

COLUMBIA STUDENT WINS ESSAY PRIZE

Contests Are Held Annually Through Generosity of Hart Schaffner and Marx.

Prizes amounting to two thousand dollars have been awarded to winners of the Hart Schaffner Marx essay contests for 1913. The first prize of one thousand dollars was won by Arthur E. Suffern, a graduate student of the Columbia university, for a paper entitled "Conciliation and Arbitration in the Coal Industry in the United States."

The competition is divided into two classes, graduates and undergraduates. The second prize in the graduate contest was given to G. P. Watkins, formerly a graduate student of Cornell university, now of the public service commission, New York city. He produced a paper entitled "Welfare as an Economic Quality," and received a prize of five hundred dollars for it.

Honorable mention was given to W. J. A. Donald, a graduate student of the University of Chicago, for a paper on "The Canadian Iron and Steel Industry."

In the contest among undergraduates the first prize of three hundred dollars went to Jess Waldo Myers, Cornell university, for a paper entitled "Unemployment."

The second prize for undergraduates amounting to two hundred dollars was given to Fred W. Eckert of Northwestern university, who wrote an essay on "Government Regulation of Public Utility Securities."

The contests, which are held annually through the generosity of Hart Schaffner & Marx, require a period of a year in preparation and students from many universities and colleges in the United States and Canada are among the aspirants for honors.

The committee making the wards was composed of:

Professor J. Laurence Laughling, University of Chicago, chairman.

Professor J. B. Clark, Columbia university.

Professor Henry C. Adams, University of Michigan.

Horace White, New York city, and Professor Edwin P. Gay, Harvard university.

TURP FRANK STILL IN GAME

Former Nebraska Star Heads Winning Wisner Team of Has-Beens.

Owen (Turp) Frank, 1912, star half-back for three seasons, has followed his football star this year after leaving the university. As the coach and shining light of the Wisner, Nebraska, town team, composed of football and basketball sharks who have followed the game after playing the lawful three years, he led the team to a victorious season. Scoring over 300 points against 2 for their opponents, the team claimed the Missouri valley honors Turp was easily the honor man of the team. His ability to turn a fifty yard forward pass or to make unlimited gains around end or through the line has evidently not lessened since his last game with the Scarlet and Cream.

In Other Days
