FACULTY AND STUDENTS EN-DORSE SENIORS DECISION TO PLAY IBSEN

MODEL FOR MODERN WRITERS

"Pillars of Society" Being Widely Read By Students Preparing for Tryouts to Be Held Next Wednesday.

"The Senior class has taken a very commendable step in selecting a play which will command the attention and respect of the public. 'Pillars of Society' is not only a play of great merit, but it has served as a model for many English and German plays which deal with sociological problems. Although serious in its purpose and method the play makes a strong appeal to the audience. It is to be hoped that the public will show its appreciation by responding enthusiastically at the box office." In such language Professor Paul H. Grumann, director of the School of Fine Arts adds to the favorable comment which has been heard from students and faculty in regard to the selection of the Ibsen play for this year's Senior production.

Since the announcement in Tuesday's Nebraskan members of the class have quite generally endorsed the committee's selection and according to present indications, a great many will appear in the tryouts next Wednesday evening. Twenty copies of the play were placed at the Resery Desk in the Library and all of them have enjoyed a wide circulation.

Wenstrand Sees Improvement.

Will Wenstrand, president of the Senior class was enthusiastic over the idea of the Seniors presenting a play of recognized standing. "I have read the play," he said, "and think it a good one for the class. It is an improvement, in my judgment, on anything that has been given during the past four years. I urge all Seniors to show an interest in the success of the play by trying out for places on the cast and giving it moral and financial support upon the date of its presentation June 7th."

Several members of the faculty were interviewed recently in regard
