Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1912.

Two members of the senior law class came to blows the other night in the law library over a set of reports that they were both trying to get. That's just an indication of how hard they make them study in the Law College. It also speaks for the capacity of the library.

CO-EDUCATION IN COLLEGES.

Lake Forest College is to begin a system of gradual separation of the young men and the young women who now enjoy its educational advantages in mixed classes. It is the intention of the college trustees eventually to create separate organizations for men and women in each of the four college classes.

Co-education is not so much in favor as it was a few years ago, and it seems destined to become less favored. Theoretically, it is ideal; practically, it causes too much flirting and distraction from studies. Most of the state universities cling to it, but even they, it seems probable, will swing into line with those who while advocating plenty of social life of a wholesome sort, in which the two sexes may come together, believe education is best served by separate classes.

The University of Chicago, after trying very liberally co-education, adopted a policy of separation. We are much inclined in our new world life to experiment in all things, and some novelties prove desirable, but as we grow older we realize that certain customs, methods and ideas have value because they represent a testing and sifting process through many centuries of race experience.—Record-Herald.

WHEN WILL THEY GO THROUGH

Means of Access to Home of Hard-Working Laws Is Threatened With Disaster.

On the second floor of University Hall, near the east stairway ascending to the third floor, are three boards. Thereby hangs a tale! These boards have been trod upon by the feet of thousands of students since the founding of the University. Now the constant dripping of water will in generations wear away a stone, and a board is not nearly so adamant as a rock. Hence the constant strain upon these boards has caused them to become worn to a wafer-like thinness, and they offer but slight resistance to the carressing foot. They have served their time. Can you blame them for wearing out?

The rafters supporting the boards and the supports of the stairway seem to have become worm-eaten until they have partly crumbled away. Each day when the boisterous laws rush madly down the chairway between classes it shakes violently from side to side and india rubber boards sink down several inches, as an asphalt pavement on a hot day.

To even a careless observer watching the careless laws drop down the stairway, it seems that the cunning boards are merely waiting for the proper moment when they shall precipitate the downpouring throng into the dark void beneath. —Buster.

PRIZE SONGS APPEAR TOMORROW

Will Be Printed in Nebraskan, the Official Program for the Rally.

A number of original songs and yells were handed in yesterday and are being considered today by the committee in charge of the prizes. The winning compositions will be published in the Daily Nebraskan Friday, together with the names of the lucky composers. Everyone should get a paper on Friday, take it to the rally, and there learn the songs and yells which are to prove the undoing of the K. U. team.

In the meantime the Glee Club will be coached up on the songs and will be ready to appear Friday with a well-stocked repertoire.

GETTING READY FOR LAWS.

Testing Floors in New Building for Severe Strain.

Engineer Anderson has started the testing of floors in the new law building. The process is to pile from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds on the floor and by means of instruments designed for that purpose measure the deflections. —Stew.

Big Bear Story From Texas.
A bear cub mascot of the Texas football team chased a couple of co-eds until one of the players tackled the frolicsome beast. The girls were rescued, but the cub insisted on leaving the field with a portion of the gallant hero's moleskins.
