

New Home of the Alumni Association

The Alumni Association, which is responsible through its officers for the gratifying response of the alumni in answer to a call for a home-coming, is now newly housed in the Administration building. The old Daily Nebraskan-Cornhusker office, in the south west corner of the basement, has been refurnished and fitted for the offices of the association and T. E. A. Williams.

Here the alumni are to feel at home while on the campus. They will be requested to register during this home-coming, and to get the "Home-comers" badge. Guy Reed, the acting secretary of the Association, is in charge of this and requests that each grad affix his signature to the Roll of Honor.

The officers of the Alumni Association are: W. O. Jones, Lincoln, president; Miss Eva O'Sullivan, Omaha, vice president; Guy E. Reed, Lincoln, acting secretary; N. Z. Snell, Lincoln, treasurer. Reed is in charge of the publication of the Alumni Bulletin, the first issue of which appeared in its new form last week.

"ROOT" 'S THE WORD

Nebraska Cheer-Leaders Explain Psychological Reasons for Concentrate Rooting

Today Nebraska meets Minnesota upon the football field in the ancient annual struggle for football supremacy. The factors that will make for Nebraska's victory in this game are several. Those husky, scrappy men out there on the field fighting for Nebraska will be one factor. The careful coaching those men have been getting from Stehm, Dudley, and their auxiliaries will be another factor. And then there is the participation that the rooting squad will take in the day's work. Granting the other factors named their deserved portion of credit, too much importance can not be placed upon the contribution of the rooters in putting the Cornhusker ball over the Gopher goal.

Rooting is not only an established but an essential part of the great American game of football. The enthusiasm of an excited, loyal crowd is contagious. And the team is susceptible to infection therefrom. When the team is tired, sweaty, and heartsore, when it seems they can not keep up the fight any longer, there comes crashing out over the field a thunderous "U-U-UNT" and the blood leaps faster through the players' veins. They grit their teeth and fight harder than ever. But in order to supply this vital stimulus those who essay to root must yell, yell, yell, without ceasing from the first kickoff to the last whistle.

Every man in that rooting section this afternoon is there for the paramount purpose of rooting. Don't conserve your dear little voice; yell without a trace of restraint—it's your share in beating Minnesota. And hang with the yell leaders on the yells. Keep interested in the game, of course, but be attentive to the suggestions and directions of the yell leaders. When one of them cries, "All in on No. 1," get with him and let 'er go with all the lung power you've got. Get in on it yourself and see that the men around you whoop it up. When the last whistle blows you may strut down O street with the best of them, happy in the knowledge that you did your share in beating the Gophers of Minnesota.

"AFTER THE FOOTBALL GAME."

The football game was over and at the parlor grate,
A maid and a long-haired youth were lingering rather late.
They talked of punts and drop kicks,
but found it rather tame,
Till Cupid put his nose guard on and butted in the game.
Quoth he, "It's mighty funny if I don't arrange a match,"
So he lined the couple up and made them toe the scratch.
The youth was growing nervous 'neath the weight of new-found bliss,
And he kind of thought the scrimmage ought to end up with a kiss;
He charged upon the center, he tackled left and right,
And the way they held that chair for downs was simply out of sight;
He tried an osculation, just an amateur affair,
But lost it on a fumble, and instead it struck the air.
Then as he landed on her ear he heard the maiden say,
"You're penalized for holding, Jim, likewise for offside play."
With set teeth he tried another, this time succeeded fine,
For he scored an easy touchdown on the crimson two-yard line.
And as they sat there by the grate, communing soul to soul
The parlor door swung open and—her father kicked the goal. —Ex.

Hazing at Michigan.

Considerable hazing has been going on at Michigan lately, despite the vigilance of the faculty and the efforts of the students to stop it. The council has declared its intention of dealing summarily with all offenders, expelling the guilty ones.
