

WHY THE FIVE HEADS?

Scientists Puzzled Over Newest Freak of Nature in the Kitten Species.

A kitten with five heads has arrived straight from the Frele Press building to puzzle the heads of the curious ones who visit the museum. This abnormality not only has five heads but accord to Bob Graham who is preserving it in the same way that the "Medles" pickle the stiffs it has four more legs than the ordinary backyard songster has, four more for every additional head. It seems not at all unlikely that the noise of the press had something to do with this freak of nature. It is up to the zoologist to decide that.

BIG VOTE OUT.

University removal was put up to a referendum of the university body by giving each voter a chance to express his preference for or against the proposition. But a small fourth of the school voted either way, the ballot standing 341 against to 291 for removal. The general sentiment of the school seemed to be a sort of idea that it was useless to vote either way as the decision would have but little effect on the action of the legislature, and a willingness to accept some sort of a compromise between the two extremes. Had other candidates been up in the junior and freshman classes and a larger vote cast, more stress could be laid on the results of the ballot.
