KOSMET SALE OPENS

SEATS FOR "THE MATCH MAKERS" GO ON SALE THIS MORNING.

PRESENTED BY UNI. TALENT

Price Is Low in Order That All May Attend—Best Ever Musical Production.

Seats for the "Match Makers," the Kosmet Klub's annual musical production go on sale this morning at 10.

Both play and music were written and staged by University talent and the attendance promises to be good.

The Kosmet Klub was organized two years ago with the purpose in view of each year staging a musical production written in its entirety by University people. The competition for place in the cast is an open one.

The great regret of the Klub is that the play could not be produced free of charge but unavoidable expense makes it impossible. They do aim, however, to fix the price so that it may merely cover cost of production.

Several Frat Games of Baseball Will Be Played Soon

Today will be a busy day for all of the amateur ball teams and some that ought to be. There are several frat games scheduled on paper but whether or not they will play is a matter of conjecture.

The Delta Taus are scheduled to meet the Alpha Tau Omegas in a practice game somewhere in the near vicinity of Lincoln. Each of these teams are good ones and have some very fast material. The Sigma Phi Epsilon are the proud possessors of two teams and will probably have a game all by themselves. The frat schedule is not out yet but should be about the first of next week.

Several of the fraternities, who do not want their names mentioned are going to play games sometime between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning.

Wrestling Squad Leaves for Madison In Fine Condition

Three members of the wrestling squad left for Madison, Wis. for the western wrestling tournament this evening. Carl Ganz, Gunther and Phil Southwick were the members of the team to accompany Doctor Clapp on the trip. These men are in extra good shape and are expected to make a much better showing than the squad did at the dual meet with Iowa. The other members of the squad that were to compete in the heavier weights did not go as they were not in very good condition.

Shop Men End Week With Annual Feed at Lindell Tonight

The annual engineering banquet will be held at the Lindell hotel at 6:30 tonight. This is a big event in the calendar of the Nebraska engineer. Last year 210 men attended the banquet, and fully as many are expected this year.

Many alumni are returning for the banquet. On the campus the tickets are going fast, although many are waiting until Saturday to purchase their tickets.

The toast list, as announced by Chairman Toney is a good one. Prof. E. H. Barbour will act as toastmaster. Chancellor Avery, Prof. O. J. Ferguson, Verne Hedges and Louis Gramlich, president of the Engineering Society, are included in the toast list, and insure the excellence of the program. Faculty members and prominent alumni will also probably be called on for short talks.

The banquet at the Lindell tonight closes the most successful engineers' week in the history of the University. All the events so far have been well supported. The rally brought out a large crowd and was a very enthusiastic affair. The ball games produced a great deal of college spirit and a creditable program was given at convocation.

While no one man or group of men can claim credit for that which is the result of the spirit displayed by all the shop men, the engineering society was the source of the plans for the week. President Gramlich and the following committees have put much time and effort into the arrangements for the week:

Convocation: Ahrens, chairman; Kjelgaard, Dresler, Somers, Wirt.
Banquet: Toney, chairman; Verson, Wohlford, Chas. Anderson.
Rally: Cotton, chairman; Parker, Tunks, Green.
"Rag": Lyman, chairman; Evans, Sjogren, Thompson.
Baseball: Phares.

The week was financed by the sale of the buttons. This was in charge of L. P. Arns.

A. I. E. E. Takes Basketball Game From A. E. M. E.

The engineers continued their week of athletic activities by holding a basketball game last evening between the mechanical and electrical engineers. The electrical engineers won the contest after a bitterly fought contest by a score of 18 to 15. The marked characteristics of the game were the roughness and the spectacular goals shot by scintillating players of both teams. For the electricals the star work was done by Carrier and Pierce while Westling and Finley were the shining lights of the mechanics.

The first half was the rougher and resembled a football game played in track suits more than it did a basketball game. "Hizoner" Mr. Candy acted in the capacity of umpire or referee and really did a fine job of it, too. He really called two fouls on each team but little did they figure in the final score.

The second half was just a little bit rougher than the first but not quite as many fouls were called. The score was tied from time to time. The game was a good one and really was bitterly fought, the best team winning.

Engineers to Meet Barristers Upon Diamond Today

Although Coach Stiehm and the varsity team are in Jay-Hawk land, the University public will have the opportunity to witness a good ball game when the engineers meet the laws this afternoon at 2:30. There is a great deal of rivalry between the two colleges and a good game is assured. The game will be open to the general public.

Owen Frank will lead the laws and will probably pitch. Armstrong and Strain are also possible pitchers for the law team. The rest of the team have not yet been announced.

Manager Phares of the engineers has announced the following tentative line-up: Dow, c; Lindstrom, 1b; Lichty, 2b; Ericson, or Peterson, 3b; Votaw, ss; Bowman, cf; Beck rf; Parker, lf; Tunka, Krajeck and Keefe will pitch for the shop men.

Both colleges have lost several men on account of the absence of the varsity. But this will probably serve only to make the teams more evenly matched, so that a good game is assured.

Alpha Xi Delta Banquet.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority holds its first annual banquet tonight. The alumnae back for the event are Mildred Bevins of Beatrice, Cella Malone of Blair, Hazel Robinson of Hastings and Joy Schreckengast of University Place.

UNIVERSITY MEN SPEAK

MAXEY, BURTIS AND PRINCE ADDRESS HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS

REMARKS LOUDLY APPLAUDED

Fairbury High School Defeats Edgar High School in Warm Debate and Becomes the District Champion.

Last Monday night occurred the debate between Fairbury and Edgar high schools. Of this hotly contested forensic affray a publishable report has just reached our ears. The regular Nebraska High School Debating League question, "Resolved, That American cities should adopt a commission form of government," was the subject for discussion. Although the struggle was close and indecisive to the very last blows struck in rebuttal, the decision of the judges was for Fairbury.

The opponents met each other in the First Baptist church of Fairbury and delivered their speeches to a house that was packed to halls and corridors. Adjutant General Hartigan of the Nebraska State Militia presided.

This debate is specially conspicuous and of interest to University readers, say those who heard it, because three of the University's most prominent men, Doctor Edwin Maxey, Harry Burtis and Harold A. Prince serve the contesting orators as judges.

At the close of the debate the judges were asked to express their estimate of the work just presented, and their salient remarks on the merits of the speeches were greeted by long and vigorous applause.

The judges returned with a rosy picture of the time they enjoyed on the trip to one of Nebraska's largest and most prosperous cities. The debate, as reported by one of their number, Mr. Harold A. Prince, gave particular expression to the pleasures which the opportunity to judge this contest gave him.
