HEINE MAKES THE BEST SCORE

Junior In College of Agriculture Wins First Place In Fruit Judging Contest at Auditorium.

NEBRASKA FINISHES AFTER AMES

In the annual fruit judging contest of the State Horticultural Society held yesterday at the Auditorium, V. J. Heine, a junior in the college of agriculture and a member of the Nebraska team, won first place in the individual score. He competed with experts from Ames and Kansas besides his teammates, and in bringing down the honor edded one more laurel to those won by Agricultural College teams this semester.

In the team contests, the three schools entered finished in the following order, the two hundred and fifty dollar trophy going to the winner of the first place-Ames, with a score of 394.8; Nebraska with a score of 383.4 and Kansas with a score of 380. The close scores made indicate the standing of the schools, with no detriment put upon the two that finished last.

The members of the Nebraska team were: V. J. Heine, H. W. Richey, C. B. Patrick, H. C. Merrick, and A. H. Beckoff.
