Soph Machine Elects Officers for Semester-- Co-Ed Vice-President

Sophomore class meeting was held yesterday in Memorial Hall and officers for the coming semester were elected. A good crowd attended the meeting, including a delegation from the feminine part of the class. All precedents were upset in the election of a woman to the office of vice-president. The laws have set a good example. Those elected are as follows:

Vice-President—Lulu Mae Coe.
Secretary—Burke Taylor.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Paul Dennis.

Orville Chatt was appointed by the president to serve temporarily in the place of the treasurer elected by the class, who was unable to serve. The office will be filled at the next meeting of the class.

The sophs have decided to wear caps and a committee has been appointed to choose suitable styles from the latest modes on Broadway. The members of this committee will be given out as soon as the same have been verified as to their eligibility.

Will Plow at Farm.

An exhibition of plowing with a gasoline engine tractor will be given today and Saturday at the State Farm. This is expected to be of great interest to all agricultural students, who are urged to attend. Sixty or seventy acres will be cultivated.

REGIMENT ORDERED TO FIELD

Lieutenant Bowman Directs Mimic Operations Against Imaginary Enemy—Three Battalions Solving Problems.

Practical problems are occupying the time and consideration of the second-year cadets now. While their first-year comrades are drilled nightly in the intricacies of the manual of arms, the older men take to the field.

Commandant Bowman has made a survey of the land available for this purpose, and has found several blocks of open ground within a mile of the Armory. Wednesday night the regiment, operating as a unit, took up an advance guard problem. Last night the three battalions acted separately under the command of their majors, again taking up advance guard problems.

The first problem took the men to the open country north of the Tenth street viaduct. The three battalions were each incorporated into a single company, in command of their majors. An advance guard, support, and reserve were formed, and the men returned from the march in time to be dismissed in front of the Armory.

Last night the fields at Seventeenth and S and Fourteenth and X were used in addition. The three battalions handled their own situations, Lieutenant Bowman accompanying the third battalion.

Practical field work of this nature, and within the time limit of the one-hour drill, is to be the rule for the rest of drill before cold weather compels class work to be taken up.

TEMPLE Y. M. C. A. INVITES MORE USE OF ROOMS

Will Be Glad to Have All Organizations of the School to Come In.

The University Y. M. C. A. is endeavoring to be of additional service to the student body by making the lobby of the Temple building a more attractive, more sociable, and more useful place. Arrangements have been made to have representatives in the lobby office all day. Either Mr. Charlesworth, Mr. Sleeth, or Mr. Fowle will be there at any hour of the day to be of service to those coming in for information or accommodations as are there to be extended to the students.

Those in charge of the work request that all organizations, such as football teams, track teams, literary clubs, or any other student organizations leave information and advertising in the lobby of the Temple, for many hundreds of students are there each day and have an opportunity to see all announcements. Secretary Ewing says it will please him greatly to have students come in at all times with a broad grin and true Nebraska spirit.

Ags. to Hold Smoker.

The Agricultural Club will hold a smoker tomorrow night at the Farm house. All agricultural men are invited, the plan being for the men in the college to get acquainted. Members of the faculty will be present, and short talks will be made by these and the older men in the club.

DRISCOLL RESIGNS POSITION

Gives Up Business Management of Daily Nebraskan—Frank Perkins Elected Acting Manager to Fill Vacancy.

The resignation of J. L. Driscoll, present business manager of the Daily Nebraskan, was received and accepted by the student publication board last night. A special meeting was called and Frank S. Perkins was elected acting business manager to fill the position.

Mr. Driscoll has been connected with the Nebraskan staff for one year, serving as assistant business manager both semesters last year. He was elected business manager last June, and assumed the office at the beginning of this semester. However, after getting the paper on a good financial basis, he has found it necessary to give up this work in favor of other activities.

An innocent, captain of Co. D, and a leader in the senior class, Mr. Driscoll is well known on the campus, better known, however, as Stub. He is a Boise, Idaho, man and a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Frank Perkins, who succeeds Driscoll as acting manager, is a junior. He was elected assistant last June, and halls from Fremont. He is a member of Sigma Chi.

ANNUAL BEING PLANNED

PICTURES FOR THE CORNHUSKER MUST BE TAKEN BY THANKSGIVING AT TOWNSEND'S.

PUBLISHED A MONTH EARLIER

Entirely New Plan to Be Introduced into Arrangement of Book in the Form of Running Story.

With a novel plan of arrangement for the material of the 1914 Cornhusker that will be an innovation at Nebraska and that as a plan perhaps has never been found in any annual in the country, the present staff has begun to take active steps toward the publication of the book. All former plans are to be entirely discarded and Editor Trimble announced a new one that is to be a distinct addition both to the attractiveness and the interest of the publication. The essence of the new plan is to eliminate formal departments in the book and have the material arranged in chronological order after the fashion of a magazine.

The first step in the publication of the book is the announcement to the upper classes that positively all individual pictures must be taken by Thanksgiving. By such a plan a double advantage is secured. In the first place, the book will be put in the hands of the students at least one month earlier than ever before. In the second place, the individual photographs, which will be set on suitable mountings, will be available as Christmas presents. A contract has been made whereby Townsend, the photographer, is to devote his entire time primarily to student trade from now until Thanksgiving. A sitting this year will take no longer than ten minutes, and such promptitude will characterize the work that a picture may almost be taken between classes.

Appointments for the staff have not yet been made out, pending returns in some cases from Dean Engberg. The appointments will be announced early next week.
