Academy Notes.

The Academy Debating Club has discontinued its meetings for this year.

Ralph Robinson has been compelled to discontinue his studies on account of sickness.

Several of the students in Chemistry 2 have finished their laboratory work for the semester. The class has been putting in double time in the laboratory in order to get the work done before the days become so warm.

Mr. G. A. Lee, '05 Law, who has been giving such excellent satisfaction at the Academy as teacher of Argumentation, expects to go to the Pacific coast next year for his permanent location. His success in teaching, however, may induce him to put in a year in that profession while determining his fu-

Manager Perry has secured two more games for his colts. The team will play Cotner University Friday and will meet the team from the University Law College on April 12th. The manager has been compelled to abandon the idea of purchasing suits for the team because of a lack of funds for that purpose and each man who plays will have to furnish his own equipment. The team has been practicing regularly and everything points to a team which will be up to the usual standard maintained by the Academy in athletics. The Academy students must make up in spirit what they lack in numbers and the managers of the various athletic teams at that institution have to assume the almost impossible task of building up a team upon spirit alone without the competition for places on the teams which some of their more numerous neighbors are fortunate enough to have.

Professor Hodgman, inspector of accredited schools, was one of the vicepresidents of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Automatic 8013 Schools elected at the meeting of that organization held in Chicago on March 31st and April 1st. George E. Mc-Clean, former chancellor of this University, now president of Iowa University was elected president. Professor Hodgman remained in Chicago over Monday and through the kindness of Dean Pratt Judson, of the University of Chicago, was given an excellent opportunity to study the newer developments of that University. He also took time to again visit the art institute and the new building for the First National Bank, which is said to be the finest bank building in the world. Through the kindness of a college fraternity friend he was enabled to meet a number of influential school men, among whom was Dr. A. Ross Hill, formerly professor of psychology in this University at a luncheon served in the Union League Club of Chicago. This Club has become quite well knows as having been the backbone of the municipal fight for purity in Chicago in recent years.

In Other Colleges

Andrew Carnegie has presented Tufts with $100,000 for a new library; and Bowdoin, from another source, has received $200,000.

As a result of a recent bequest of $50,000 Syracuse University is at last out of debt, for the first time since its founding, thirty years ago.

Yale won the twelfth intercollegiate debate from Princeton, receiving the unanimous decision of the judges. Yale upheld the affirmative of the proposition that "The United States ought not permanently to hold territory it does not intend to admit to statehood."

Ellis Ward, coach of the crews at the University of Pennsylvania has decided that every candidate must be able to swim, and no oarsman will be allowed to go in the boat until he can swim twice the length of the gymnasium pool, a distance of 200 feet.

DICK out the smartly dressed chaps of your acquaintance and you will find the Armstrong Clothing Company label under the collar of their coats. This label is a mark of Rightness. Its small but means much. It means that the wearer of one of our garments has deposited his money with us subject to his satisfaction, hence the Armstrong label stands for "Clothes Satisfaction." It stands for smart style, besides a hundred other things which can be all summed up in that one word "Satisfaction." The Clothes you see here are different from those found elsewhere, more hand-tailoring enters into each garment. The selection of patterns and fabrics are better and wider.
