BAD MIX-UP ON SENIOR INVITATIONS

It seems that the committee had told his house they would wait for his bid before letting the contract. And now he wants in on the deal. And the Wright company feel that they should have it. And in the meantime the committee can't give it to either one. In fact, are they a committee at all?
So they must wait for senior elections to tell the tale. Will the second-semester president reappoint them, or will be put another committee in their place? In either case, the present committee is not worrying. We will have plenty of invitations, anyway.

ENGINEERS GIVEN INSIGHT INTO CEMENT MANUFACTURE

Complete Illustrated Outline of the Process Given at Ag. Eng. Meeting.
I. D. Wood of the Agricultural Engineering department gave an illustrated lecture on the manufacture of Portland cement before the Agricultural Engineering Society, Thursday evening. Not long ago Mr. Wood had occasion to visit one of the large cement factories near Chicago. He showed many interesting views of it.
In reviewing the history of cement manufacture, he emphasized the fact that the output of cement has greatly increased in the last decade because of its supplanting other less permanent or higher priced building materials. He discussed some of the many uses to which cement is being put.
The process of manufacture was first outlined and then illustrated with the slides. The raw material was followed through from the crusher to the grinding, mixing, drying, the burning to a clinker, and finally the grinding of the clinker to the finished product.
Those who had not had the opportunity of visiting a plant of this kind were fortunate in being present at this lecture, from which a clear conception of the size of machinery used and the method of manufacture of this very important product could readily be obtained.

MEXICO TOO HOT

This great influx means a new infusion into the populace of the South. It means the addition of a new strain in the blood of that section. And they are welcomed with open arms by the people.
Dr. Condra declares that the people as a whole are very well satisfied with President Wilson's attitude on the Mexican situation. There was not an unfavorable comment on his recent lifting of the embargo on arms and ammunition. Of course, for selfish reasons, the business men of Texas want to see us annex Mexico, but they realize what a war would mean, and are more than satisfied with our present policy. They do, however, advocate the purchase of a strip of land on the other side of the Rio Grande in order to control that waterway. Many are there who prophecy that the entire northern half of Mexico will secede and join the Union, as did their own state of Texas. But nobody knows; it is all mere speculation.

She—No. But I'd like to see some of those silly people that are always asking questions hung.
