UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA, LINCOLN, FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1913

Price, 5 Cents

LAST DAY FOR ORDERS

THOSE DESIROUS OF OBTAINING SENIOR INVITATIONS MUST MAKE ARRANGEMENTS.

ARE MAKING GREAT HIT

Two Grades Sell for Two for Twenty-five Cents and Twenty-five Cents Each Respectively.

The sale of Senior invitations has been going on for several days at a rate that seems to indicate that an unusually large number will be purchased and C. L. Yochum, chairman of the invitation committee, is of the opinion that a final rush today will put the finishing touches on the sale. Today is positively the last day on which the booklet may be ordered, and in a very few days they will be sent to press.

The invitations have been gotten up in a very attractive form. The beauty of the design and arrangement may be inferred from the fact that the experiment is being tried of making the present design a stock form which will be used traditionally in the future, and with such intention in mind the committee have exerted every effort to make the printing, embossing and decorating such that it cannot possibly be a disappointment to the most fastidious.

The booklets are sold in two grades. The cheaper class which sell two for twenty-five cents, have a white cardboard covering with a binding of red cord and tassels. The better grades are worth a quarter a piece, the added expense resulting from the cost of the Russian mission leather covering which offers a much richer effect in a bronze coloring with a matched leather strap for binding the sheets. On the upper portion of the covering is the name "Nebraska" in black lettering an inch high. The university seal adorns the center of the face with the year below and a touch of ivy leaves graces the circular emblem.

The contents of the publication are divided into five sections. On the first page is inscribed the invitation. Next follows the commencement week program. The class officers and committee are given two sections, and the list of graduates completes the inside. The printing is done in a shaded old English type with brown ink.

Peace Sermon Sunday.

The national's preparation for possible war costs Nebraska people more than $3,000,000 a year; the equivalent of Nebraska University on the city campus is worth about $1,000,000. Arthur L. Weatherly, secretary of the Nebraska Peace Society and minister of All Souls' Church, will give a special sermon next Sunday on "The Curse of Militarism." A musical vesper service will be given by a trio consisting of Miss Lillian Eiche, Miss Edith Burlingame and Mrs. August Moler, at 4 o'clock in this church Sunday afternoon.

NEBRASKA FIELD ALMOST BARE BECAUSE OF COLD

Foggy Atmosphere Puts Quiet on Heretofore Crowded Athletic Quarters.

Owing to the refrigerated brand of weather doled out yesterday very little happened on the athletic field. Most of the husky representatives of Cornhuskers supremacy contented themselves with a seat by the fire and fond recollections. The weather is beginning to prove a serious cause of worry to the coaches, as the teams have lost more than two weeks already this season on account of old Sol and Jupiter Pluvius.

A few enthusiastic baseball candidates for the remoter garden were not to be daunted by the wind and cold weather, however, and were out pulling down some long archers, which were nearly rendered invisible by the heavy low hanging clouds. The baseball team will need plenty of good weather as their first game is only a week away.

The freshman diamond dusters have not as yet shown up on the field. Although no provision has been made for officially caring for a freshman team, there is no reason why they should not have their own organization. The field could be turned over to them each day at four o'clock, and there are plenty of men with high school and academy reputations, who would make up a strong team.

In past years the freshman varsity team has had a schedule composed of games with secondary colleges of the state and have enjoyed considerable success. If the freshman fans would boost this idea they would probably find that the athletic department would fall in behind them.

CURRENT NUMBER OF "KOMENSKY" INTERESTING

Article Dealing With Work of Dr. F. J. Petr in the Balkan Army.

The April number of "Komensky," the official organ of the united Komensky societies, contains several articles of interest to Nebraska students. Among them is one written in Prague, Bohemia by J. L. Bouchal which deals with the work of Dr. F. J. Petr, the only Nebraska doctor who is a member of the medical corps of the Balkan armies. The author, Mr. Bouchal, graduated from the college of law last June and at present is the deputy consul at Prague.

The magazine also contains a brief summary of the struggle on removal and is accompanied by a neat cut, showing a campus view.

The statement of contributions received for the Komensky statue fund from various states up to about the first of March shows a substantial increase over the total of the month before. Nebraska heads the list with over five hundred and fifty dollars and is followed by fifteen other states with smaller amounts.

