ENGINEERS HAVE GOOD FROLIC.

Large Crowd, Fine Speeches, Good
Eats Arouse Spirit.

There was a big turnout at the engineering smoker Friday night, including a large number of first year men. Everyone reports a good time and considerable enthusiasm was displayed.

All the faculty members present were called on for talks, including Chancellor Avery, whose speech showed his great interest in the engineers. Dr. Maxey was enticed into coming to the festivities and proceeded to explain in what ways the engineers exceeded the laws.

There was plenty to smoke, good eats, and a lot of good stories. The Delta Upsilon house provided ample room for the crowd, and the Engineering Society wishes to thank their fraternity for their hospitality.

THE EXTRA ISSUE.

The Nebraskan is getting an extra edition Saturday night for editing a full account of the Monte carlano. We mention the fact voluntarily not in a boastful spirit but for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that we are trying to serve the interests of the student body. While less than half of the students are on our subscription list, the paper was distributed free to all who called for it. This venture was undertaken in the belief that it would be responsive to a student demand. If it was we are satisfied, for we feel that in this way the students may feel inclined to enlist themselves in the cause of the college paper.

We need their support, and are willing to go more than half way to get it.

BLUEPRINT CAMPAIGN STARTED.

Edw. J. Krause, as business manager of the Blueprint, is making an active campaign for subscribers. As an extra inducement he offers the paper for the small sum of 25 cents, the remaining 75 cents to be paid some time before the close of the semester.

WEARIES DRIFTING BACK AFTER MINNESOTA GAME.

MEET EXCITING ADVENTURES

Several Taken for Bank Robbers;
Some Others Discovered and Are Forced to "Dig Up"—All Arrived for the Game.

The tin can knight errants have returned from their crusade to the north country, and many and marvelous are the tales of adventure reported. Freezing, getting "pinched," kicked off or made to pay the regular fare were among the delicacies to which the itinerant wanderers were treated by the admiring public or the tender-hearted officials encountered along the way.

One duet of "Wearies," while making a special privileged stopoff in a small Iowa town, were accosted by the town officers, who proceeded forthwith to take them into custody and to investigate the material possessions of the wanderers. After being questioned as to why they had "soaked" a certain watch in the town, and what they had done with a certain "mugger" companion whom they were alleged to have had with them, the would be "hobs" found that the officials had through some unpardonable mistake taken them for a crew of bank robbers who had perpetrated their nefarious work in the place a short time before. However, the young fellows got out of the difficulty in sufficient time to get to the game.

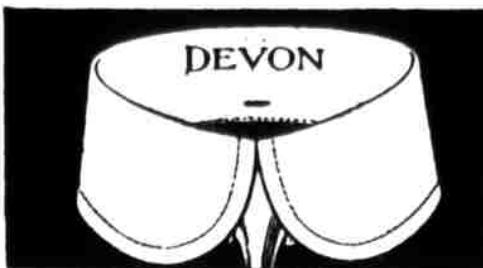

PULLMAN SCENES LIVELY.

It is said that the scene in the inside of the Pullmans on the trip was one of intense activity, much in contrast to the ordinary leisurely ease that is to be found in such a conveyance. With the passage of the porter or conductor down the aisle a regular series of neatly executed dives beneath the berths and seats on the part of those who deemed it advisable to be seen by the train crew reminded one of the scene of a stroller along the bank of a stream when the traps make "drunks" into the water. And even when the porter or "con" became wary and looked under the berths, for there was nothing therefor with marvellous agility and strategy each hidden in crevices had succeeded in climbing into the upper berth and under a pile of suit cases and blankets to remain there until the storm should pass.

Some Travelers Discovered.

A few of the travelers were, however, discovered. One fellow was made to pay full fare while another was ejected from the train at a point somewhat not far out of Omaha, such misfortune being the result of his inadvertently falling asleep in the very clutches of the "con." Another, after catching the wrong train and wandering over a large part of the state of Iowa, landed in Chicago after making a trip some 600 miles or so in length. Another makes a special request to the general public that he be shot on sight if he is ever again caught freezing on the tender of a passenger engine.

In spite of the hardships encountered on the trip, every one of the "hobs" succeeded in reaching and seeing at least a part of the game and getting in a good yell for Nebraska
