RATE COMES DOWN

Railroads Offer $4.00 Rate to Kansas City.

Prospects are Brighter for a Big Excursion to Haskell Game.

Yesterday an excursion rates of $4 for the round trip to Kansas City for the Haskell Indian game was announced by the Burlington and Missouri Pacific railroads. The train will leave at 11 p. m. Friday evening, via the Burlington. Returning, the excursion leaves Kansas City from the Missouri Pacific depot at 11:30 p. m. Saturday evening. The excursion reaches Kansas City at 5 o'clock Saturday morning.

This rate is good only in chair coaches. The rate including sleeper is $5.75 plus $2.00 each way, or $9.75 for the round trip.

It is expected that this rate will be productive of a large crowd from Lincoln to cheer the Cornhuskers to victory. Excursions are to be run from many points in Kansas and Missouri, and the game is regarded as the sporting event of the season at the city on the Kaw. According to the Kansan, of the university of Kansas, Haskell will have the assistance of several hundred rooters from Lawrence, the home of Both K. U. and the Haskell institute. The game will, therefore, afford an opportunity to renew our acquaintance with Kansas rooters, and Nebraskans will jump at the chance to try conclusions with them once more.

Talk of the girl's rooting squad attending the game is reviving, since the new rate has been announced. The excellent work done by the girls in the Iowa game last Saturday would make this result one to be devoutly desired.

Benedict's condition is steadily improving. While unable to be about yet his leg is much better. For the first time since his football career began Bennie will be a spectator on the side lines at the Nebraska-Haskell game Saturday.

The team that lines up against the Indians Saturday will probably be the same that took the field against Iowa, with the exception of Benedict, at left end. It lies between Robertson and Standeven for this position, with the odds slightly in favor of Robbie, whose weight gives him the advantage. What we will do for a punter Saturday is a matter of speculation. No one on the squad can come within shouting distance of Bennie when it comes to kicking; and as the Indians are strong in this department the loss of our captain will be greatly felt.

Hunter is out for practice again, and will probably be in the first lineup Saturday. In scrimmage Tuesday evening Weller tore a muscle loose in his right shoulder, and will be out of practice for the remainder of the week. This is a hard blow, for Borgs' ankle is not sound yet, by any means, and Weller has shown himself a worthy substitute at center.

The basket ball squad will report for practice at 4 o'clock this afternoon. As yet not enough men have turned out to make it worth while to open up the chapel floor, and consequently, many have been unable to play, at all, or for a few minutes, at most. It will be but a short time until the first game, now everybody should come out for practice that can possibly do so.

If you got it at Armstrong's, it's right.

Haskell Game - Kansas City Round Trip, $4.00

GOOD ONLY IN COACHES. Special train leaves the B. & M. Station at 11 p. m. Friday. Returning leaves Missouri Pacific depot at Kansas City at 11:30 p. m. Saturday. Sleeper rate on same train $7.50.

FIRST CLASS-GAME.

Freshmen and Sophomores Will Struggle on Gridiron.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the first inter-class football game of the year will be played on the football field, when the teams of the Freshman and Sophomore classes will lineup against each other. Both have been showing up well in practice, and a hard game is anticipated. The freshmen look especially strong, and promise to put up an excellent fight. In the past the freshmen athletic teams have usually won the championships. Last spring the freshmen track and football teams were easily victorious over all opponents, and the football team was vanquished after two long-drawn out and fiercely contested fights, by the seniors. The greater numbers from which the first year people are enabled to draw, give them a decided advantage over the other classes, which are also weakened by the fact that the best athletes in their numbers are usually members of varsity teams and unable to compete in interclass contests on that account.

The lineup for today's game has not been announced yet, and will not be until this afternoon. An admission fee of 10 cents will probably be charged to defray the expenses of the game.

UNI. SENATE MEETS.

Holds First Session of the Year Yesterday.

The university senate met yesterday afternoon in U. 107, for the first time this year. No business of great importance was concluded, but a committee of five, of which Dr. Bessey is chairman, was appointed to look up the methods of conducting examinations in other western universities for the purpose of devising means for unifying our system.

The following are the regents' rules regarding the university senate, as contained in the recently-published by-laws of the board. It will doubtless be found to contain much information for the majority of the readers of the Nebraskan:

The chancellor, the deans and the professors who are heads, of departments with such others as the regents may appoint shall constitute the university senate. Directors of university schools, the registrar and the inspector of accredited high schools may attend senate meetings and engage in debate, but not vote.

The chancellor of the university shall be the presiding officer of the senate. In the absence of both the chancellor and the senior dean, the dean or the professor longest in service, who is present, shall preside.

The secretary of the board of regents shall be the secretary of the university senate. In his absence a temporary secretary may be chosen.

SECTION 4. HOW CONVENED.

The senate shall meet at the call of the chancellor. Notice of meetings shall be transmitted to the members, in writing, at least two days prior to the time appointed for meeting.

The senate may consider general questions relating to the educational and administrative work and policy of the university and shall have power to decide such questions subject to the approval of the regents.

The order of business at the senate meetings shall be:

1. Reading minutes of the last meeting.
2. Reports of standing or special committees.
3. Communications.
4. Miscellaneous or unfinished business.

A majority of all the members of the senate shall constitute a quorum; but no action of the senate relating to the government of a college shall be binding upon the faculty of that college unless a majority of the members of such faculty be present.

GET FAMOUS PLAY

The Dramatic Club Will Engage "Everyman" Company.

Will Raise the Temple Pledge by This Means.

At a meeting of the Dramatic club held Monday morning plans for the coming production of the famous old play "Everyman," which is to be given under the auspices of the club, December 1, were discussed. The play will be given for the purpose of making up the remainder of the pledge to the Temple fund. The success of the "Ladies Minstrel" last spring, while most pronounced was not sufficient to make up the entire sum pledged, and the success which has attended the revival of "Everyman" at other places in the country has seemed to offer an excellent chance for the club to score a second big hit in Lincoln.

It is the oldest play in the English language ever presented in this country, and was written and first played in England nearly 500 years ago—several years before Christopher Columbus started on his famous voyage across the Atlantic.

It was revived two years ago by the Elizabethan stage society at Oxford university, and created such a profound impression and aroused so much interest that it has since been played in all the principal cities of England and America. No modern dramatic work of recent years has caused a title of the discussion nor received one-quarter of the attention from the daily and periodical press as this strange morality play of the middle ages. Today the majority of intelligent readers are familiar with the story of "Everyman" a story which is as true now, as it was 500 years ago.

Rudolph E. Magnus who plays the title role, is a young actor of great promise, possessing remarkable reserve power; his portrayal of "Everyman," for which he is eminently fitted both in physique and voice, has been praised by the dramatists, and by the clergy and intelligent theatergoers. The company supporting Mr. Magnus is one of the superior attainments as the character of the play demands. The company carries a complete scenic equipment historically accurate in every detail.

This engagement can truthfully be termed a novelty in more ways than one, and it cannot but arouse the deepest interest among all who appreciate that which is best in the drama and literature. To miss this opportunity of witnessing a complete performance of "Everyman," will be a matter of sincere regret.

The scenery and costumes have been especially designed from ancient prints in the British museum and will add greatly to the splendor of the engagement.

The engagement of the play by a college organization in America is by no means a new thing. The nature of the play, its setting and atmosphere, have made it a favorite among college students, and last year it was played at several of the most prominent universities in the United States. At the university of Wisconsin, the play was recently given, and made a decided success.
