DISCUSSES ART EXHIBIT.

Dr. Fling Points Out Advantages of Visiting Exhibit.

Convocation period yesterday was occupied by Professor Fling, who talked upon the Art Exhibit which is now being held in the art rooms.

He began by saying that it seems to be the impression that these annual exhibits are money making schemes, and that there is some kind of a graft behind them. This is not true. No one receives any monetary compensation, even the officers of the association serving without remuneration. The plan of the association is to cultivate an art taste, and to do so it has to struggle against adverse circumstances. People as a rule do not care for art. They are not interested in it and it does not take hold of them as something practical does. However, the association is building up a taste for the finer arts and Lincoln is known to artists as an art center, while Omaha, Denver and the other western cities are not. The exhibit this season is better than ever before. It represents the work of the best American artists and should be seen and studied to be appreciated. We should care for art. If we do not there is very little prospect for higher things for this country.

The students have always supported the art exhibits here. There has been no cause to complain on that score, but they should continue to do so. A season ticket costs only 50 cents. This will not cause any great privation to anyone. If, however, anyone considers that it will cause too great a drain on his purse the association has provided for his objection. If he will sell four $1 tickets or eight 50 cent tickets he will be given a season ticket. Everyone who can should aid the association, since a great deal of expense has been brought on by this exhibit and this must be paid.

Agricultural Meeting.

During the week commencing January 18th, there will be a large number of agricultural meetings held in Lincoln, of which the authorities at the State Farm will have charge. All of these meetings are in the nature of annual association meetings representing various state stock and agricultural associations. We understand that most of them will be held at the State Farm, although several will take place in the University chapel.

Following is a list of the organizations that will be in session: The State Board of Agriculture; Swine Breeders' Association; Improved Live Stock Breeders' association; Dairymen's association; Veterinary Medical association; Duroc-Jersey Breeders' association; Association of Agricultural Students; State Horticultural Society; State Farmers' Institute; State Poultry association; Shorthorn Breeders' association; Corn Improvers' association; Bee Keeper' association; Irrigation association; Stock Growers' association; Park and Forestry association, and the Farmers' Co-Operative Grain and Live Stock State association.

The following are the speakers from abroad:

- Dean W. A. Henry, of the Wisconsin experiment station.
- Prof. John Hamilton, farmers' institute specialist, U. S. department of agriculture.
- Prof. E. H. Webster, Manhattan, Kansas.
- Prof. J. H. Skinner of the Indiana experiment station.
- Mr. Joseph E. Wing of Ohio.
- Prof. C. G. Hopkins, of the Illinois experiment station.
- Dr. H. P. Miller, of Sunbury, Ohio.
- Dr. J. H. McNeill, of the Iowa experiment station.
- Mr. C. A. Shamel, Chicago, Ill.
