In Other Colleges

Yale has a bureau of self-help which, in the past three years has aided hundreds of students to stay in college by opening opportunities for them to entirely or partially support themselves.

A Pan Hellenic movement which has for its object the systematic study of the Bible and the promotion of an inter-fraternal fellowship has been started at the Ohio State University.

A new technical school about to be built at Birmingham, England, will cover 30 acres, and will include a whole city of shops. One of its features will be a model mine occupying an acre of land.

The receipts of the California-Stanford game this year are said to be the largest in the history of western football. The total receipts were $30,308, and the approximate expenses $1,000, making $29,308 to be divided between the two colleges.

The smallest University in the world has just commenced its twenty-third year of active work. This is the American Classical University of Athens, and the unprecedented total of six students is sufficient evidence of its popularity. The scholars are all Americans, engaged in classical research work, and a notable fact about this student body is that each one holds a fellowship. Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Smith, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Wesleyan University are represented.

The "Oberlin Review" in commenting on the inability of any set of college editors to put out a paper that is entirely satisfactory to its quasi-supporters, offers to name the following staff as a most likely one: Editor-in-chief, Benjamin Franklin; Assistant Editor, Horace Greely; Financial Manager, Baron Mayer de Rochchild; Assistant Manager, J. Gould; News Editor, Mercury and William R. Hearst; Exchange Editor, James Boswell; Athletics, Hercules and Casper Whitney; Literary Editors, Marie Corelli and Brantner Mathews; Alumni, Methuselah.

Perhaps this might suit all the students, but it is doubtful. Methuselah wouldn't get in alumni news dating back far enough, ideas wouldn't coincide with those of Hercules on athletics or Hearst's politics wouldn't suit. Something would be wrong.

Fire in Chem. Lab.

What threatened to be a disastrous conflagration occurred yesterday in the Chem. Lab. While boiling alcohol the beaker containing the alcohol broke, spilling the burning fluid to the floor. Prompt action on the part of the students in the laboratory, however, extinguished the blaze before any damage was done.
