Editorial Remarks

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN.

Students do not generally realize that they have a duty to perform toward the football team, besides buying a ticket to the game and rooting, and it is up to every student to make himself a committee of one and see to it that his share of it is done.

Every year a new team has to be moulded out by the coach, and every one should feel it his duty to keep his eyes open during the summer for likely material for the football team and when he runs across a big husky fellow, or one who looks like he has the speed and other requirements in him, persuade him to come to the school this coming fall and try out for the team.

Nebraska has been short of heavy men the entire season and it is hoped we can secure some heavy men for next year's team. There are plenty of men in the state who have the necessary requirements, so let us get busy and find them out and bring them to school next year, or even sooner. Then too, there are dozens of fellows attending the university at present who would make good football material, if we could only get them out. So if anyone knows of any such persons let him get busy and use a little of Fogg's argumentation on them.

We cannot all play football, but we can talk, so let every student do his share toward keeping up Nebraska's football record.

There seems to be the feeling prevalent among the student body that the staff of their "Daily," chosen the Lord only knows how, should pay for the privilege of holding such an exalted office by digging around for news. And this is just what they have to do, but shouldn't. There are a thousand and one items of general interest occurring every day, a great many of which our reporters can't get hold of. These should be reported. The student body should make the Daily Nebraskan more a paper of the student body rather than be satisfied to have it a paper of the few on the staff. If anyone knows anything of interest, hand it in, and if it meets with our approval we'll print it; if not we won't. This slight effort won't hurt anyone, but will increase the interest in the "Rag" manifold. If any noted friend of yours come to town tell us about it. If you have an inspiration, poetic, prosaic, or otherwise, tell us you woe and we'll shoulder it off on the meek, unresisting public.

Debates Labor Question.

The Students Debating club rehearsed the heights of enthusiasm last Saturday morning when they debated the labor question. It seemed that of all the interesting and heated discussions so far listened to by the club this was a climax to them all.

From these successful debates that has marked every meeting thus far held by the new organization it is safe to say that it has been finely established, and in the future there need be no fear but that any one can satisfy his love of word contention there.
