SATURDAY MAY 4, 1912.

Speaking of the band concert on the campus Wednesday evening, we are of the opinion that more like it should be highly recommended. The opinion has been expressed that it was a good chance for the fusers to get a date and stroll about while the band was rendering its martial strains, yet the concert had other advantages.

An affair like this calls all the students together in a more or less informal way whereby many new acquaintances are made. It is true that Nebraska has almost too many social events as it is, but at the dancing parties or the proms it is very unusual if any one gets a chance to converse with more than a dozen people at the outside—and these are, in most cases, people not mere acquaintances.

It is for this reason that the band concert idea should be encouraged. The campus was filled Wednesday evening with more students than are usually seen at any social gathering, and it was plain to be seen that it was not only the fusers who were having a good time.

For the same reason, Ivy Day and Dandelion Day are of great benefit to the student body. All holidays of this nature give many a chance to become acquainted with other students whom they have often seen, but never knew personally.
