Twelve rabbits' feet, tied in gold and black ribbon, one for each member of the team and one for C. L. Brewer, were presented to the Missouri team the other night. These tokens of good luck were given to the players to help them win the game with Kansas tomorrow.

In case Drake defeats Ames tomorrow Nebraska will have a clear title to the Missouri Valley Championship. But if Ames wins they will be tied with Nebraska for first place. Drake has been working hard all week in preparation for the Ames game, and if the Drake backfield is working right the Aggies will be defeated.

About the first day after Turkey Day every paper in the universe that has a sporting column will be printing their All-American football team. Some of them hit it pretty close, but again some of them don't. The choice this year for the best football player in the country will fall upon Thorpe, Brickley or Flinn. Thorpe should be given the honor, for he is the only genuine American, he being an Indian.

"Eddie" Klein, scout for the Missouri football team, who attended the Kansas Nebraska game here last Saturday, had this to say when he returned to Columbia. "Nebraska was lucky to win. Kansas fought the Cornhuskers to a standstill, and had it not been for two lucky runs they would not have won." We will admit the Jayhawkers fought the Huskers to a standstill for at least one-half of the game, but both of the runs were not lucky. The team has been drilled in the play that resulted in the first touchdown ever since the season started. As for the other touchdown, luck did not play any part after Howard received the ball. Perfect interference and head work of the runner scored the second touchdown. As far as luck was concerned the two teams broke even. The Jayhawkers recovered one of their blocked kicks and several times recovered fumbles which materially assisted them.

LAMB WRITES FOR JOURNALS. Several Well-Written Papers Given Space in Exclusive Publications.

William H. Lamb, popularly known on the campus as plain "Bill" Lamb, has apparently made good in Washington. He has broken into the very exclusive forestry journal with a "Synopsis of the Red Firs." Dr. Bessey says that it is written with the skill of a professional and reflects much credit upon the department.

A recent edition of the "Plant World" contained another article by the same author on "Phylogeny of Grasses." A third paper is being written for the next edition of the Forestry Annual. George N. Lamb, '09, a brother, is highly thought of in Washington, where he holds an excellent position with the forest service.—F. W.
