Editorial Remarks

The results of the Senior and Junior class meetings yesterday seem to indicate that the University is to be favored with two very superior class annuals this spring. The Seniors took steps which will make their book the best Senior book ever published in the University, and while the Juniors, on account of the great extra expense entailed, could hardly afford to follow the action of the Seniors, nevertheless their production bids fair to abreast of the best. Too much attention to the contents, style and finish of these annuals can hardly be given. They find their way all over the country, and our University is judged, oftentimes, simply by the merits of such books. It seems, however, that the annuals for 1905 will be excellent criterions of the University.

There are times when class spirit, evidenced by president swiping, etc., has the sanction of precedent and custom. But there are times when such opportunities occur which do not have this sanction. The Sophomore play tomorrow night, while an affair of '07, is given by that class to the University public and therefore should be allowed to go through uninterrupted. Class spirit displayed at the right time is a very desirable thing, but too much of a good thing becomes a nuisance and any disturbance Saturday evening is apt to be too much of a good thing.

C. W. Pugsley, one of the Junior students who is giving a good deal of attention to agriculture, has been asked by Professor Burnett to accompany the "Seed Corn Special" the latter part of this week.

The schedule of baseball games to be played by the team on its eastern trip is a good one and to win even a majority of games will require a team fully up to Nebraska standard. To bring out the best team possible every bit of baseball material in school should be available. The greater the number out for practice the better the choice that can be made for men to compose the varsity. Every man who can handle a ball should report for baseball practice and thus do his share toward making the team for 1905 what it should be.

Republican Meeting.

The Republican club met yesterday at 1 p. m. in Memorial hall and discussed plans for a banquet to be held by the club at some time in the near future. The prevailing sentiment of the meeting was that some elaborate affair should be arranged for and a committee consisting of Messrs. Wellinsick, Swan, Smith, Brown and Morrison was appointed with full power to act as they think best. The committee will make an effort to sell one hundred tickets among the members of the club and will make arrangements for speaker, etc.

The committee on inaugural representative reported that they would probably be unable to send a representative from Lincoln and that they had written to Washington to ascertain whether or not any of the alumni, now at Washington, in the employ of the government, could be secured to represent the organization at the ceremonies on March 4.

Senior Meeting.

Owing to the lateness of notices being posted only a few Seniors were present at the meeting of that class held in U 212 yesterday morning. The meeting was called, primarily, to discuss final plans for the Senior Annual. It was decided, upon explanation of Manager Brown, to have Albertypes instead of the ordinary half tones used in the book. A difference in price of some $100.00 will result from the use of the Albertypes, but already advance sales and advertising contracts nearly cover this amount, and as yet not one-half of the class has reported by means of the contracts sent out by the Board. The material for the book was turned over to the printers last night, and will be ready for sale in about three weeks. The book, from present indications, will be the best Senior Annual ever issued, and will rival, if not be on a par with the Senior Law Book of last year. The Board urges that the contracts for books be signed and returned to them immediately in order that they may know just what sales to expect.

Chairman Ramsey, of the Play Committee, reported that a tentative decision had been reached regarding a part of the cast for the play. Of the 21 parts necessary to complete this cast, seventeen have been chosen, as follows: Misses Wilson, Neilson, Thomas and Stirling; Messrs. Keysor, Stephens, White, Hunter, Beers, Hoar, Ramsey, Mower, Clark, J. L., Roberts, Campbell and Brown. Four more men are needed to complete the required number in order to get the play in shape for commencement week. The committee, owing to unavoidable delays, is far behind where other committees have been at this time, and to make this up the hardest kind of work will be necessary.

Mr. Wood to Speak.

Next Sunday's mass meeting at the Oliver is bound to be a record breaker in many ways. Mr. Morgan Wood, of Cleveland, is the orator of the afternoon. Mr. Wood is known by the title "The Platform Magae" and judging from his personal appearance and the unusual press comments concerning his power and abilities, he will measure up to the highest expectations. He is "without doubt one of the most brilliant orators and popular speakers in the country today. He always captivates, has remarkable presence and delivery, is scholarly and oratorical, and is able to exert a peculiar magnetic influence over the masses—the larger the audience the better." College men will find this meeting of especial interest.
