Editorial Remarks

A report has reached us to the effect that the Haskell Indian maidens refused to continue a game of basketball down in Kansas somewhere because a member of the opposing team said a naughty word. In our past dealings with the Indian braves we have found that naughty words come very readily to the tongue but with the girls conditions are of course quite different. Every effort will be put forth will be held one on May 19th and one on May 25th. Although a number have announced their intention of attending both functions yet it is probable that the regular Pan Hell attendance will be practically cut in half.

Both factions assert their intention of giving as well a dance as possible but with the receipts cut in two and the expense for each dance as much or more than usual, it is evident that, if the desired standard is to be attained, there will be a discrepancy somewhere.

Now if a union of the factions could be effected and but one dance given, what would result? The actual expenses of the dance such as rent of Auditorium, music, programs, etc., would be no more for both together than for each separate. Assuming that if two dances are given each will pay expenses, were they to be united in one, a large sum would undoubtedly be available for better refreshments or better decorations. Decorations at the Pan Hell dance having been, as a rule, not very elaborate. Or, as the dance is most informal the price might be reduced from $2.00 to $1.50 and still leave the committee a reasonable compensation for their services. Another element which should be considered, is the fact that each year a large number of old men come back for the commencement season, and attend the Pan Hell dance, as the affair now stands, they must either miss the first one and thus perhaps miss some meeting to which they had looked forward with pleasure, or else they must return a week earlier than ordinarily.

It has been said that at the meeting of the committee, held last Thursday, each side admitted that both sides should make some concessions, but neither was willing to take the initiative. Inasmuch as the annual competitive drill of the Cadet Battalion will be held on the afternoon of May 26, it would seem that the anti-Tne faction have at present a slight advantage. Then certainly without any appearance of weakening they can afford to compromise. On the other hand the one faction, having a large active and alumni membership who will presumably flock to the support of their dance, are confident as to its success

To the Editor of The Daily Nebraskan:
The Pan Hellenic dance being the most general topic of conversation in University circles, a few suggestions from one who is strictly a non-combatant may be pertinent.

A week has passed since the fight between the Tne and anti-Tne factions for the control of the dance began, and from present indications two dances and hence in compromising will show no weakness.

Now would it not be proper for the heads of the two committees to get together in a conciliatory spirit and submit propositions to each other? Such a course would certainly redound to the credit of the committees, the dance, and the University. "X."

Some fifty people attended convocation yesterday to hear the most excellent talk on "Culture." Either we are so cultured that we do not need any additional pointers, or else we are so uncultured that we do not care. Either condition is deplorable.

This is the season everybody feels like sitting for pictures. Have you had that "feeling?" If not, see what Townsend is producing and you will make an appointment immediately. Studio 226 South 11th street.
