Every man has opinions about clothes, but we know from experience that the values, the fabrics and the wearing-quality of these Kenmors at the low prices we've put on them will alter the strongest of opinions.

Consequently we want you to take just a few minutes for a careful look at them. If exceptional values could ever interest you, these Kenmore Suits and Overcoats at $11.50, $14.50 and $17.00 will do it. The garments themselves are the best proof of these statements---may we show them to you?

EVEN KENMORS at the above prices, however, do not detract from the prestige of our high grade, perfect fitting Kensingtons. Just as Kenmor Clothes are winning friends by their extraordinary values, so have our Kensington suits and overcoats won a state-wide reputation with their superior quality, their distinctive tailoring and their ability to "fit and stay fit." students on the scope of the subject of architecture as a whole. Mr. Davis is particularly well fitted to speak on this his chosen profession, having had the advantage of a course at Columbia university, New York, and being actively engaged in the work at the present time.

The Architectural Society of the University is now fully organized and ready for a series of meetings to be given once a month throughout the school year. While primarily it is an engineering society, nevertheless it is especially anxious to secure every student interested in architecture as members.

Remember, the architects will meet next Thursday night at 7:30, December 11. Everybody is urged to come out for an hour and hear this interesting subject discussed whether members now or not. The subject is contagious so come and get infected. Look for the posters on the bulletin board.

In order to give the students another opportunity to see the exhibition by American illustrators an informal college tea will be given in Art hall Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5.

Mrs. Charlotte R. Cole, teacher elocution, dramatic art, coaching plays a specialty.—L7425.
