SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS UNDER DIRECTION OF Y. M. C. A. DEVELOPED FINISHED SHOW.

ENTIRE OLIVER IS CROWDED

Thought to Be the Largest Number of Students Ever Gathered Together in History of University.

Before an overly large crowd that more than filled the three floors of the Oliver, the amateur theatricals of University Night again showed themselves a bigger drawing card than ever. The various acts were carried out without any serious cases of forgetfulness, tipping scenery, or stage fright, and each proved well worth the undertaking.

After the band, Glee club and Mandolin club had rendered selections that drew forth many rounds of applause, the Literary societies gave a most realistic representation of the initiation of our country cousins into the ways of the college lads and lassies. The Agricultural club gave a picture of the industry and erudition that characterizes the inside of a country store and took a good shot at the college lecturing as the student often sees it, when they presented the farmers with a professional talk that not only was supposed to put the farmers to sleep but actually was given in such a very realistic manner as to work upon the patience of the audience, as it quite frequently does upon those who are forced to listen to such several times a day instead of once a year.

The Foresters gave a good idea of how practical the language sounds, and the practical workings of professional learning look to the laity by showing the mental and linguistic efforts of several college professors and the manual efforts of a gang of union men required in raising a pole from a horizontal to a perpendicular position. In connection with the Forester's act, Mr. Ridgeley Chaplin drew forth the appreciation of the audience in an impersonation of Chancellor Avery that in facial expression, poise and inflection likeness was realistic to perfection. The only exception to an almost absolute likeness was found in the fact that perhaps the logic of his speech was not quite equal to that of the chancellor, even though on a subject that may have made it sound more so to some people.

The Military department gave a typical and comical picture of camp life.

Perhaps the act deserving the most favorable mention was that of the Inter-fraternity songsters in which was shown more ability and less natural amateur awkwardness than in any other. Miss Ruth Malone's singing was the most finished work of the evening and was of course far above the accompanying amateur work. The work of Mr. Ammerman in the role of the Yiddish comedian was well worthy

JAYHAWKS DROP FIRST OF SERIES

Playing to a crowd smaller than the usual, the Cornhusker quintet last night took from the Jayhawker five the first of the series of games for the championship of the Missouri Valley. The game was the fastest which has been played here this season, and there were moments when the little band of rooters got thrills enough to cause near heart failure. The tenement-dwellers excelled the Southerners in passing and goal-shooting, while the Kansas men were able to keep their roughness within the referees' rulings. For the Huskers, Carrier and Haskell were the stars, and Sproul for the visitors was the stellar artist. Seymour, the referee, was inclined to favor a strict interpretation of the rules, and refused to let the Huskers stray from the straight and narrow path, all of which made the crowd thirst for blood and gore.

Stiehm's men appeared on the floor promptly at 8 o'clock and were followed in a few minutes by the Southerners. While they warmed up, the immense crowd began to fill the seats by ones and twos. Referee Seymour blew his whistle at 8:30 and the game started with a whirl which carried the ball back and forth to the Kansas goal. They failed to locate the basket from the start, missing on two good chances. The referee called a foul on Haskell which operation he found so easy that he continued said stunt throughout the game. Kansas missed a goal as they did a moment later on a free throw caused by a foul on Underwood.

After a period of passing on both sides, enlivened by fouls on the part of Hawkins and Weaver which netted each side one point, Carrier threw the first field goal. The Cornhuskers fell into their stride and showed the visitors some wonderful passing and ended by Underwood caging the ball. This was followed almost immediately by one from Sproul. Haskell made a free throw and followed it with a field goal. A series of long quick and accurate passes on both sides interspersed with several trials for the baskets was ended by Underwood who made a clean throw from field. Stryker here gave the fans an exhibition of pretty work but his shots were hoodooed, the ball even running around the rim several times before falling out. The Kansans netted a point on a foul by Haskell and brought the score up to 10-4 in favor of Nebraska. The remainder of the half was played at top speed and ended with the score of 18-11 in the Huskers favor. Hyde took the place of Hawkins just before time was called.

After a ten minute rest the teams again faced each other with no further change in the lineup. The first event was a foul on Nebraska. Hyde and his gentle style of playing seemed to worry the Jayhawkers considerably just about this time. The two teams alternated in throwing goals and causing fouls for some few minutes when Carrier was loose with the prettiest goal of the entire game and brought the score up to 26-15 with the northerners in the lead. Stryker had some more hard luck and was unable to cage the sphere in several attempts. Underwood brought in another two points just after Haskell. Hyde and Sproul drew a double foul which added a point to the score on both sides and made it 30-19. Carrier again hit the lime light by taking the ball off all by himself and putting it through the hoop.

Howard took Hyde's place after the referee gave Kansas a free throw for an alleged tripping by Hyde. Haskell and Underwood brought the score to 35-20.

Boehm took the place of Weaver at center. Howard took the ball down the field for a goal which made up for the free throw of Kansas at his expense. Smith went in for Hite, and shortly thereafter Meyer for Stryker. K. U. made one more field goal and Haskell brought the score up to 40-26 where it was shown when the whistle blew for time.

Today's game will be played at Lawrence and on its outcome will depend a third game to be played at Manhattan if it is necessary to play off a tie. The Jayhawkers will see a wonder game tonight if the two teams play up to their last night's standard.

The following was the lineup:

HIGH SCHOOLS PLAY SOON

YOUNG HUSKIES FROM ALL OVER STATE UNITE IN PUTTING ON BIG ATHLETIC ATTRACTION

350 TEAMS WILL COMPETE

Some of the Fastest Games Ever Seen at Nebraska Predicted by Boosters of Various Teams.

With every detail completed, everything is in readiness for the arrival of the 349 high school athletes, representing forty-five different high schools in the third annual high school basketball tournament. The tournament starts Thursday afternoon of this week and is without doubt the largest ever held on the local floor.

The teams are expected to arrive Wednesday for the tournament and will be accommodated at the various hotels, who have made special rates for the occasion. It has been the custom in former years for the different fraternities to entertain the youthful athletes but since the numbers have so increased that this is impossible.

The championship team will be awarded with a large silver cup, which is on exhibition in the windows of the donors, Tucker and Shean. The cup was won last year by the fast Omaha aggregation and it is likely that they will put up a strong fight for it again this year. The team winning second place in the meet is to receive a large silk banner. The members of the two winning teams are to receive individual medals for their valiant services.

The officials for the meet have been chosen from a list of men who know the game.

They are an experienced lot of men who have seen service on many floors. The list contains the following: Sam Carrier, Hird Stryker, Earl Hawkins, C. A. Meier, Chas Meyers, Ben Beck, C. C. Underwood, Augie Schmidt, M. O. Hanzlik, Art Hiltner, Sam Waugh, O. Frank.