WRESTLING TEAM LEAVES TONIGHT FOR IOWA CITY

Will Meet Iowans Saturday—Representatives In All Weights.—In Good Shape.

The Cornhusker wrestling team will leave for Iowa City tonight for their encounter with the Hawkeye grapplers Saturday evening. Four men, Anderson, Bates, Gunther, and Ganz, will make up the team. They will enter the heavyweight, middle weight, light-weight, and featherweight classes respectively. The heavyweight representative has just been determined by the withdrawal of McCormick, who was to have contested with Anderson for the honors.

The men have been working out daily on the canvas mat for some time and seem to be in good shape. They work fast and use all the different holds in a way that shows their knowledge of the finer points of the sport. Nebraska has won this contest for some years past, and the team expects to duplicate this performance again this season.

FRESHMAN MACHINE ELECTS THREE MINOR OFFICES

Spier Makes a Speech and Tells Classmates to Strive to Be At Top of All Activities.

The minor officers of the freshman class were elected in the first meeting of the year, yesterday morning. A small bunch were on hand for the election but made up for the lack of numbers by lots of pep and enthusiasm. Machine politics were in evidence at more than one point in the proceedings. All officers were unanimously elected.

Returns:
Vice President—M. R. McMillan.
Secretary—Fred N. Wells.
Treasurer—E. A. Shoemaker.

According to the report of the hop committee, the annual dance will be held May 17th, at Capital Beach. The baseball men were stirred up and urged to get out for spring practice. Spier, the new president, made an impromptu speech in which he reminded his class of what lay before them in making their reputation among the other classes and in living up to their best standards. He told his class that it was their duty to stand first in all branches of academic activities.

BAND CONCERT IN TEMPLE.

In response to the general demand for greater economy in student affairs the members of the band have decided to give their annual concert in the Temple theatre instead of in the Oliver as has been the custom in former years. This arrangement will permit of a general admission of twenty-five cents.

Magdalene Whitly will preside at the College Girls' meeting Friday noon in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

ANNUAL OFFERS PRIZES

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT CONTRIBUTES THREE BOOKS TO ADD TO EXCITEMENT.

FOR STORY, SNAP AND JOKE

However All Material Must Be Worthy of Censor's Searching Gaze for Staff Fears the Publication Board.

The work of making the 1913 Cornhusker the best annual ever turned out by the University goes busily on. The business management has already come to the editor's rescue in the matter of getting for the annual the products of the very best talent on the campus. To stimulate those whose gratuitous efforts have been spent so long in making the Cornhusker what it will be in your hands, the staff offers today prizes for work as follows: One book for the best joke, one book for the best snapshot, and one book for the best story. These prizes are open to all University students.

The subjects of joke, snap or story must be on some subject connected with University life, and must be in shape for the inspection of the censor. The experiences of last year are in the opinion of the staff too sad to be re-enacted again, and all contestants for prizes as well as those who work for nothing must keep within the bound of propriety and decency in the amount of poetic license that has immemorably attached itself to Cornhusker work.

Remember too, that the contest closes one week from Friday at 6 o'clock. The main object of the offer of prizes is to get the work in now. People are clamoring to know when the big book will be distributed, and the staff is as sorely pressed for time as money. Get your work in early.

HANS WINS YATES RIFLE CUP

High Man In All Rifle Shoots Takes Possession of Trophy Given By Former Commandant.

The Yates Rifle cup for the best marksman on the university rifle squad has been won by O. E. Hans, the man who in all the intercollegiate shoots this year, won the highest local average. The cup is a bronze affair and was sent by Captain Yates, commandant at the university a year ago, from his present post in Alaska. During the different shoots, in which the university participated, Hans hung up the average of 170.7 out of a possible 200. Nebraska did not place where it expected, the best honors easily going to the University of West Virginia with Iowa shooting a close second.

Norton Ware, '04, visited the engineering departments on Wednesday. He now lives in Sacramento where he is chief engineer of a large drainage district. He was married on March 27th to Miss Lola Wilson at Sacramento and they are now on an eastern trip.
