Editorial Remarks

There will be no issue of the "Nebraskan" tomorrow.

Tomorrow the University of Nebraska celebrates her thirty-sixth birthday. In honor of the event all classes will be suspended for the day, as usual. The suspension of the classes on Charter Day has grown to be too generally regarded as a common holiday when all things connected with school are to be laid aside, and the campus shunned. This view, however, is not the correct one to take. Charter Day is a holiday. It is true, but a holiday given for a particular celebration, and in that celebration it is the duty of every student to participate. For this occasion ample opportunity to celebrate will be given. The exercises tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow evening will all be of the greatest interest and should be attended by the students in a body. This is our University and we should celebrate her birthday by showing our personal interest in her festive exercises.

ENGLISH CLUB.

The English club had a pleasant meeting Saturday evening in spite of the unfavorable weather, with Miss Edith Whyman, 1738 M street, Miss Corder and Miss Morrison were on the program and a story by Miss Dorothy Canfield, an honorary member of the club, was read. The story is one which will appear in next month's number of Harper's Bazar. Musical selections were given by Miss Anderson and Miss McCune.

ENGINEER ROSEWATER.

gineers have in their dealings with unscrupulous contractors, who put inferior material into their work when the specifications call for certain grades of material, and if this is not prevented by the engineer, the work will be inferior and when it begins to wear prematurely the engineer gets the blame at the hands of the tax payers. The success of an engineer depends, in a commercial way, according to Mr. Rosewater, on his ability to withstand these difficulties and to succeed in compelling contractors to live up to their specifications, even though he has a corrupt board or council behind him.

Mr. Rosewater's talk lasted for about two hours and he closed by asking the students to question him informally on any points not covered in his remarks and he responded to the queries of the embryonic engineers with willingness and understanding.

Aylesworth at Chapel.

Yesterday at Convocation Prof. Aylesworth gave an interesting illustrated lecture on "Lincoln in Portrait and Caricature." Such a subject, he said, was very appropriate on the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday. Prof. Aylesworth showed a number of slides, of various portraits of Lincoln, taken at different dates. The first picture was the earliest known portrait of Lincoln, taken in 1848, at the age of 33. Other pictures following portraying him at the time of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate in 1858, during the campaign of 1860, at the time of the Emancipation Proclamation and ending with a picture of him taken five days before his assassination. All of the portraits exhibited the force of character, determination but kindness of the martyred president.

The second part of the lecture consisted in views of the caricatures and cartoons of Lincoln, during the campaign of 1860. Some were very humorous, playing upon the extraordinary length of him and of his fame in telling jokes. In particular the cartoon of Lincoln's presidential race with Douglas in which the former is stepping over the "little giant" is very significant. The lecture and pictures were thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present.

Called Off.

The game which was to have been played next Friday with the Kansas City Y. M. C. A. has been called off, since they failed to schedule enough games for a trip.

The varsity five opens their eastern schedule with a game at Menasha.

Wisconsin, against the Young Men's Social Club. This game will be played Wednesday evening, February 22, and will be followed by a game on Thursday evening, the 23rd, with Lawrence University, at Appleton, Wisconsin.

J. P. Koehler, who coaches football and basketball at Lawrence, Uni. is an ex-Nebraska man who played on Nebraska '02 and '03 football team and who at one time was captain of the basketball team.

Up to date only three games on the eastern trip have been signed up. The third is with the Chicago Central Y. M. C. A. on Feb. 25, but before the team leaves dates will be arranged with Ripon college, at Ripon, Wisconsin; Fon du Lac high school and the Fon du Lac Y. M. C. A. It is also probable that Milwaukee Normal, at Milwaukee will arrange for a game.
