A good view of the possibilities of college life comes from a young Columbia graduate, R. S. Bourne, when writing upon "College Life of Today" for the North American Review. In concluding his splendid plea for a bigger life he offers an excellent sentence as a summary of what a college man should be. The sentence is comprehensive and quite long, worthy in fact of several readings:

"The life of the average man, mixing democratically with all kinds of men, picking his friends according to the congenial interest and picturesque personality, and never for the social position, active in some form of athletics and in one or two of the small societies, talking perhaps more than he reads, but awake to the ideas of larger import than his own little world, and learning much from the sparks that he strikes from his companions and the criticism he makes of his teachers and books, neither priggish nor trivial, neither dull nor hilarious, susceptible to all the best currents of the life around him, knowing the professors as men and his companions as fellow-adventurers in the 'enterprise of learning'—such a life, I think as typical of the best of college life and the spirit which it represents as the true college spirit, the spirit which appreciates most profoundly, and sheds most glory upon, alma mater and her fair name." —Denver Clarion.

Oregon—It is rumored that a spelling class is to be formed at the University of Oregon owing to the fact that numerous students used Roosevelt's simplified spelling on their registration blanks. There were numerous "sophomores," and even one "senior," all of whom lived at the "dormitory."

TO BE HARD FIGHT

RATHBONE VISITS MANHATTAN AND THINKS AGGIES STRONG.

FRANK SCARED OF MINNESOTA

Gophers Should Be Given Credit for Defeating Ames as Iowans' Team Team Is Composed of Veterans.

Practice was held yesterday on the Nebraska field instead of the Farm with a lively and hard scrimmage. All of the regulars were out, with the exception of Mulligan, who has a felon on his left hand. Pearson is suffering from a badly sprained ankle, but is able to get around. Racely was out again and the speedy halfback is anxious to get into the game again.

Minnesota to Be Feared.

Owen Frank, who was at Minneapolis last Saturday, has thrown a scare into the jubilant supporters of the team by reporting that the Gophers are far from being the green, disorganized bunch that they have been supposed to be. In fact, they show much better team play than our own Cornhuskers. Their score with Ames was close, but it must be taken into consideration that the Ames team is composed for the most part of veterans.

Rathbone Reports Aggies Strong.

Rathbone, the other assistant of Stiehm's who witnessed the struggle between the Kansas Aggies and the Haskell Indians at Manhattan the same date, reports the Aggies, too, have a much heavier backfield than Stiehm's proteges. He especially lauds Holmes, their big halfback, who played a tackle last season. "Bones" also reports they are out for the Cornhuskers' scalp to help wipe out the memories of that awful drubbing they received last fall. Manager Reed said yesterday that no excursion to Minnesota had been gotten as yet, and the chances for one were pretty poor. As the trip is quite long, a sufficient number could not be gotten to guarantee the trip.
