comers on their tour and a clean slate is predicted by the best sport dope. Last night they played Company G of the Iowa National Guard at Fort Dodge, Iowa. The soldier boys are touted as being Iowa's fastest bunch of semi-professionals and a tough game is expected. The team is expected home today.

NEW COMMANDANT APPOINTED FOR NEBRASKA

Strict Disciplinarian—Ranks as a Major—Will Take Charge Next Fall.

Major J. S. Switzer will succeed Lieutenant Bowman as commandant here next year. The above news item will be of interest to all who are intending to extend their military education next year. It will also be of interest to know that Major Switzer comes recommended as a strict disciplinarian.

This is the first time in ten years that a commandant has been assigned a University position who ranks as high as a major. The notice of the appointment was sent to Chancellor Avery by the Secretary of War.

Major Switzer at present is stationed at Fort Crook and comes very highly recommended for the position. He will assume his duties at Nebraska next fall, unless unforeseen circumstances arise which require his attention elsewhere. It is thought that nothing short of war will interfere with the fulfillment of the appointment.

Lieutenant Bowman will rejoin his company after two years' service at Nebraska. The term of service for a university commandant is usually short. Nebraska has been particularly fortunate in obtaining Lieutenant Bowman as the head of the Military Department and his many friends regret that he must return to the regular service.

Matinee dances and breakfast hops are much in vogue at the University of Michigan. How long do students take for breakfast and what time do they get up? Should the hop be defined as a dreamy waltz or a mad rush for the table.—The Drake Daily Delphic.

NEBRASKA ENTITLED TO TWO REPRESENTATIVES

The Fourth International Congress of American Students to Meet in Chile.

P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, in a letter to Chancellor Avery, stated that the executive officers of the universities and colleges in various parts of the country were entitled to the privilege of nominating from among their undergraduates, preferably second semester Juniors, two representatives to the Fourth International Congress of American Students to be held at Santiago, Chile, in July of this year. The United States was not properly represented at the last Congress because the delegation was hastily and unofficially chosen. It is therefore especially desirable that the next delegation be carefully selected in order to establish the most friendly and profitable relations between the United States and the Latin-American countries.

It is expected that the delegates will have to pay their own traveling expenses, but a fund will be provided for the purpose of entertaining the representatives of other countries and to reciprocate courtesies shown.

MYSTERIOUS ENVELOPE CONTAINS $100 BILLS

Loyal Alumnus Gives $200 for Football Team—Will Not Tell Name.

A pleasant and lucrative visit was paid to the Chancellor's office yesterday by an alumnus of many years' standing. After modestly recalling his acquaintance with several members of the faculty, he exchanged a few reminiscences with the office force and handed to the Chancellor an envelope with this inscription: "For the Football Team." Imagine the Chancellor's joyful amazement when, upon opening the letter, he found that it contained two bright and crisp $100 bills. Although the beneficent guest did not remain in the office or even on the campus long enough to receive the many expressions of thanks that were extended to him by the common consent of all who heard about his gift, he carries with him the everlasting gratitude of the entire University community. In conveying the glad news to officers of the administration, and in turning over to the Athletic Board for investment by them this extraordinary tribute to Nebraska's prowess, the Chancellor remarked that the University had not in years received such a token and recalled that the giving of anonymous presents to University activities was once a much-favored custom. Everyone was touched with the fine and unselfish sentiment that prompted this exceptional act, and many expressed the wish that the generous and prosperous given might not have withheld from the public a name to which so much credit and honor is due.

The fraternities at Ann Arbor have broken into factions and are in serious trouble with the faculty. The dispute still remains at a standstill.—Michigan.

ELECTION TUESDAY

CANDIDATES OUT FOR ALL CLASS OFFICES.

POLITICIANS GETTING BUSY

Ross Haskell Out Against Driscoll for Senior Presidency—More Candidates Art Wanted—Why Don't You Run?

Toot! Toot! Look out! Here comes the steam roller. And it's well oiled. The political pot is a-boiling. All the candidates are out in the open, sleeves rolled up, working like mad. With the time of filing only three days off, the fur has begun to fly.

Senior President.

In the Senior class a fine old fight is expected, and looked forward to with not a little anxiety. J. Lynn Driscoll was the first to enter the lists. "Stub" is well known to every Senior. He had been prominent in every phase of class activity since the class was organized. He has been both chairman and master of ceremonies of all University dances, he was business manager of the Daily Nebraskan, he is captain of Cadet Company D, and a member of the Innocents and of Phi Kappa Psi.

Roswell Haskell is the other candidate. He is equally well known. "Ross" is captain of Nebraska's famous point-a-minute basketball team, recently victorious over Minnesota. He is a member of the Innocents and of Delta Upsilon. Both men have a score of "old hands" championing their cause. This makes it interesting. It is the last chance for the 1914 "bosses."

Ivy Day Orator.

Clark Dickinson is out for Ivy Day orator. "Zeke" needs no introduction. He is an experienced speaker, a member of Phi Alpha Tau. He belongs to the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity and the Innocents.

Junior Class President.

The Juniors are no less active. Will Bauman and Herbert Reese are in the race. "Herb" Reese is an athlete. He has been very prominent in Y. M. C. A. circles, the chairman of their finance committee and general secretary of their work at the State Farm.

"Bill" Bauman is an engineer. He was chairman of the recent Junior Prom and is a member of Silver Lynx fraternity. A hot fight is the program here.

Editor of Cornhusker.

Here the fun begins. Heretofore the Junior Managing Editor has inherited the Editor's job as a matter of course. But this year Silas Bryan is after smashing precedent. Leon Samuelson is Junior Managing Editor. He is a member of Sigma Nu. "L" is a Phi Psi and this scrap is not to be any "slouch" affair.

Sophomore Candidates.

But the real fun is coming in the Sophomore class. The big fight is on for Junior Managing Editor. Fred Wells and Harold Schwab are fighting it out to the finish. And it is some scrap. "Fuzz" is an active Sophomore, chairman of last year's hop, an associate editor of the "Rag" and a member of Alpha Theta Chi. "Jake" is equally prominent. He was a member of the Freshman debating team and an alternate on the victorious debating team against Iowa. He is a Phi Alpha Tau and a Delta Tau Delta.
