HUNTER TALKS TO STUDENTS

Former Nebraska Man Tells of Experiences—Need of High Standards of Conduct.

In a short and spicy talk last night F. M. Hunter, superintendent of the city schools, impressed three fundamental facts on the minds of his audience. Scholarship was first mentioned and thoroughly emphasized, second in importance was the making of friends, and the final thing of importance in university life was the keeping of one's standard on a high plane. Loose standards should not be allowed to get a hold on young people when they come to the university, for when once one lets go of himself it is a difficult task to get back up to where high ideals formerly were.

At the next meeting Professor Grumman will speak on "Neglected Activities in the University."

Bob Irwin, center or guard, 210 lbs., second year, substitute. Heavy and slow but always there.

pounds and the Cornhuskers exactly 171.

Open Play Will Feature.

The game will undoubtedly be one of the fastest ever seen on the historic Nebraska field. The open style of play will predominate. There will be a great deal of open field running and the contest will be a fine exhibition of modern football.

Dick and Gross excell in this method of playing and Iowa is basing her hopes of winning on open work. But Nebraska also excels in modern football. The Cornhuskers have a wonderful assortment of forward passes and open field plays. Iowa is going to be beaten at their own game.

Large Scores Spell Nothing.

At first glance one would feel inclined to be dubious of a Cornhusker victory over a team that has run up such large scores over alleged strong schools. But the lop-sided scores that Iowa has rolled up can mean nothing but that the teams they were playing laid down, got stage fright, or showed a streak of yellow. Then, too, the teams on which Iowa scored so high were not what you would call first class teams. Iowa defeated Ames by a larger score than Nebraska did. But comparative scores spell nothing in this case when you take into consideration that the Cornhuskers were playing many substitutes. But dope is dope, nothing else. The proof of the dope is in the game. At all events the Cornhuskers are going into the game determined to win and WIN THEY WILL!
