"SOLLILLOQUY."

To stay or not to stay, that is the question:
Whether 'tis better to bear and suffer
The exams of the Profs hereafter
And the missives and onslaughts of Engberg
Or take my books and go straight home.
And this escape from all these troubles
For all time; thus by a sneak to end them;
The lab and the thousand racking
lectures
That this flesh is heir to. 'Tis a condemnation

Eagerly to be avoided. To cram; to flunk;

To flunk; perhaps to drop; ay, there's the rub.

For after all is done, what may remain

When such hard work is passed by,
But turn to work; there's the lament
That makes so long a life distasteful.

Yet tho' the profs. do make failures of us all

'Tis better to bear these ills we have Than fly to others in the world's hard school.

Soon all these ills will be forgotten
For spring has come and one more lease of life

Does promise much I am resolved to stay;

The birds do call and bench work long neglected.

Adds to my sorrows a light which outshines all lament.

But soft! methinks I scent a happier day

The fair young damsel or who knows?
A P. B. K.

"He is such a fine speaker. He drives things home in such a forceful way."

"Yes, I've known him to drive whole editor?"

Is it a beloved memento of his childhood? Or should it be advertised in the "Lost and Found" colum?

Gold—Microscopical iota, who are you?

Berg—I'm the guy that put myself in bad.

(They battle.)—Sanford Chapparat.

A Winner.

"Did you get any of that bargain ribbon?"

"Yes," answered the college girl proudly. "I bucked the line for ten yards."—Williams Purple Cow.

Phonographs "talk"! But they lack the personality of the human being whose speech they reproduce.

Many ready-make clothes are in the phonograph class, they imitate style and personality—they are feeble artificial attempts at reproducing
the genuine.

Some clothes, however,
have personality instilled into them—the yare
themselves the genuine which others seek to imitate and reproduce.

Our Kensingtons
this type of apparel.

They have that style, that indefinable air of distinction, which always brings perfect satisfaction to the wearer; they fit and stay fit—$20 up. If your allowance is limited, ask to see our Kensington suits at $14.50 and $17—the best at the price.

You Don't Pay for the Name

When you buy a Spalding Athletic Article, as some dealers who are after bigger profit on Athletic Goods would have you infer.
You pay for--and get--honest workmanship and material.
The name--- as evidenced in the Spalding Trade Mark--- is put on as a guarantee of what you pay for.
