

CONCERT AROUSED INTEREST

COMBINATION OF GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS CREATES INTEREST.

GIVE PROGRAM OF THREE PARTS

Great Effort Being Put on Home Concert, Which Will Be Given Tomorrow Night.

The coming concert of the University Glee and Mandolin Clubs is creating much interest among the students of the University in that it will be the initial appearance of the two clubs since their consolidation under the University authorities. The Glee Club, with twenty-four members, under the careful direction of Arvid Samuelson, has prepared a program of three parts of elaborate make-up, and one which will be pleasing to the music-loving students of the University.

The Glee Club in the past has been under the direction of the University School of Music, but this year the club has been combined with the Mandolin Club and under the direction of the University authorities. The success of the entertainment last year is sure to be aided by the presence of the Mandolin Club and both clubs will be at their best Friday evening.

The first part of the entertainment will be formal, in that the club will appear in all its glory as Beau Brummels, rendering the various songs of the first part of the entertainment amid appropriate surroundings. The stage settings for the different songs will be one of the features of the evening's entertainment.

The second and third parts of the entertainment will be more informal, doing away with the stiffness with which many performances of this kind are staged. It is even reported that "Tiny" Allen will appear in a brand new shirt waist in these parts, which ought to be worth all of the money.

The program follows in parts:

The catch of the season—Kensington clothes.

It's a line that will land you if you will but nibble.

You'd rather catch a black bass than a gold fish, wouldn't you.

Same way in clothes—you want something more than bright styles, you want quality—that means Kensingtons.

Homespuns, tweeds, worsteds, cassimeres—in all the novelty and staple effects of the season.
