

CORNHUSKER FAVORABLE

The Book Receives Little Adverse Criticism From the Large Number of Student Readers.

Cornhusker Day brought out from students many remarks mostly favorable about the annual.

"It certainly is the grandest book" said one co-ed, as she was doing bench work and incidentally reading the jokes "Did you ever see such a cute cover?"

"Yes, but just look at that 'shlebrating' cartoon," answered her companion "Believe me, that's good."

"Why, I don't see anything funny in that at all," she said. "Men always do like those drinking jokes. Now, girls don't enjoy such things. They have too high ideals."

Remarks about the campus seemed to indicate that the numerous cuts, cartoons and pictures were especially well liked. The jokes were considered funny, though biting, and there was little dry material anywhere.

Soon after ten o'clock the campus was filled with couples and groups, all deeply absorbed in the annual. The paper covers used formerly to protect the leather bindings were not necessary this year and the campus failed to look so much like a picnic grounds as in the past.

Adverse criticism was confined to a very few. The "laws" objected a little because they were not given so much space as they thought they deserved. But, as they have always been able to advertize themselves without anyone else's aid, their objection does not seem valid to the average student.

One man declared that the writings were foolish. His prejudice was explained, however, by the fact that he failed to get a complimentary copy of the book and was, therefore, a trifle sore.

The general opinion was that the Cornhusker was by far the best annual ever put out by a class at Nebraska.

.....sor Tuckerman, "do I think there has been actual embezzlement, and not knowing of any case definitely, the committee will not bring any such charge against any student mixed up in this affair. However, it will be seen that the students responsible, as chairmen and such, of these dances in question will in some way settle up the debts contracted by them to the Lincoln hotel."

It seems to be the prevailing opinion with many of the students that the back accounts are not incumbent upon the class by which the dance was given, but rather upon the chairman who assumed the responsibility. Therefore, some of the chairmen will have to settle the deficits of their parties out of their own pockets, in case the classes do not see fit to be responsible.

At present the matter is under advisement and it is likely that nothing definite will be done until all those men who have put their dances "in the hole" can have their say before the committee on student finances. This will probably take some time, as it seems to be a rather intricate problem.

All students should visit the "College Inn Barber Shop at 127 North 12th S. L. Chaplin, Prop.

BOTANICAL EXPEDITION

University Students Will Study Plants in the Sand Hills of Cherry County.

A botanical expedition of considerable importance will be undertaken by several members of the department this summer, shortly after school is ended. Prof. L. B. Walker, Dr. E. K. Walker, with Misses Emma Anderson and Mamie Dworak, fellows in the department, and Miss Grace Ernst of Omaha will compose the party, which will leave about June 17.

The expedition will enter the sand hills in Cherry county where the various members will devote their time to the study of the different phases of plant relations in the neighborhood, with apparatus which will be taken along for the purpose. Miss Anderson and Dr. Walker will study the environments of the vicinity, especially with reference to the fish and birds, in their relation to the local plant life. Professor Walker and Miss Dworak will specialize in the examination of legume root tubercles and plant diseases, while Miss Ernst will study the nature and causes of the abundance of the vegetation.

The region offers novel opportunities for the study which the party contemplates, as it is replete with lakes and plants native to such conditions. The expedition will stay at least six weeks and such longer time as the opportunities for profitable study warrant. After this inspection the party expect to spend some time in and about Valentine and the neighboring canyon. The result of their findings will be published in the reports of the state conservation commission.

THE FORUM

To the Editor of the Nebraskan:

An article signed by a self-styled "knocker" in Tuesday's issue of your paper complains that the writer's arguments have not been answered. He wants "a broader, richer field of activities for the University," but does not propose any plan for bringing it about. He says experience has shown that this compulsory fee will not succeed. Yet he does not cite a single instance in support of his conclusion, while it may be remembered that experience shows the single tax to be a success. This fact was shown by posters distributed over the campus in the earlier part of the campaign. He again says that merit should be the attraction, totally ignoring the fact that there must be support before there can be merit. This is not a private enterprise that may enter the field of competition. University activities are what the students make them, not what they are made for the student. They belong to the student and he cannot expect someone to improve them for him while he bears no share of the burden.

It is stated as a proposition that lack of support is due to lack of merit. This is not true. The lack of merit is due to the lack of support. The real reason why the Nebraskan is not better is because it must support the parasite who reads the school news over the shoulder of his fellow.

He claims that fees should be at a minimum. But there are other considerations. We must have a University and a good one regardless of the fees. Cost should not be a primary consideration. Let us have a cheap school as is asked. Let us do like the cheap merchant, bid for cheap trade, and cheap trade is what we will get. But that should not be the motto of Nebraska. She wants the best, not the cheapest.

It is claimed that the senior has no right to lay a tax on the unsuspecting freshman. He forgets that the University is run for the benefit of the state and every citizen of Nebraska, and especially its graduates, have a real interest in its affairs. Not only an interest, but a right to demand that it be made a greater and a better university. It is not only proper but obligatory on the senior that he help in the decision of this question. He has been in the University the longest and from his experience should know something of what is good for the school. While the man who has passed beyond may not be as "smart" as the one who is just entering, certainly he is possessed of as much wisdom. Consider the question in a different light; have the people of the state any right to say what kind of a capitol building shall be erected or should it be solely in the discretion of the people of Lincoln?

The writer of Tuesday's article has failed to show where and how the proposed plan "will utterly ignore the cause of the trouble." We certainly cannot take his word without proof. He has also failed to show that it is out of harmony with the policy of the University, which is a bigger, broader and better university for the development of a better and more intelligent citizenship.
