Editorial Remarks

We want to register a kick. Why don't the different managers, assistant managers and officers about the campus give whatever news they may have from time to time to the Daily first. Time after time some choice morsel of news is given the local papers, and the students read there what they should first see in their own college paper. There seems to be a feeling prevalent among the various student managers that it is a good thing to stand in with the local papers, and with this in mind the "scoops" are almost invariably kept from the Daily. If it were borne in mind that these papers want the news for purely selfish motives, and not to students these advertisers patronize our columns.

With regard to many of the faculty and officers of the University no complaint whatever is forthcoming. But we want every bit of news, and want it first, and we are entitled to it in reference to the local papers, even to their entire exclusion and this should be remembered.

Every man in the law college owes it to himself and to his University to be present at the mass meeting this morning in U 207. Whether or not Dr. Pound can be induced to remain as Dean of the law School is a question, but no stone should be left unturned by the law men to get him to reconsider his decision to leave. Loyalty on the part of his students will go a long way with Dean Pound and a great deal of good should come of this meeting. The law men are setting an example that the academic departments might well follow. The loss of Dean Pound would directly affect the law college, but almost as much would it affect the University as a whole. There is hardly a branch of University activity which has not felt the Dean's influence, and every effort must be exerted to induce him to stay with us.

The various inter-class basketball and track events should receive more support than is now accorded them. In these events material is often brought out which, with further training, becomes 'varsity material. It is hard for a new man to get out and make a try for the 'varsity in any branch of athletics, for he has to win out over many others who have had more experience, than he, and over men who are already 'varsity men. But in these class games there is no such keen competition, nor any such odds to overcome. A better opportunity is here offered for the beginner to make good, and when once the new man has made some progress and finds out that he can hold his own, then things come easier, and the 'varsity teams do not seem so far away. The basketball teams of the different classes are just beginning to line up and every man who possibly can should report to his advertise the University, perhaps there would be less tendency to favor them. Not only do these papers want the news for their own benefit, but they take advantage of every opportunity to extort money from the various University organizations. Only last year one of them refused to print a single line unless a substantial remuneration was first made. The University gets absolutely nothing from them and why should we give where we get nothing in return. On the other hand, the college paper is, or should be, of first interest to the student body, and any news which is of local interest ought to appear first in the columns of the Daily. The paper is supported by advertising, mostly among the business men of Lincoln, and in proportion to the support given to their paper by the class team manager and do what he can.
