a man among fellows who know how to appreciate a man. Ask any man in the football squad, from the poorest scrub up to the varsity star, what he thinks of Bummy Booth, and the same reply comes. Ask all the squad together and there comes a cheer, hearty, spontaneous, idolizing for the trainer, the coach, the man Booth.
